Fashionable Men's Brogue Heels Made in Black and Tan Kidskin

Metal Cloth Blouse worn with Boye Kid Slippers

When you consider that during 17 hours out of the 24, or 71 per cent of the day, your feet are encased in shoes, and that over half of this time your foot is supporting the entire weight of the body in either a standing or walking position, then it would seem that shoes are perhaps the most important item of apparel and should be selected with an idea of comfort and health as well as appearance.

The theory that weight makes for warmth or wear has been quite definitely and finally dismissed in so far as wearing apparel is considered. The weight of the shoe does not indicate either warmth or durability. And weight certainly does not promise comfort. Kid leather, for example, is light but it wears longer and is more comfortable than heavier leathers.

Woman's fashion emancipation bears out the truth of this theory and it is in their footwear that a great change has been wrought. The general acceptance, for example, of kid footwear by women speaks its merit. They have found it not only exceedingly smart and neat in appearance, but comfortable, durable, and, in the long run, economical.

Kid footwear is now in demand by men for the same reasons. Since people are beginning to exercise the same caution in examining shoe materials that they employ when buying other apparel it is well to know that kid leather is readily distinguished by the many little pores which are visible in the leather, a characteristic which no other leather has.

For the many whose work is both outdoors and indoors, the shoe of kid leather is ideal because the porous qualities of kid permit the foot to breathe indoors and still be kept sufficiently warm when out of doors. And then, too, kid leather takes a perfect polish, thus prolonging the life of the shoe.

There are so many occasions when only a black shoe is appropriate that the well dressed man is demanding something finer in this line and it is of kid leather that the new patterns are being made. The substantial brogue oxfords formerly made in heavy cumbersome leather, are now shown in kid, giving the appearance of the heavy corded leathers but with the warmth and comfort that only a kid shoe can lend.

After six o'clock in the evening, when only black shoes are seen abroad, the most fastidious man is selecting a plain black kid oxford in the dull finish, for leathers with high gloss is no longer considered smart for the evening hours.

As for the smartly dressed woman, the two-piece ensemble is worn at all hours of the day and night, distinguished only by its more delicate fabric and absence of sleeves in the evening. With this she chooses the plainest pattern in footwear, either an opera pump or one-strap slipper in kidskin. For serviceable street wear, black kid knows no rival. Golden brown kid is particularly smart this season, and for more formal wear it is frequently combined with heel and straps which have been dusted with gold.

The plaid ensemble in the upper right hand corner shows what can be achieved with the delightful new woolen patterns which have taken such a popular place in the mode. The simple one-piece frock snaps on beneath the collar. Last one see too much plaid, a narrow scalloped trimming of beige with shoes, hose, and hat to match, is a pleasing relief. The figure beneath this shows the long ensemble suit, still considered one of the smartest street costumes.

SEX INSTRUCTION IS IMPORTANT

All too Frequently the Child's Natural Desire to Be Enlightened Is Met by Cold Reserve or Rebuff

By DR. D. A. THOM

A large percentage of all mental conflicts and abnormalities in adults and children either are directly caused or are colored by unfortunate attitudes or experience with the ever-present force called sex. There is no force in all mental life that is more urgent in its demands for some expression and none that society, the family, and the individual will allow less freedom.

The very fact that sex as a subject for discussion is always tabooed in the presence of the child accounts for the intense curiosity which many children develop at an early age regarding the subject. All too frequently the child's natural desire to be enlightened on this subject just as freely as on any other is met by cold reserve, a sharp rebuff or a dishonest answer from one who in all other ways is a considerate and wise parent.

It is therefore not surprising that the child soon learns to keep to himself the knowledge he has gained from his own investigations or has gathered from some more sophisticated playmate and soon becomes a self-conscious about his sex life as the parents are themselves.

A little child quickly senses a tense atmosphere and embarrassment on the part of the adults when faced with his eager questions, and because of this he is apt to follow one of two lines. Discouraging those with whom he comes in contact may please him, so that he will continue his questioning at most inopportune times, or he may be made so ill at ease and self-conscious that he determines never to be placed in such a position again if he can help it, and therefore ceases to bring his puzzles and problems to his parents, who should stand ready to help him over the hard places. Because he stops his questioning and seems uninterested is no sign that he is no longer filled with curiosity over these mysterious things which seem to be so shocking. He may be quietly using every means available to find out in other ways the answers which he wants to know but which he will no longer ask.

The parents must free themselves so far as possible from self-consciousness when the subject is mentioned. Clear, frank answers suited to the child's intelligence and development will satisfy his interest for the moment, whereas emphasizing the matter by "hushing the child up" and telling him it is "naughty" to talk of such things will make him only more determined to find out why, and what it is all about.

Some Selected Recipes

- Sausage and Fried Apples
Fry the required number of small sausages, and in some of the fat as many halved, cored, and unpeeled apples as required, first dipping them in flour to which a little sugar has been added. Fry until soft and browned. Place on a hot serving dish with two small sausages on each half.
- Scrambled Potatoes and Eggs
Dice left-over potatoes and saute in a little butter, fat, or oil. Push them to one side of the pan and scramble an egg or two, combining them with the potatoes at the last minute.
- Swiss Eggs
To one tablespoonful of butter melted in a small skillet, add one-half cupful of cream or top milk; when simmering, slip four eggs in carefully, one at a time. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, and a dash of cayenne, and when nearly set, with two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese. When cooked as you like them, take up on rounds of hot, buttered toast, shake parsley on liberally, sprinkle with minced parsley and sweet pepper, and pour the cream around.
- Kumquat Jelly
Cover the fruit with water, cook until tender enough to pierce with a straw, and remove the fruit for crystallizing. Strain the juice and cook cup for cup, with sugar, till

- it reaches the jelly stage, about ten minutes. Pour into glasses. It is very attractive, pale amber color and is pleasingly tart.
- Saute Peppers
To saute bell peppers, remove skins and take out seeds; shred. Saute with corn, canned or cut from cob. Use butter, oil or any tasty fat and if you like them tiny an style, add garlic or onions in the oil.
- Corn Pudding
To prepare a corn pudding, mix one can of corn with one cup milk and one egg, one teaspoon salt, one to two tablespoons butter, pepper and parsley, one tablespoon cornstarch and one teaspoon of sugar may be used. Bake in a slow oven until firm, or place the dish in a pan of hot water and bake.
- The Waste Basket
It saves time and effort to take the trouble to spread a newspaper inside the wastebasket to serve as lining. The complete contents may then be emptied out easily and will leave the basket clean. Sometimes a child will throw an apple core or something else messy into the wastebasket which will cause trouble unless the basket is protected. A grocer sack serves well as a lining for the waste basket. With the hands it should be spread out and fitted carefully.
- A step-saving kitchen may be had by having a hook for everything and everything on its hook.
