JUNIOR BAND TO MEET

BOY AND GIRL MUSICIANS TRY OUT TONIGHT

Director Corwin of Odd Fellows' Band Will Have Charge of Juveniles

The first meeting of the Eugene Junior band, composed of boys and girls, will meet at the armory this evening at 7 o'clock according to announcement by Alfred J. Corwin, director of the Odd Fellows' band who will also direct the junior band.

Mr. Corwin says that those wishing to join the band will be given a test and assigned to their proper places. He asks that players of wind instruments only report tonight and says that parents and friends are invited.

Mr. Corwin states that the age limit will be 18 years and that all over that age are eligible to join the Odd Fellows' band. He said that already he has the names of 25 boys and girls who are desirous of becoming members and that he hopes to build up a junior organization of musicians that will be a nucleus for a band that some day will be second to none in the country.

FOREST CONSERVATION KEYNOTE OF ADDRESS

A. C. Dixon Talks Before Round Table Club

OLD TREES WILL DECAY

Speaker Stresses Need of Timber Cutting on Well Directed Plan of Selection

With the principal part of his paper dealing with the commercial tree and the lumbering industry, A. C. Dixon, manager of the Booth-Kelly Lumber company last night gave a talk before the Round Table club, his topic being "from the first tree to the last."

Mr. Dixon sketched the evolution of trees and explained the theory of their beginning, taking up also phases of development that included fruit and shade trees. Conservation and fire protection, coupled with educative measures, formed the main theme of his talk.

The proper use, and quick use of the older trees, was urged by the speaker, who explained this stand by recalling the fact that these older trees will in time be too decayed for commercial value. It is better to cut them and use them now than to allow them to stand while they are really in a process of decay which will eventually mean complete loss.

The use of substitutes for lumber has cut into the industry, he said, and called attention to the lack of conservation by overproduction and competition. Mr. Dixon urged the use of all parts of the trees in the various kindred industries. The speaker decried the idea prevalent in some parts of the United States that there is a dangerous shortage of trees.

"There are plenty of trees for this generation, and as far as we can see into the future with proper reforestation methods," he said.

Taxation and the problems of regulated production were touched on and some reference was made to the Clark-McNary forestry bill. Too Many Young Trees Cut

On the conservation question, into which Mr. Dixon delved extensively, he pointed out the fact that too many of the younger trees were being cut while not enough attention was being paid to the proper selection from time to time of the trees that had ripened and were ready to be cut.

Speaking of the idea of the shortage of trees, he pointed out that statements to the contrary, Oregon still had plenty of forests which were doomed 20 years ago by public speakers and writers who for some selfish motive gave out erroneous information.

DR. DONAHUE IS HOME

PHYSICIAN ATTENDS MAYO CLINIC IN ROCHESTER

Dr. C. D. Donahue of the Eugene hospital clinic has returned from his visit to the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn. He spent most of his time studying at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn. He reports that there are practically no new developments in the treatment of malignant growths. The pendulum is swinging more and more toward fulguration (electric cautery) and radical surgery, he said. Radium and deep X-ray therapy is being used chiefly on cases that are not operable, or are not accessible to fulguration. There is nothing yet in sight leading to hope for certain cure of this much dreaded condition, he declared.

Dr. Donahue further reports that he felt quite at home at the clinic, as the same system is used at Eugene hospital clinic. Things are on a much larger scale here, Rochester is a town much the same size as Eugene, and he says he feels that he could possibly be built up in his home city a clinical center of which all may be proud.

TEACHERS WILL CONVENE

MEETING WILL BE HELD HERE SATURDAY FORENOON

Members of County Association to Listen to Reports of Delegates to O. S. T. S.

A meeting of the Lane County Teachers' association will be held at the Francis Willard school in Eugene Saturday of this week at 10 a. m., according to an announcement by J. G. Swan, president of the association.

The purpose of the meeting will be to hear reports of delegates to the session of the Oregon State Teachers' association in Portland during the latter part of December. A number of very interesting questions were discussed at the state meetings and some of these will be brought up at the meeting here, he said. Among them will be the matter of a state income tax law which the state teachers endorsed.

Among those who attended the state meeting and who will talk at the county meeting here are David John Jones, city superintendent of the Eugene schools; P. E. Christensen, principal of the Eugene high school; Superintendent Hayes of the Cottage Grove schools; A. D. Collier, county school leader; Principal Austin of Mapleton and Oma Liles of Crow.

