COUNCIL MEETING BUSY

CONTRACT FOR BRIDGE ON SOUTH WILLAMETTE LET

Improvement Assessments and Ordinances Passed; Committee Sees Need of Building Code

Haines Brothers, contractors, were the successful bidders on the bridge over the Amazon slough on South Willamette street at the meeting of the city council last night. Their bid calls for an expenditure of $2780.

Several improvement ordinances and assessments were passed. They include the construction of sewers in the alley between Second and Third avenues betwen Pearl and Mill streets at a cost of $457.14; First and Second avenues between Pearl and Mill streets, at a cost of $1621.46; Polk street to Railroad boulevard, costing $1104.34. Ordinances were passed in regard to the prevention of fires, plastering of houses and chimney building.

The city school board asked permission to gravel the road which fronts the Woodrow Wilson junior high school with the help of the city. It was pointed out that the students must cross the road through the mud while going to and from school. This was turned over to the road committee.

A. F. Williamson, councilman, declared the building committee needed a new code to cope with the prevailing situation. This is due, he stated to unionizing of the various labor organizations which have their code of building. This was left until a later meeting.

One objection was given to the proposed opening of an alley from Willamette street to Olive, back of the Eugene hospital, thus holding the matter up until later.

A delegation designated as the Blair boulevard delegation, was present and gave its views on the Van Buren project. It is their desire to place a sign in a conspicuous place showing tourists the way to Blair boulevard and into the city. This sign would be placed on Third street, which is paved only part way toward the city highway. No action was taken, however.

The request of the Standard Oil company to place a service station at the corner of Ninth avenue east and Pearl street was held up until later, because if the petition is granted, the city ordinance covering this will have to be changed.

The complaint against the Willamette Valley Transfer company was settled satisfactorily. The company promised to refrain from parking on the city streets and to gravel the alley in question.

T. C. Luckey was granted permission to place an aerial at his home.

AUTO PARK PETITION UP

PETITION ASKS THAT CAMP BE ABANDONED

Four Hundred Names on Paper Presented to Council at Meeting Last Night

A petition signed by approximately 400 business men and residents of Eugene was presented to the city council at its meeting last night by Donald Young, requesting that the city of Eugene no longer retain and operate the auto camp which is located north of Skinner's butte.

It was pointed out by Mr. Young that the auto camp served a purpose when installed, but due to the private enterprises near and in the city which run in competition to it and serve the same purpose, that this purpose is no longer in existence.

The petition also requests that the site be made into a city park. This, however, is to be left to the council to act as it sees fit.

No action was taken by the council as the matter was referred to the park board for justification.

GAYLORD GIVEN HEARING

OWNER OF ENCORE HOTEL DENIES FIRE DANGER

Insinuation That Officer Asked for Money Made at Meeting of City Council

N. R. Gaylord, owner and operator of the Encore hotel situated on Willamette street between Fifth and Sixth avenues, which was recently condemned as a fire trap by the city council, was given a hearing before the body at its session held last night.

"My property is no more of a fire trap than the majority of other buildings in the business district," Mr. Gaylord said. "I asked the state fire marshall, when he came to inspect the building in order to make his report, to place his finger on a place in my building where fire could start without assistance, and he did not do so.

"When he was making the rounds of the buildings and came to the second floor he stepped into a room and proffered me his hand with his back turned toward me, seemingly asking for money and I told him that I did not hire officers to do their duty.

In the report sent to me it stated that various persons had complained against my property. I would like to know who these persons are. Their names were not given in the report, and I don't believe any jury in the country would condemn my place under the circumstances.

"I was told that when a nearby hotel was completed if it did not kill my business the place would soon be condemned. I see now that just that has happened.

"I want people to know that I have been in business for the past 30 years and have not had to call out the fire department to put out a fire in my place. I will admit that I have had to fight four fires in my place since being here but these were caused by inefficient electric wiring when I had electric lights in the hotel. I was unable to combat this nuisance so I had the lights and wiring taken out and have had no trouble since. I believe I can control the kerosene lights better than the electric lights and feel much safer in so doing.

Other places in the city which needed improvement were pointed out by Mr. Gaylord who said, "Why doesn't the city council take action with the fire hazards in other buildings. The garage across the street from my place has a wooden floor with various kinds of oil on it and a stove placed in the building. You know that it is possible to ignite gasoline fumes from distances even as far as 30 feet. Why isn't this looked into.

BABB BLOCK HAS BLAZE

FIRE BREAKS OUT BETWEEN ROOMING HOUSE WALLS

Loss Is Estimated at $5000; Stock of Hardware Store Damaged to Some Extent

R. A. Babb's three-story building, known as the Coleman block, on Willamette street between the Smeed hotel and the McMorran and Washburne block was the scene of a $5000 blaze Sunday night. Most of the damage occurred on the second floor of the building occupied by the United States rooming house, but smoke and water entered the Babb hardware store on the first floor and did considerable damage to the stock.

The fire started from the electric wiring between the walls or beneath the floor, in the opinion of the firemen. It was discovered about 8 o'clock and had made considerable headway, smouldering between the walls before the smoke and flames burst out into the hallways.

The firemen say that it was one of the stubbornest fires they have fought in a long time. They were compelled to cut into the walls and through the floors to get the chemicals and water on the flames.

None of the occupants of the rooms in the lodging house were asleep at the time but some of them had difficulty in finding their way out on account of the smoke.

Mr. Babb is absent from the city, being on a trip to British Columbia waters on Campbell Church's yacht, but his store employes are going ahead with the matter of insurance adjustment and repairs to the ceiling of the store which was partly burned.

The loss is said to be covered by insurance.

INDIAN BOY ARRESTED

RUNAWAY FROM TRAINING SCHOOL IS HELD

Youth Decides to See Mother on Christmas Day and Gets as Far as Eugene

Christmas day proved too much of a temptation for Grant W. Johnson, 17, a Klamath Indian boy at the Chemawa Indian school at Salem.

Grant wanted to se his mother. Sunday night he had reached Eugene on his way home when he lost some companions and spent part of the night wandering around the streets.

Quizzed by Sergeant James Straight of the night police force, the young Indian admitted that he ran away from the school and was trying to get home. After a visit with his mother he planned on a tour of the Pacific Coast with some boxers. He has aspirations to become a ring general.

According to the story he told the police, young Johnson has yet two years and a half to serve for some offense whic hhe denies having committed.

Chief of Police W. G. Judkins communicated with the authorities at the Indian school yesterday but had received no news last night as to when a traveling guard would come here to get the youth and take him back to confinement.

Sergeant Straight will get a small reward for the arrest, it was said yesterday.
