FOUR-L HOLDS MEETING

PRICE OF BULLETIN TO BE VOTED UPON LATER

Entertainment For Meeting on January 25 Discussed; Large Number at Gathering

(Register Lane County Special) SPRINGFIELD, Ore., Dec. 29.—The largest attended meeting of the Four-L League of Loggers and Lumbermen on record this year was held last night with Chairman "Ma" Neet presiding over the local chapter. Nothing definite was decided on the main question brought before the body concerning the raising of the price of the Four-L Bulletin from 10 cents to 15 cents per copy.

The meeting decided that at least 100 members of the total enrollment of 200 should be present for the meeting in order to take action. An individual vote will probably be conducted by Chairman Neet at the mill when it resumes operation.

The proposition was made that the employer pay half of the cost and the employee pay the other half. This will be presented to the officials of the company by the chairman of the local group.

The Four-L Bulletin was considered discontinuing publication, either of the magazine or the semi-monthly newspaper which is included in the cost of the magazine. The plan to raise the price from 10 cents to 15 cents would probably place the magazine back on a paying basis again. At present it is said to be going behind.

The meeting was also occupied with a discussion of a program to be started at the next regular meeting of the organization, to be held on January 25. It was not decided whether it would be a minstrel show or some other kind of entertainment.

The plan for a half to hold the meetings and entertainments of the group was discussed and the members expressed regret that the organization had turned down the offer of A. D. Dixon, general manager of the Booth-Kelly company, when he proposed to build a hall on a 50-50 basis with the Four-L. It is hoped by the group to procure a building soon or at least rent a hall.

NEW STATION FINISHED

PLACE READY FOR BUSINESS MONDAY MORNING

(Register Lane County Special) SPRINGFIELD, Ore., Dec. 29.—The new service station, which has been under construction for some time, at the corner of Seventh and Main streets in Springfield, was completed last Saturday and will be open and ready for business by January 4, it was announced today by the owner, George Carshner. The grounds around the station will receive more gravel and concrete work will be under construction all this week by Perry and Son, contractors of Springfield. The station will cost approximately $2000.

Mr. Carshner designed and built the station with the help of E. C. Culp, local carpenter. One hundred yards of gravel was hauled in to surround the place. It will be known as "Casey's service station." The oil and gas pump will be installed after the first of the year, it was stated by the builder, who will also manage the place.

COTTAGE GROVE PRAISED

FRANK JENKINS SPEAKER AT CHAMBER MEETING

Advertising Oregon's Climate Would Be Good Investment, Says Register Editor

(Register Lane County Special) COTTAGE GROVE, Ore., Dec. 29.—High praise of Cottage Grove as a busy and rapidly growing industrial center was voiced today by Frank Jenkins, of Eugene, editor of the Morning Register, who addressed the chamber of commerce at its weekly noon luncheon.

"Cottage Grove is one of the most promising cities of Oregon," he said, "and the time is not far distant when you will have 10,000 people here. You have the resources back of you to support such a population in the near future, for a very large part of Lane county's great stand of timber is directly tributary to Cottage Grove and will be milled here. No city in Oregon has brighter prospects."

"I want to bring you this message from Eugene. We are proud of your progress, and want to see you keep on growing. Eugene, too, has hopes for the future, and we realize that our growth there can continue unabated only if all the rest of Oregon keeps on growing and developing."

Business in the East is good, said Mr. Jenkins, who returned recently from a trip to the Atlantic seaboard. The Pacific coast, he said, must look to the Middle West chiefly for its immigrants in the future, as the Far East finds it hard to get west of Pittsburg. He spoke of the general misconception regarding Oregon's rainfall, and asserted that Oregon could well afford to spend a half million dollars in advertising to establish the facts regarding its delightful climate.

Discussing the topic "How to Keep Cottage Grove Trade at Home," he asserted that among stocks, good service and persistent advertising are the methods demonstrated by time and experience to be the best.

PIPES WILL BE JOINED

COTTAGE GROVE TAKES STEPS TO HANDLE OVERFLOW

(Register Lane County Special) COTTAGE GROVE, Ore., Dec. 29.—The council has ordered that the new 12-inch concrete overflow pipe, from the new reservoir, be connected with the old six-inch wooden pipe which runs to the mill pond, thus being able to carry off all the overflow.

When the iron grate has been placed over the intake of the dam, the overflow will be carried off by the government forest service and declared to be all right in every respect.

On the recommendation of the water committee, Grant Tower has been appointed as water collector at a salary of $50 per month, and after January 1 the water office will be in the room at the rear of the First National bank.

Ordinances were ordered for the sale of the lateral sewer bonds.

DAILY MARKET REPORT

(Oregon Journal Market Review) PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 29.—Advances in the price of eggs, the price of wheat, and the price of flour, were the main features of the market. The advance was expected generally. It was a sentimental affair and by no means due to any increase in the demand for eggs or a loosening of the supply.

Holdings of cold storage stocks are quite large and are being sold. The price of wheat is being held by the private and co-operative interests. Start of the winter season usually forces a fractional rise in the egg price, but the extent of the rise will depend upon the continuance of cold weather.

Fact that no advances were noted for other than eggs, indicates quite clearly that the situation is not any too firm, and is more sentimental than an actual fact.

Egg prices generally throughout the country show little change for recent days.

Butter Trading Held Steady

Trade in the butter market continues to reflect steadiness as a result of the quiet other than eggs. No change was shown in cash prices either on the dairy exchange or on the open market for cubes or prints.

Turkey Shortage Is Serious

Pronounced shortage of turkeys is shown along the wholesale way with demand of quite a few character. Even cold storage stocks appear exhausted. Buyers freely offering extreme prices to the country.

Chicken Demand Is Very Keen

Very keen demand continues for all sorts of chicken. The price of live birds show no general change but are firm at the recent high mark. Ducks and geese also sought.

Veal Shortage Boosts Price

Further boost in the price of veal has been forced as a result of a most acute shortage of offering, stocks are generally shown at 14@14.50 pound with the bulk of the business at the higher point. Choice veal in active demand around 16.50 pound.

Brief Notes of Wholesale Trade

Lard—Granges with very firm prices, all grades future. Banana prices being generally maintained. Sweet potatoes holding well at yesterday's advance.

California lettuce higher here with sharp advance in the Imperial valley territory. Due to heavy recent rains. Trucks are glutted with California cauliflowers, local stock being given preference because of quality. Cranberry prices show a very sharp rise with 1 1/2 being generally asked for best Marquette. Others down to 12.50@14.50. Stocks extremely tight.