SCHOOL VOTE IS CARRIED

COLLEGE CREST TO HAVE NEW BUILDING

Construction Will Start on Chosen Site in Time For Opening of Next Fall Term

Members of the College Crest school district last night voted in favor of the erection of a new school house for the community at an election held in the community club headquarters.

Details of the balloting were not learned, except that all three measures carried. The measures were, briefly: Whether or not there would be a new school built; whether warrants to the extent of $6000 would be issued to cover the cost; and whether a site on Whitlock boulevard would be accepted. The new school, construction of which will begin in time for the building to be occupied next fall, will be a two-room edifice and will be built on the unit plan, so that additions may be made from time to time, as the need arises.

SHERIFF GETS SUSPECTS

W. W. GAGE HERE FROM COQUILLE YESTERDAY

Sheriff W. W. Gage of Coos county arrived in Eugene last night to claim as prisoners two young men held in the Lane county jail on a charge of larceny in connection with the alleged theft of a large quantity of copper wire. The men are Frank Curtis, 22, and Elmer Scribner, 20, who were arrested at Cottage Grove a few days ago.

Sheriff Gage expected to leave during the night for Coquille with his wards.

CLUB PLANS ACTIVITIES

NINTH STREET LIGHTING IS AGAIN TAKEN UP

Permanent organization of the Ninth avenue improvement club, which has held several preliminary meetings recently, was perfected at a session held in the Eugene hotel parlors last night.

Discussion of the proposed street lighting system was taken up and the club decided to meet again next Friday noon to complete the details in this connection before any proposal is submitted to the city planning commission.

JAY H. UPTON, LAWYER, ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY

Bend Man Seeks gubernatorial Nomination

PLATFORM IS GIVEN OUT

Too Much Regulation and Inspection He Says; Will Work for Farmer and Auto Owner

Jay H. Upton, lawyer of Bend, Spanish war veteran and former speaker of the house of representatives in the Oregon legislature, yesterday formally announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination of governor.

Mr. Upton has written his platform of the features of which are as follows:

"I will give the people a dignified, efficient and economical business administration. I will be governor of all the people of Oregon.

"As president of the senate in 1922, I appointed a ways and means committee which cut appropriations below the demands of the budget makers and saved the taxpayers more than one million dollars. Expenses can be cut if those in authority have nerve enough to cut them.

"While a special fund should be provided to meet actual emergencies caused by the act of God, the so-called emergency board should be abolished.

"Law Enforcement Urged

"All laws must be enforced and observed. Law observance is the duty of every citizen and is as important as law enforcement. The people must co-operate with the officers before laws can be successfully enforced. Respect of law should be taught in every school, church, lodge and civic organization. Ex-jail birds, bootleggers and stool pigeons will not be tolerated here and will be enforced law. No officer will be retained who himself violates the law.

"We have too much regulation and inspection. New criminal laws should be passed with the greatest caution.

Reduce Auto License He Says

"We are strangling the automobile owner with high license and burdensome regulations. The automobile has built our good roads. Each year we have added to its burden. There is a limit to the burden it can bear. We have passed that limit and are about to kill the goose that lays the golden egg. We can reduce license costs at least half a million dollars annually now, and more as the number of automobiles and tourist travel increases.

"Reclaiming of automobile titles with the despatch highway system was passed in the belief that it would not be an expense to the taxpayer but which has resulted in increased tax burdens and great annoyance to automobile owners. It should be repealed. The farmer who uses a truck to haul his own crop and a few loads for his neighbor, should not be compelled to pay the same charges and conform to the same regulations as the freight truck regularly using our highways.

Roads and Highways Discussed

"The despatch highway system, which still remains unimproved, should be graded and macadamized with all due speed. The major work in the future should be to build new roads that yet remain untouched.

"The present unintelligible method by which the tax commission attempts to equalize assessments by the so-called ratio system should be abolished and the tax commission given authority to supervise assessments of county assessors and to harmonize assessments in the entire state, a thing the law requires to be done but which is avoided by subterfuge.

"Oregon should continue to be the foremost forest state, yielding benefits for all time; the revenue and advantages its phenomenal forest-growing capacity can and should provide. Private and public agencies alike must do their best to assist this with protecting and wisely using the old forest and by growing the new.

Against Federal Game Control

"The great forests, lakes, streams and mountains with which we have grown up and love are no longer a heritage of Oregon, but are controlled by bureaus at Washington and dominated by people who do not know the state of Oregon. They are reaching out tentacles now and are trying to control our wild life and game. If I am governor, all the power of that office will be exerted to prevent further usurpation of our Oregon bird life.

