BRIDGE HELD ASSURED

PROJECT TO BE UP FOR VOTE AT MAY ELECTION

Busy Year for Springfield Is Forecast Made by Mayor Bushman; Street Lights to Be Installed

(Register Lane County Special) SPRINGFIELD, Ore., Dec. 10.—The Willamette river bridge at Springfield, which is now under consideration by the state highway commission, is practically assured.

One of the main improvements scheduled to be completed during the coming year is the ornamental light system proposed for Main street.

A sidewalk improvement program similar to that carried out this year, in which most of the wooden walks in the city were condemned and replaced with concrete, will probably be started again next year, said the mayor.

Plans for the expansion of the Springfield Lumber company plant here were announced today by officials of the firm.

Additional docks will be built by the company and new machinery, including a new motor and a saw mill will be purchased.

The company was formed a year ago and has shown rapid growth during the year it has been in existence.

From no business the trade of the mill has been increased to now 50 carloads of lumber are handled monthly, according to officials.

About 15 men are employed by the company now and this number will be increased as soon as the expansion is made.

Three new members were taken into the Springfield circle of the Neighbors of Woodcraft at a meeting held here last night.

The three women are Mrs. M. J. France, Miss Ruth France and Mrs. Eiva Adams.

The meeting last night was a festive one for lodges in the vicinity. Delegations were present from Eugene, Coquille, Jasper, Junction City and Creswell. More than 100 persons attended the meeting.

CHAS. DAWES WILL CARRY ON FOR RULES REFORM

His Position Unique in History of High Office

TOOK FIGHT TO COUNTRY

Most Vice-Presidents of the Past Have Been Content to Merely Preside Over Senate

(Correspondence of the Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—In his role of crusader for reform of the rules of the senate, Vice President Charles G. Dawes will occupy at the approaching session of congress a position unique in the history of his high office.

Most vice presidents of the past have been content to merely preside over the senate without undertaking to influence the affairs of that august body.

But Mr. Dawes with characteristic vigor threw down the gauntlet last March 4, and since he has taken his fight to the country.

Since he has neither voice nor vote in senate affairs—except in the event of a tie ballot—there is no small amount of speculation as to how he will proceed further with his campaign.

His idea has been that if the people could get the facts about the rule permitting a one man filibuster they would bring sufficient pressure to bear to have that rule changed.

As the congress assembles there is no indication, however, that there has been any material change in the senate sentiment on this point and leaders on both sides say frankly there is little likelihood that any effort at modification will make headway during the new session.

Lectures Fresh in Mind Opponents of any change in the rules, Republicans as well as Democrats, have not forgotten the lecture which the vice president read to the senate in the presence of the president, the supreme court, the house and the diplomatic corps and the abrupt manner in which he swept aside the time-honored custom of swearing in new senators in small groups.

Administration leaders during the brief session of the senate last March were able to hold off any open and vitriolic attacks on Mr. Dawes from the floor such as some senators had planned but they expect some efforts at the "hazing" of the vice president during the next few months.

The gulf which was opened between the vice president and some senators on March 4 has been widened by the campaign he has conducted during the summer in the states of some senators who come up for reelection next year.

These senators naturally have not taken kindly to this campaign and they can be counted upon to oppose the vice president in his rules fight with all of the vigor and influence at their command.

Dr. Dawes has some support in the senate itself for a modification of the rule under which a single senator at the close of a session can block legislation or even at any time in the session long delay a final vote by means of a filibuster.

Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Republican floor leader, and Senator Underwood of Alabama, a former Democratic leader, favor a change in the rules, but they concede that there is an overwhelming sentiment in the senate against any change that will put a check on the right of senators to speak as long and as often as they may desire on any subject.
