Trojans Lose Grid Game TO HUSKY SUN-DOGGRERS

Score of 22 to Naught Rolled Up Against Southerners

WILSON STAR OF HUSKIES

Speedy Halfback Earns First Dodge Touchdown Three Minutes After Start of Contest

SEATTLE, Oct. 20.—In a game featured by three goals from field and two touchdowns the University of Washington eleven paralyzed the University of Southern California team here today, winning its first Pacific Coast conference game by a 22 to 0 score.

George Wilson, the speedy left halfback from Everett, earned the first Purple and Gold touchdown three minutes after the start of the contest. The Trojan center, Rice, passed the ball to N. Anderson who fumbled and Kuhn of Washington captured the ball on U. S. C.'s five-yard line.

Tosreau then made three yards through center and George Wilson went through right tackle for the first score.

In the second quarter a forward pass, Wilson to Hall, netted the Washington team thirty-five yards. A second pass, Ziel to Westrom, earned 15 yards for the Washington gridgers. After several line plunges, Sherman crossed the line for the second touchdown. Before the quarter ended the Purple and Gold gained 75 yards at the kick off by Wilson's right end run, the ball resting on the visitor's 25-yard line. Sherman then successfully kicked a goal from field.

Both sides drew penalties. Rough playing in the third quarter resulted in penalties for both sides. After an exchange of punts Ziel passed the ball to Hall, which netted the Washington team 12 yards and put the ball on the Trojan two-yard line. Wilson gained a yard through center, but Washington was penalized for holding. Ziel then kicked another goal from field.

Fumbles were frequent by both sides in the third quarter. A recovered fumble by a Washington player put the ball on U. S. C.'s 15-yard line. Ziel made three yards and then kicked another goal from field. Captain Dolley of the Trojans was the only player for the visitors to get away with a long run. He made 20 yards in the last period.

STRESEMANN PREPARED FOR NEW DIFFICULT JOB

Past Experience Great Aid to Chancellor

ALSO IS READY SPEAKER

Unlike Many German Leaders Stresemann Has Had Much Training in Practical Politics

(Correspondence of The Associated Press)
 BERLIN, Oct. 15.—Doctor Gustav Stresemann, the new chancellor of the German republic, is a thoroughly experienced, catch-as-catch-can politician. He is a ready stammerer, and a facile writer on political subjects.

Unlike many of the German leaders who are heavy with degrees, long on political theories, and inexperienced in the ways of mankind, Chancellor Stresemann has had much training in practical politics.

He speaks the language of the ordinary man and makes extemporaneous speeches which are so terse and direct and so thoroughly characterized by a lack of big, law-breaking words that one would never suspect him of having passed through many of the toughest courses Berlin and Leipzig University offer aspirants for doctorates.

Has Made Much Experience
 But Stresemann has had a lot of hard experience since he deserted the universities. His first job was secretary to the Saxonian association of industrialists. He became a deputy of the Dresden town council and in 1907 was first elected a member of the Reichstag.

His work has thrown him with employers and employees alike. In the universities he specialized in economics and history and in active life he has had abundant opportunity to study the basic commercial and industrial problems which German faces.

Stresemann has been a receptive candidate for high political honors for six years. He had an important part in the removal of Bethmann-Hollweg, and since that time his name has always been among "those mentioned" for prominent cabinet positions.

He was an adherent of the parliamentary system even when it was regarded as impossible in Germany, but he held himself in the background, till the plan for the great coalition came to the fore. He was too canny a politician to hint at his own name as a victim of an improvised government patched up without support from the more liberal elements.

Party Leader After War
 Immediately after the revolution Stresemann became the leader of the German right Party. Backed by the main industries, that party managed to gain a strong position. Sinnes and other magnates stood many times with the purely industrial sections of his own group.

He has always fought vigorously for the unity of the Reich, but he has not insisted for an understanding with German's former enemies, even if heavy financial sacrifices must be the price.

Stresemann was born in Berlin, May 10, 1878. He is above medium height, stockily-built, wears a closely shaven mustache, is erect and well set-up, has firm blue eyes, and carries himself with the ease and assurance that characterize business men of wide experience.

He has a large shaven head. In every way in the appearance of a man of action who enjoys excellent health and radiates enthusiasm.

