

PLIFICATION HELD
NEED IN BUSINESS

Robbins Speaker at Chamber Luncheon

STANDARDIZE IS PLEA

Per Cent of Manufacturing Lost Because of Un-standardized Products

Standardization is not for a great part in the simplification of methods all over the state during the coming year. C. C. Robbins, dean of the University of Oregon at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon yesterday.

Business has grown because of the manufacturing of standard products.
The speaker said that the production is greatly increased by manufacturers, wholesaler and retailers are forced to deal with.

Energy Held Estimated that has been estimated that 30 per cent of the manufacturing in the United States is lost because of the many un-standardized products.

The government during war and immediately afterward regulations were begun by the secretary of commerce, from which some alarming from been gained. It was that in practically all fields of manufacturing, which are an excessively large of the manufacturing which is being done away with, greatly reducing overhead costs. Manufacturers of various kinds of goods are discontinuing the manufacture of a great many of standardized products. From time the movement has gone to other things.

LANE BOYS WINNERS OF
DISTRICT ESSAY CONTEST

Othel Stroud and Rexford
Eidson Go to Portland

COMPETE WITH OTHERS

State Prize Will Be Given and Essay Will Be Read Before
Chamber of Commerce

Othel Stroud, junior in the Eugene high school, and Rexford Eidson, high school boy in the Theodore Roosevelt junior high school, have been chosen to represent not only Lane county, but the district composed of Linn, Benton, Lane, Lincoln, Coos and Curry counties in the marketing essay contest to be held in Portland, January 15 and 16. On these dates the two Lane county club members will go to Portland where they will read their essays at the state contest. At this meeting the state winner will be announced and he will read the prize-winning essay to the Portland chamber of commerce under whose direction the local county, district and state meetings are held.

Every member of a boys' and girls' club in the state was eligible to compete in the contest. Ten essays on marketing were prepared and distributed to every club member. There were two sections, one for members attending the grade school and the other for members in high schools. Essays were written and submitted to a committee at the Oregon Agricultural college which chose the Lane boys as winners in this district.

Young Stroud has been in club work seven years, having completed projects in calf, pig, potato, corn and cooking. This year he is president of the Eugene high school campus cooking club. Eidson has completed five projects and was engaged last year in rabbit production.

The trips to Portland and entertainment while there is furnished by the Portland chamber of commerce. A banquet will be given the contestants on both nights they are in Portland, a trip up the Columbia river highway and to Fort Vancouver are other entertainments in store for them.

Neither of the boys has ever been to Portland and this will be a special treat for them on that account. They will be accompanied by Arnold D. Collier, county club leader.
