Treating Common Colds

Use a nasal douche. Since colds are so prevalent, this is a pretty good program for every night. Plenty of sleep, fresh air, and laxative diet are the best remedies for the common cold. If we get an uncommon cold more strenuous measures are needed. Even the common, or vegetable variety, of cold is serious, for it lessens bodily vigor and may leave some lasting ailment in its wake.

Play "Penrod" Staged Friday. Jamboree Collected for Needy. Polecat Dispensing Odors. Hoop Team Schedules Games.

You don't know what you have missed by not looking the first semester of last year. It's just a matter of time to be a fish! And we, fishes, have a shark teacher; we regret very much this course too. Thursday the fish had a public shower on their heads and they are all the better for it. Each little fish read a poem or story about Christmas. The water fish were so delighted with the poems that they flapped their fins merrily about and started in and out the rocks. Miss Margaret McCullough was in charge of the graduation exercises and the fish were graduated into whales. She was presented a picture by the president of the class because of her splendid work throughout the semester.

The play "Penrod" will be given by the dramatic club next Friday in the high school auditorium. The scenery has been put up and everything straightened for the play. The parts have been well chosen and as it is an exceptionally humorous comedy it should draw a large crowd.

On Friday nearly two hundred and fifty people, including students, parents and friends, thrilled and sympathized with Penrod and Sam as they got into trouble and as they made trouble and were so cruelly misunderstood. All were surprised when suave Mr. Dade turned out to be a "sneaker."

Margaret, the sister of Penrod, played a very attractive part. She was very fond of Henry Hamilton. Dade until it was discovered he was a crook. Then she turned again to her playmate since childhood, Bob Williams. Bob was just home from college and very much in love with Margaret. He was surprised to find her so infatuated with Mr. Dade.

Canned and fresh fruit, nuts and other things which might be useful to the needy this year, are being collected by the junior class. At the end of the week those things will be turned over to Mrs. Ady who will distribute them for Christmas.

Beginning the first of January, the physics class will experiment with the plans of individual instruction using Room 16 for study purposes and Room 8 for discussion and experimentation. Under this plan class recitations will be held only at intervals of several days, each student being allowed to proceed as rapidly as his own ability and initiative permits.

Several new practice teachers will take charge of the science classes of University High school during the next term. Miss Bessie Andrew will have charge of the 8 o'clock general science class. The 9 o'clock division of general science, which is now being taught by Mr. Carleton will be divided. Mr. Carleton retained one division with Miss Mildred Whitcomb taking charge of the other. The chemistry class will be taught by Miss Caldwell and Miss Guild, former teacher of the 11 o'clock Biology class will be succeeded by Miss Violet Reed.

An experiment is being made in the junior III mathematics class by Miss Shupp and Miss Richardson, to see which would be the better in regard to having the supervised study periods at the beginning or the end of the hour.

Tom May's team was victorious over Bobbie Walden's team when the eleven o'clock French class had a spelling match over the vocabularies in Meras.

The usual routine of textbook work was dispensed with in the one o'clock U. S. history class when the teacher read "Tennessee's Partner" by Bret Harte, in connection with the westward movement which the class will study next semester, under the supervision of a new teacher. As the period was not up "The Lost Lead" was also read.

Mrs. Edna Assenheimer and Dean Condon will start Saturday for their home town, Gardner, where they will spend the holidays. During the last few days of her vacation Mrs. Assenheimer will attend the Oregon state teacher's association at Portland.

Slides were shown the pupils of Mr. Carleton's eight o'clock general science class Wednesday. The slides were in regard to evolution, heredity, prehistoric animals, and Burbank's work.

Louise Pierce and Golda Hartley are the captains in the eleven o'clock geometry class under the supervision of Miss Filson. The captains assist the students on their team certain problems and the pupil getting the most correct solution will be given two points for his side. However, if one way to solve a problem seems as good as the other way each side will be given one point. This method is being used until a certain group of problems have been finished.

An old basket ball was unearthed in the office recently by the principal, Mr. Moore, as there was a hole in it. It was patched and now has been willed to the girls for their practice and all boys were ordered to keep hands off.

nothing more. Possibly the fact that her lunch has mysteriously disappeared lately is an explanation for her action. But yet, I think not because she is inclined to be a bit chubby. Perhaps she is trying to reduce. I'll wager that is the reason. Well, it's not a bad one at that.