TWO RANGES IN ONE

Burns Coal, Wood and Gas singly or together—can be exchanged instantly from one fuel to the other without removing or replacing a single part.

A single coal and wood range is wasteful except for winter use. A single gas range is wasteful except for summer use. To combine the two is ideal, and meets the demand of the twentieth century home for "comfort," "convenience," "economy"—all the year 'round. The Duplex Alcazar is a single range, in which gas and coal or wood can be used at the same time, or separately, as desired. It is just the range for your home. There is nothing to lift out or interchange.

Simply pull or push a lever at the lower right-hand side of the range and your oven is ready for use for either fuel. It is as easy as turning on or off the water faucet in your kitchen sink.

LIBRARY COLLECTIONS RARE EXAMPLES of the Best Art of the Twentieth Century

(Correspondence of The Associated Press)
 CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Saved from oblivion through the efforts of a few rare book fanciers who have their possessions, numerous copies of that most famous 16th century contribution to the publishing industry, the Aldine Press, are their way in increasing numbers in the protecting shelves of a library here. They have been transmitted to the Aldine Press was established in 1490, shortly after the invention of printing. The firm was continued for nearly 75 years, first by his son and then his grandson, after the death of the founder. Some 908 works were produced in this time, of which samples, of almost 100 are in the Newberry collection. Aldus specialized in works of Greek and Latin men of literary genius.

Almost as soon as published, the Aldine works were recognized as of unusual merit, according to Dr. Butler. Down through the years these rare volumes have gained increasing popularity, especially those turned out in extra fine workmanship.

The Aldine books made up the original and in some cases the only medium through which works of some of the oldest Greek and Italian writers were transmitted to future generations.

CLUBMEN BEAT GONZAGA

LIGHT TEAM HOLDS RIVALRY TO TEN TO NOTHING

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 20.—Outwitted nearly twenty pounds to a man the small Gonzaga university team held the heavy Multnomah team of Portland to a ten to nothing score today on Multnomah field. Neither team scored in the first period, but early in the third quarter Multnomah made its first score on a dropkick by Jenne, captain and quarter of the club team, from the Gonzaga 20-yard line. It was Jenne's only successful kick out of six tries.

About five minutes before the end of the game a Multnomah player blocked a Gonzaga punt, the ball rolling 20 yards back and over the Gonzaga goal line. Pelouse of Multnomah fell on the ball giving Multnomah a touchdown. Jenne dropkicked the final point after the touchdown.

Chicago Beats Northwestern
 CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Northwestern's aerial attack failed to function in the first three-quarters of play today and the University of Chicago defeated the Purple warriors, 13 to 0. When the passes started to come right for the Purple warriors, towards the end of the last quarter, it was too late for the Maroon defensive held. Twice in the last five minutes of play Northwestern by aerial passes laid the ball inside of Chicago's five-yard line, but both times the Stag men's defensive held and Northwestern was prevented from scoring.

CLIFF SECRETS SOUGHT

EXPLORATIONS UNDER WAY AT MONTEZUMA CASTLE

(Correspondence of The Associated Press)
 PRESCOTT, Ariz., Oct. 17.—Scientists hope to learn more about the people of prehistoric times who occupied the cliff dwellings and who built fortified homes in the rocks of Beaver creek, as a result of explorations now under way at the Montezuma castle, near Camp Verde. It has been announced that the direction of Frank Pinkley, who is in charge of the ruins at Casa Grande, Ariz., Montezuma's castle, a puzzle to archaeologists, is being partially restored and one of its rooms heretofore closed to the public, on account of its dangerous condition, is being explored.

Excavations in this room have revealed many articles which indicate that the early inhabitants were craftsmen. Mr. Pinkley has found pieces of woven cloth, black and dark red in color and a great number of metal objects, used to grind corn by the ancient people, have also been discovered, but these differ in no particular from those found in the Apache ruins throughout the state.

Somewhat Mixed
 The justice of the peace in a town in Ohio, in pursuance of his duties, had to hear and judge the cases that were brought before him and also to perform occasional marriage ceremonies. He found it difficult to associate the various functions of his office.

Everything had gone smoothly until he had asked one bride: "Do you take this man to be your husband?"
 The bride nodded emphatically. "And you, accused," said the justice, turning to the bridegroom, "what have you to say in your defense?"
