

BERLENBACH SUCCESSFUL IN DEFENSE OF TITLE

Delaney and Champion Fight Fast 15-Round Match

CHEERING GREETS BOXER

New York Man Knocked Down by Challenger's Blows in Vicious Encounter

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—The Berlenbach-Delaney fight by rounds follows:

Round one: Delaney was given a rousing ovation as he was introduced to the throng which packed the new garden. The challenger was forced to rise and bow three times before the cheering subsided. Delaney danced around the champion for half a minute without a blow being landed. Delaney crossed his right but Berlenbach caught it going away. Both appeared cautious and the crowd roared for action. Delaney landed two weak left jabs and the champion countered with a left to the body without damage. They were dancing at the bell. It was a tame round.

Round nine: Delaney danced and jabbed around the champion. Berlenbach missed a left hook. They wrestled and clinched as the crowd boomed. Delaney slipped as he danced away from Berlenbach but he got right face. Berlenbach rushed Delaney to a corner and had the better of a wild exchange. Delaney knocked Berlenbach down with a well timed right to the jaw and the champion took a count of three before he came up. Blood trickled from his mouth. It was a vicious blow. Delaney was cool as he started to deliver the blow that would change the championship but Berlenbach covered completely. The bell rang with the fighters dancing cautiously.

Round five: Delaney jabbed with his left and Berlenbach backed away. A tantalizing jab brought fresh blood from Delaney's nose. Delaney cleverly blocked a left head and kept sticking his left jab into Berlenbach's face. Another stinging jab sent the champion into a clinch. A well delivered right sent Berlenbach to his heels. Both bled as the fight assumed faster proportions. Delaney staggered Berlenbach with his wicked right just before the bell.

Round six: Berlenbach stuck his right jab into Delaney's face and the challenger slipped to the ring in going away. Delaney continued to torment the champion with his tantalizing jab. Delaney was boxing cleverly and the champion could not set for a punch. Another well timed right to the jaw forced Berlenbach to clinch. A second one knocked him to the ropes. Berlenbach landed his left to the nose and the blood flowed more freely. Berlenbach landed a vicious body blow as the bell ended the round.

Round seven: Berlenbach rushed at his challenger with flying fists, landing both to the face but Delaney boxed himself away. Berlenbach sank a left to Delaney's mid section but Delaney turned the champion around with a right to the jaw. Two smacking left jabs stung Berlenbach. Another crashing right caught Berlenbach on the jaw and he backed away. The challenger started an uppercut but it went wild. Delaney was stabbing away as the bell rang.

Round twelve: Berlenbach's right eye was puffed double as he came up. The champion was moving away when Delaney crossed a right. Delaney put over another jab and the champion's right eye all but closed. Delaney punched Berlenbach at will in a fierce exchange in the center of the ring, rocking his head back and forth with straight leads and uppercuts. Delaney's right eye started to swell as Berlenbach's left played its tattoo on the cheek bone. A short jabbing left floored Delaney as he was coming in but he was up with a count just before the bell rang.

Punches Are Wild: Round thirteen: Berlenbach started to punch wildly and chased his challenger around the ring. A stinging left spun Delaney around but he pulled into a clinch. Both continued to jab away with lefts. The champion was growing stronger as he battered Delaney with both hands. The blood flowed freely from Delaney's nose as Berlenbach's jabs landed to the face. Delaney landed a weak right at the bell.

They Touched Hands: Delaney speared over his jab to Berlenbach's eye and danced away from a return. A right to the body doubled Delaney. They clinched. Another right to the jaw and Berlenbach sagged. They hammered away mercilessly to Berlenbach's corner. An uppercut drove Berlenbach into a clinch. Both landed crashing dives at the champion's jaw. The fans roared at the furious exchange. A weak right to the heart caught Berlenbach coming in. They stood toe to toe and punched at the face. They were dancing at the bell.

Round fifteen: The junior team of the Eugene high school won the interschool basketball championship by defeating the senior team 27 to 15. The junior team went through the season without a defeat.

Regular basketball practice will start Monday. There are two lettermen back from last year—Barnes and Coleman—to build the team around. Some good material showed up in the interclass games.