"The infirm and aged; the orphaned and underprivileged child; the helpless and helpless assistance from the state and society. We have given too much attention to regulating the conduct of grown-ups and have been too neglectful of the child and the aged. There should be a reformatory for youths convicted of crime and those first timers whose crimes are of a lighter character.

"The parole board should be abolished and management of prisoners put squarely up to the warden. In a penal institution there should not be divided authority or control.

Prison Management Failure

"The state prison has been a failure. There have been, in the past, some good men in charge as wardens, and good men are still available. The present heads of the insane asylum and of the feeble-minded home were not selected by the board of control but by a former governor who knew how to select competent men. I will not evade responsibility. A warden will be selected who will be competent to run the prison and he will be required to do so.

"I am not a 'dirt' farmer, but I own a farm and have faced all the problems that have confronted the other farmers of Oregon. Agriculture is the basis of prosperity, but the farmer can not be made successful by the mere passing of laws. If it could have been done, they would all have been rich years ago. The farmer does not need nor desire to be pampered. A competent and practical state market agent, who would devote his office to the organization and assistance of co-operative marketing agencies in each particular line of agriculture, so that production, transportation, orderly marketing, standardizing and grading of farm products could be intelligently controlled and economically coordinated, could help the farmers work out their problems.

"I will appoint a non-political commission to investigate and recommend a feasible and satisfactory plan to save the farmer and protect the good name of the state and will use every suitable influence to have the legislature enact laws that will carry such recommendations into effect."

ON ROAD TO RECOVERY

MRS. YORAN REPORTED TO BE GRADUALLY IMPROVING

Compelled to Stay in One Position in Hospital at Merced, California

Friends of the W. C. Yorans of Eugene, who were the victims of an automobile accident at Merced, Cal., while on the way to Pasadena to spend the Christmas holidays with their daughter, Mrs. Lucile Sweek have learned that Mrs. Yorans is on the road to recovery. She was critically hurt when their sedan skidded on the wet pavement but, due to the skill of physicians called to attend her, she is now considered out of danger, it is reported.

Writing to a member of the Register staff, Mr. Yorans gives additional details of Mrs. Yorans' condition as follows:

"It is just one day after another with us. Mrs. Yorans' improvement is necessarily very slow, but the doctor and nurses feel she is mending as rapidly as can be expected under the circumstances. She is still flat on her back with her limbs tied together and, of course, gets very tired. She cannot hear to be moved even the very little necessary in giving her the needed care and treatment. She is greatly discouraged and longs to be taken home, but of course we cannot consider that yet. They are trying now to fit a heavy canvas jacket about her and hope if that can be done that she can then be turned over on her side occasionally.

"The weather here has been disagreeable, cold and foggy and on only three days in our three weeks here, has there been any sunshine.

ENLISTMENTS REPORTED

NATIONAL GUARD UNITS PREPARING FOR ARMY INSPECTION EXPECTED IN MARCH

Several enlistments and transfers from other units of the Oregon national guard were reported last night by both the headquarters company and the first battalion of the 152nd infantry and company C of the same battalion, when the local troops gathered at the armory for their regular drill period.

Preparations are going forward also for the enlistment of 10 new men in the medical detachment of the 158th infantry, which is stationed here and which was recently given authority to increase the strength.

Most of the guardsmen are being drilled in field inspection work, in preparation for the annual armory inspection, which will be held some time in March, it is believed.

Enlistments last night included L. G. Baird and E. Tincher in the headquarters company. A. Anderson is transferring to this unit from Tillamook. Muri Sturges and Elmer Grimm are transferring from Woodburn to company C. In Eugene, Privates Ivan W. Scott and William N. Knott of company C have been promoted to the grade of privates first class.

FLUNKERS ARE QUERIED

STUDENTS FAILING TO GIVE INFORMATION

Majority Not Dropped From University Because of Inability, Dean Walker Says

Students at the university flunk out primarily because of spending too much time on outside work or because of ill health, stated Dean Walker, dean of men at the university.

In very few cases is it a matter of sheer inability to do the prescribed work which causes the downfall of the students, in the belief of Dean Walker, as some of the students enter school with a shortage of funds and are thus compelled to work to pay their expenses. Others take the wrong attitude toward their studies while some are unable to express themselves even though they may know the material.

Letters asking each of the students who failed to maintain satisfactory requirements last term requiring them to state their reasons for the failure, are being sent out by the dean. It is hoped that this information will be useful in guiding future students.
