UNIVERSITY LIBRARIAN SUGGESTS COUNTY UNIT Development of Service Is Big Movement... SUCCESSES POINTED OUT Circulation of Books to Various Branches in County Held Important Factor... Mr. Douglas at the close of his address suggested that the movement might well be taken up in this county as it has been in other counties of Oregon where it has proved successful.

portant movement of its kind in the last 20 years," said the speaker. "The aims and methods of the county library are much the same as those of the city or town. The difference is that in the case of the former, the county is the unit for support and operation instead of the municipality. Branches Established "Details vary in different states but in general the plan is this: The central county library is established at the county seat or in a metropolitan and placed under the charge of a competent librarian whose duty it is to see that suitable library service is given to all localities of the county. Just as a city library establishes its branches in various neighborhood trade centers and its deposit stations in less populous districts, so the county library establishes its branches and stations in the various towns and neighborhoods of the county. In some cases arrangements are made through contact with the municipal library of the county seat, to furnish service to the entire county. This is the case in Portland, Hood River and the Dalles. In some cases the county library is started from the beginning as a separate organization. In several states any municipality already maintaining a library may be excluded from the county library system unless it elects to become a part of it. The advantages of the county system are mainly to residents of the smaller towns and districts. Advantages Pointed Out "The following are a few of these advantages: 1. More intelligent and more complete service can be given to these communities than if they have to depend upon what the state library can do for them through its traveling libraries, supplemented by loans from its general collection. 2. With the county as the tax unit, higher grade librarians can be secured. For instance, Hood River county, Wasco county, Unita county, Deschutes county, can afford well trained librarians, while the city of Hood River, The Dalles, Pendleton or Bend, would not feel that they could. The benefits of an expert administrator go to all points in the county. 3. There is economy in that a given collection of books serves more people. We do not have a county library here. Eugene, Springfield, Cottage Grove, each has its own library. The works in one collection do not serve the people of the three towns. Cottage Grove may purchase some books of interest to a few readers there. When these few have read them they lie idle on the shelves and are not made available for readers of Springfield, Eugene, Junction City, and the county communities, as they would under the county system. 1926 to Be Big Year Mr. Douglas touched at length on the subject of the "American Public Library" and said that next year the American Library association would celebrate its 50th anniversary. Large and important developments are expected in 1926 in the library movement throughout the United States. The educational program of the public libraries has been taken up by organized labor and is being stressed among workers and young people who have quit school. The speaker gave details of work being accomplished in some of the big industrial centers of the United States in connection with adult education.

EUGENE MAY GET MONEY

SENATOR STANFIELD HAS BILL FOR POSTOFFICE FUND

One Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars Asked for in Bill Introduced in Congress A bill for an appropriation of $150,000 to build an addition to the Eugene postoffice has been introduced in congress by United States Senator Robert N. Stanfield, according to a telegram received by the Morning Register from the senator yesterday. His message reads: "I have just introduced a bill carrying an appropriation of $150,000 for improvement and extension to the postoffice building in Eugene. I will do my best to secure this appropriation, knowing the need for more room at the postoffice. This improvement was recommended by postoffice inspectors some time ago. The building has long been crowded and it is pronounced to be wholly inadequate to meet the growing needs of the office."

SCOUT EXECUTIVE TALKS

C. R. CLARK SPEAKER AT PIONEER MEETING C. R. Clark, executive of the Lane county council of Boy Scouts, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Pioneer Scout club last night. Mr. Clark stressed the boy's place in society and impressed them with the duties and obligations they had in their homes, to themselves, to their churches, to their city, to their God and to their country. "No boy can be equipped to assume the responsibilities of manhood unless he is wide awake, physically fit and morally straight," said the speaker. He also pointed out that between the ages of 12 and 20 boys were going through an experience in life a development that will never again be equaled in the span of life. "Habits formed now, and acquaintances made, are the ones that are going to tell in the wind," he concluded, "and if the boy does not show individuality now he will never have any."