Owing to the fact that the university students had their examinations last week, the seventh and eighth grade gymnasium classes did not have gym on Thursday.

"My goodness! Look at their cute little red bibs. I wish I was on your side so I could wear one of those!" There were some of the exclamations made in the eleventh and twelfth grade gym classes, Monday afternoon. The girls played hockey and they seemed to enjoy it very much in spite of the fact that many suffered from skinned shins.

The University high school basketball team is scheduled to play tonight this season. The games they are to play are: January 13, Springfield on U. H. S. floor; January 16, Roseburg on U. H. S. floor; January 23, Cottage Grove on U. H. S. floor; January 29, Roseburg on Roseburg floor; February 6, Albany on U. H. S. floor; February 12, Cottage Grove on Cottage Grove floor; February 18, Eugene on Eugene floor; February 25, Albany on Albany floor; March 2, Eugene on U. H. S. floor.

Say, did you ever put your hand under a desk or under a table and come in close contact with a sticky, gooey wad? Yes you say look stern, Mr. so have I! Gum on desks is just about twice as bothersome as gum in mouths, for then the gum only bothers while the student is chewing which is generally only for one period. But gum-on-desks is a bother for ever and ever or until the wad of Wrigley's hardens. Let's make a try on Life Savers and let up on gum for a change, huh?

A change has been made in the afternoon class schedule. Recitations begin at one o'clock sharp. This is ten minutes earlier than according to the former schedule. At 1:55 the students report to their respective rooms for twenty minutes. This period may be used for supervised study if there is no class business.

The grade cards for this six weeks will be ready to hand out immediately after the holidays announced Mr. Moore last Wednesday. The cards will not be handed out until after Christmas so that none of them will be lost, however if any of the students want to see their grades they will be able to obtain them from the office.

Because of the crowded condition of the hall between classes the lockers on one side were moved into a less crowded section. This gives the halls about one additional foot in width so that rushing students may reach their classes unimpeded.

Slides were shown to Miss Peterson's United States history class last Tuesday, on the Civil war which they had just finished studying. Among them were pictures of many battles that were fought showing the numbers of dead and also the way the wounded were cared for. It brought out the splendid work of the women in attending the wounded and also showed what a terrible thing war was.

The slides were obtained from the extension department in the University of Oregon.

Another change has been wrought upon our school in connection with the roll rooms. School is dismissed at 11:45 classes begin at one o'clock. At 1:55 roll is held for twenty minutes. Then at 2:15 sixth period begins. Roll is taken in the roll rooms so it is not advisable to cut.

Vacation is upon us with all its parties, gifts and merry times. Sixteen days or four hundred and eight hours to enjoy one's self and to make up in lost sleep—if any has been lost. Now is the time when all students of the school, all business men forget business, all workers forget work, all in celebration of the annual giving and receiving of gifts.

When we return on the fourth of January, 1926, it will be with new resolutions and ideals, ready for heavy work until the next big vacation which comes in the spring. Everyone will settle down to work and really dig in. So, no more enjoy ourselves, and get rested up for another working spell. The Register newswriting class wishes every one a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

At the Dramatic club meeting Laddie Rogers was chosen for general property manager and Sylvia Kerley, advertising manager. Margaret Underwood will take charge of the tickets and those selling them.

Those who were chosen as ushers were: Eimiliano Rover, Doris Hardy, Alice Carter and Margaret Hu.

Important periodicals are now studied by the students of Miss Cool's newswriting class. Each student is assigned a different magazine to report on. Some of the points that are stressed are cover, advertisements, circulation, etc.

Woodrow Wilson Junior High

Christ Picture Presented. Noon Hoop Games Start. School Orchestra to Appear. Girls' Rest Room Provided.

W. A. Elkins, member of the school board, this week presented Wilson Junior high with a beautiful picture of Christ. The picture will be formally presented to the school by Mr. Eaton on behalf of Mr. Elkins at the Christmas assembly. It has been decided to hang the picture in the study hall where the light is best and where the largest number of students will have the opportunity to see it. This is the first picture presented to the school since its opening. All the pictures add much to the beauty of the building.

