O. A. C. PLANS TRIP BARNSTORMING WILL START DECEMBER 20

(By The Associated Press) CORVALLIS, Ore., Dec. 12.—The Oregon Agricultural college basketball team, which has already opened the season winning an early non-conference game with Albany college, 22 to 11, leaves December 20 for its third Christmas barnstorming tour through California.

In the Realm of Sports

It is claimed by sports writers that the poor showing made by "Red" Grange in the game of the Chicago Bears against the Providence grid team was due to jealousy on the part of his teammates that they gave him no support. It often works out that way. We have seen Ty Cobb left high and dry between bases when other Detroit players refused to cooperate with him in a squeeze play.

Campus games at Hayward field are due to become a memory if the present rate of scheduling games away from home is maintained. Assuming as it may seem, Oregon and Washington have signed a ten-year contract whereby the annual games between the two teams will alternate between Seattle and Portland. In the light of this compact it would appear that campus traditions are due for the toboggan. Why not station the Oregon team at Portland and have done with the myth that it plays any part in the activities of the student body?

Ringside followers who read the details of the Beronbach-Delaney fight just naturally wonder how the referee had the hardihood to award the decision to the much-mauled champion.

As usual, Eugene sets the worst of it in the conference schedule grabbing the only major honors awarded for the home campus is that to be waged with Stanford here. It was Washington's turn to come down here but instead the Multnomah club grabs this exhibition. It has repeatedly been demonstrated that after the club has had its drag at the game and other incidentals of expenses of the Oregon team are met, there is little mazzina left as a result of these grid defections. And besides it deprives the poor student of a chance to see his team in action in a game that obviously belongs on the campus. How long are the students going to stand for this sort of football buncombe?

On next Wednesday the Multnomah Anglers and Hunters' club of Portland will stage its annual dinner and conference. At this time a discussion of the merits and demerits of the proposed same referee bill will be staged by Game Warden C. Averill and Captain Burghardt. It may be stated in parenthesis that Lane sportsmen are unalterably opposed to this bill.

Wilson, right half back of Washington, and Nevers, fullback of Stanford, were granted places on the 1925 all-star football team by the Big Three board. Thus do the coast and northern colleges get recognition which formerly went to eastern teams. Honorable mention was accorded Mautz, Oregon end and to Jones, Oregon fullback. Oregon was slow in getting her stride but the team made a whirlwind finish.

It is estimated that 22,000 people witnessed the annual Oregon O. C. grid struggle. The season month which is evidence of the fact that Eugene is capable of drawing a big gate to these games. Another point in favor of the campus game is the factor of small expense incident to the home schedule.

ST. MARY'S DEFEATED

MANY PENALTIES GIVEN IN LOS ANGELES GAME

(By The Associated Press) LOS ANGELES COLISEUM, Dec. 12.—University of Southern California's football eleven captured a 12 to 0 score over the record of St. Mary's college of Oakland here today in a game that piled up a high water mark for penalties, passes and poor punting. The session provided an opportunity for Morton Kaer, Trojan halfback, to boost his year's scoring record to the top notch of the entire United States. He topped the list, according to official figures, with 114 points, leading Eddie Tryon of Colgate, who has 111. The U. S. C. team came within six points of equalling the high scoring record of 431 points held by University of Washington.

OFFICIALS NAMED FOR NEXT YEAR'S GAMES

Large Colleges Withdraw From Conference

(By The Associated Press) SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 12.—Withdrawal of the large universities from the Northwest intercollegiate athletic conference, selection of some officials for next year's conference football games and election of new officers for the Pacific coast intercollegiate athletic conference were discussed today at the annual meeting of the annual meetings until next year.

When the large universities, including Washington, Washington State college, the University of Idaho, Gonzaga university and the University of Montana withdrew from the Northwest conference, the smaller colleges announced that they had already organized and would retain the name and the eligibility requirements of the conference.

Officials of all colleges concerned emphasized the fact that the move was entirely harmonious and for mutual advantage. For some time there has been dissatisfaction with the old conference in which large institutions were matched with small schools. A resolution was passed that Pacific coast conference teams must play at least four games with other conference schools in order to have their schedules considered of conference standard.

An effort will be made to select athletic officials as far in advance as possible and also to keep them without permitting changes in arrangements. George J. Varnell, who has officiated in football games in the Northwest for 18 years, was again authorized to represent the far west at the national football rules committee meeting. H. A. Gardner, of Washington State college, was elected president of the Pacific coast conference; M. F. Angell, University of Idaho, secretary.