PETE SNEDECOR INURED EN ROUTE TO CITY Pioneer Boys' Chorus Entertains With Songs; Portland President Is Speaker Started off with a group of songs by the Pioneer boys' chorus under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dorke. Rotarians of Eugene and Roseburg held a jollification meeting at the Osburn hotel last night. Due to an accident in which Pete Snedcor, former president of the International Rotary was injured, while en route to Eugene, the business which had been arranged principally for his scheduled address. R. A. Booth took the chairmanship for the evening and gave the address of welcome to the Roseburg Rotarians. J. A. McIntock responded on behalf of his associates. Women of Rotary were present also. The local members were conspicuous by their caps. Al Reynolds, president of the Portland Rotary club gave the principal speech of the evening following a banquet in the main dining room of the hotel. Community singing was led by David John Jones, superintendent of the Eugene public schools. Miss Kathleen Powell and Miss Anna Katherine Garrett entertained with a skit entitled "Dutch Fun," much to the amusement of the Rotarians. The Pioneer boys put on their part of the program at 7 o'clock and sang the following songs, some of which had been recently improvised: "America the Beautiful," "Smiles," "Mother's an Apple Pie Maker," "The Men from Roseburg," "Beautiful Eugene." ARCHITECTS STOP HERE

REPRESENTATIVES OF AMERICAN INSTITUTE IN EUGENE Visitors Entertained by Members of Faculty of School of Architecture at University Representatives of the American Institute of Architecture spent three hours on the University of Oregon campus before leaving for California on their tour of the country. This was the first visit to the west for the majority of the members and they said they enjoyed the reception on the campus very much. All were from the east or south. This was their first contact with western architectural problems. The visitors were entertained by members of the faculty of the school of architecture and members of the schools of art and architecture at a breakfast given at the Eugene hotel. The method of instruction used in the school of architecture was one of the things which proved of interest to the visiting members of the institute. The system places the students on their honor and removes them from the competitive individual work in the foundation of the plan. The east has avoided this plan of instruction and it has remained for the west to introduce and use it extensively. It has proved very successful, according to instructors in the university school of architecture. At the breakfast C. C. Zantinger of Philadelphia and for many years chairman of the educational committee of the American Institute was the inspiration at the meeting and gave the principal address. He predicted a great future in western architecture and was quite favorably impressed with the work of the department at Oregon although not approving of the system of instruction entirely.

LOGGING CAMPS CLOSE

ANNUAL HOLIDAY SHUTDOWN IS COMING SOON Number of Unemployed Men in Larger Cities Is Steadily Increased Says I-L Report The approach of the annual holiday shutdown of fir logging camps was to be noted last week when several west coast camps were closed and one or more logging sides laid off at others, according to the I-L weekly employment letter received here yesterday. Approximately 600 men were laid off, the letter said. The numbers of unemployed men in the larger cities is steadily being increased by continued arrivals of men from other districts, the letter stated, and there are practically no jobs for the newcomers. In the inland Empire, where sawmilling is being brought to a seasonal close, and where few woods operations are running, the situation is even more acute than on the coast, according to the I-L report. Spokane reports a large number of unemployed men in that city, and almost no jobs of any kind to be had. Based on the average of the number of men employed for December of the past three years the situation is normal.

FRUIT GROWER RETURNS

J. O. HOLT TO SURVEY CAR NEEDS IN COUNTY Survey of the railroad car needs for the vegetable and canned goods industry of Lane county will be made in the near future by J. O. Holt, manager of the Eugene Fruit Growers' association, who returned yesterday from Seattle after attending the advisory board of the American Railway association. "The meeting was a success and it is hoped that problems pertaining to proper rail car distribution will be solved," Mr. Holt said. "One of the major problems of car distribution on the coast is that there is more produced here than is consumed. This means there are more loaded cars going east than there is coming west. "The problem of getting the empties back was the particular question taken up by the board."