A number of the class rooms have taken on a holiday atmosphere with the addition of Christmas trees and holly to the decorations. It has almost become a tradition in Miss Schneider's room to have a beautifully decorated tree standing only two or three feet high. This year the tree does not follow the conventional shape, but is quite up to tradition as far as size and beauty is concerned.

Soane's pupils have gathered moss, ferns and flowers and put in the fern tray that has been standing in the hall. After the plants get a good start they will be returned to the hall.

The noon-hour basketball games scheduled for the next few weeks began Monday. A large crowd of enthusiastic rooters were on hand at each game and interest was high. These games are among the different gym classes and when the final game is played the survivor of the series will be declared the champion team of the gym classes. As soon as volleyball equipment is secured, Miss Agee will arrange two games of volleyball a week for her gym classes, the boys playing basketball on the other days.

The object of these games is to provide activity for the students at noon during the bad weather when they cannot be outdoors and to give an opportunity to many students to play who would not be able to make the regular squad which will represent the school in the big games this winter.

More than 40 boys have turned out for basketball in the hopes of making the squad. Mr. Dawson has cut this number to about 25 and will eliminate other until fifteen of the best players available are left on the squad. After the final squad has been chosen efforts will be devoted to perfecting team play. Mr. Dawson is being helped in his coaching work after school by Harold A. Rowley, former Oregon Agricultural college man, who is giving his time to the work.

The Wilson Junior high school orchestra with its membership of 22 players will make its fourth public appearance at the Christmas assembly and is now practicing music to be played at that time. The orchestra is being directed by the eighth period on Wednesday and Friday of each week under the direction of Mr. Landles. Its instrumentation and membership is as follows: violins, Clover Landon, Frieda Koster, Fred Falls, Edna Mathews, Margaret Mahany, Doris Turner, Clara Kercher, Betty Creecher, Bernice Ingalls, Elton Ferncr, Katherine Halle, Robert Adams, Catherine Strick, piano, Willetta Shumway, Barbara Hansen; saxophone, Eldon Woodin, Alvin Leaders; cornet, Marlin Norris; clarinet, Sam Glenn; bells; Lorena Hornshull; drums; Donald Caswell, and Elmo Bay.

A small room on the second floor is to be fitted up soon for a girls' rest room. All the furnishings are to be provided by girls of Miss Agee's gym class. It is expected that the room will become one that all the girls will be proud of and that will provide a much needed addition to the facilities of the building.

A committee of teachers consisting of Mrs. Morrow, Miss Groves and Miss Agee is working on plans to provide the lady teachers' rest room with furniture.

Eight art screens to be used in the art room and on the auditorium stage have been made in the manual training department recently. Four benches to be used in the boys' and girls' dressing rooms have also been made and work has been started on a typewriter table for the office. The manual training department is busy one these days with boys working before and after school in order to complete projects intended to serve as Christmas presents for the home folks. Even on Saturday a number of boys spend considerable time in the shop.

Tables in the home economics department are laden with fine candles made by the students under the supervision of Mrs. Hillman and Miss Ladley. These candles will be sold before the holidays to students and patrons of the school and the money turned back to the department for further practice work. Much of the better kinds of candles will be boxed and sold to patrons, but the rest will be sold in the halls.

Order of Owls Holds Meet. Student Body Gives Party. Christmas Program Arranged. Alarm Clock Slips a Cog.

(Register Lane County Special) CREWELL, Ore., Dec. 18.—The order of the Owls held a short business meeting Monday afternoon. Norman Howe was elected, sergeant-at-arms and the reports of the various committees were given. A very helpful feature of the meeting was the critic's report, given by Mrs. Kirkham, the adviser of the society.

A student body party will be held in the school house Saturday night. Owing to the fact that it is almost Christmas, it is rumored that the funds of the student body are to be generously used in the purchase of ice cream and other dainties. A good crowd is assured.

McMorrin & Washburne Store

"EUGENE'S OWN STORE"

The reason for all this was the absence of Mr. Scott from his regular post by the furnace. Such a thing has never before happened in the history of man, and all sincerely hope that the alarm clock, which received the blame for this phenomenon, will slip a cog again quite soon.
