

OREGON BEATS MONTANA IN CONFERENCE OPENER

Final Score Gives Webfooters Victory, 40 to 19

GUNTHER HIGH POINT MAN

Coach Reinhardt Sends in Substitutes During Second Period When Varsity Has Big Lead

The University of Oregon basketball team broke into the win column with a 40-19 score over the University of Montana quintet in the opening game of its conference here last night.

The game was a complete reversal of form from that which was expected as Oregon did not open up during the first half, Montana started the scoring with a field goal by Illman during the first few minutes and raised this to a lead of 4 to 1 before the Webfooters got under way.

The Oregon team soon started hitting the basket and before the first period ended held a 13 to 8 lead. Both working down the ragged ball and missing set-up shots, Montana was bothering the Oregon offense with its five-man defense and kept the Webfooters away from the end of the court. While they were doing this they were unable to get many shots at the hoop.

During the last half, Oregon opened up and started dropping baskets through the ring in a fast manner. Gunther started this drive with a basket from near the center. Okerberg and Westergren then began working down the floor. With these boys playing as they did the Montana quintet was lost.

After a substantial lead was established, Coach Reinhardt began sending in substitutes in order to give them training for the coming games. Murray took Hobson's place, Edwards went in at center, Coyle at guard and Flynn at forward. This combination worked smooth but didn't compare with the starting lineup.

Hobson started the game last night but played with an injured ankle. It was thought at first that he would be unable to play because of an injury received in football practice last fall, but he proved he could. Hobson is nearing the form displayed last season.

Jerry Gunther, playing his first year as a regular, led in scoring honors for the evening, garnering 14 points. Okerberg ran a close second with 13. Westergren with nine placed third for individual honors. Illman, stellar center for Montana, led his teammates with a total of seven points. Coyle was second with five.

The ability of the Oregon varsity to score can be shown by statistics. Four of the first string collected all of the 40 points, neither just nor the four substitutes connected for counters. Fourteen fouls were called on the Grizzly five of which the Webfooters converted seven. Montana had seven chances and counted five.

Montana Fires The Montana team seemed tired after the first half as it had already played two of the four games since it left home. The Oregon Aggies will furnish competition for the Montana five in Corvallis tonight.

The summary: Oregon: Hobson, 1; Gunther, 14; Okerberg, 13; Westergren, 9; Jost, 3; Murray, 5; Edwards, 5; Flynn, 3; Joy, 2. Montana: Illman, 7; Sweet, 1; Overturf, 1; Coyle, 5; Sweet, 3.

TWO VETERANS BENCHED PECKINPAUGH AND RUEHL TO GIVE YOUTH PLACES

(By The Associated Press) TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 19.—Roger Peckinpaugh and "Muddy" Ruhl, veterans of the Washington American League champions, are to be benched this coming season to make room for youth and speed, Charles Griffith, president, announced.

Charles "Buddy" Myers, who substituted for Bluege last year, after he sustained injuries, will succeed Peckinpaugh, and Tate will be Griffith's first string catcher. The "old fog" does not censure Peck because of his errors in the 1925 world series. Griffith said several of his prominent players have not yet signed their 1926 contracts, including "Bucky" Harris. Griffith believes Harris will sign.

BAPTIST LEADERS HEARD AT MEDFORD

Smith said that the Baptist flock at Ashland was harmonious until after the revival meetings conducted in 1923 by Dr. Charles S. Price, when disruption came, the breach gradually widening. The Rev. B. C. Miller, he said, first asked permission to go to Oakland, Cal., and hear Almer McPherson talk, and that upon his return, he reported that he had requested to hold a series of meetings in Ashland and she had refused, but had promised to send an assistant.

The witness also testified that the sermons of Rev. Miller contained afterwards largely of arguments for the new creed, which the complaint as filed, holds were "non-Baptist."

"Mr. Paul" interviewed Smith told of attending a meeting where the Rev. Miller put a chair on the rostrum, and "held a conversation with Paul." At the close, Rev. Miller asked the congregation, who favored the acceptance of the apostle Paul into the church, to arise. Most of those present did. Smith testified that it was his understanding that this was an acceptance of the McPherson doctrine. Smith said he weighed the new faith carefully before reaching a decision against it.

Letters expelling thirty odd members of the church were introduced as evidence, and identified by Smith, who was included.

The witness testified that demands were made for the turning over of the church property and were refused and that when a meeting was attempted to be held, "new locks were found on the door, and Millerites were inside looking out."

A petition signed by 57 members asking for the resignation of Rev. Miller was presented, the witness declaring, the pastor taking the matter under advisement. Later the pastor reported that he had been presented with a petition signed by 121 members asking him to remain, and that on the grounds of majority rule, he would do so.

Ex Parte Council Called An ex-parte council composed of representatives of Grants Pass, Medford and Roseburg Baptist churches, the Methodist church of Medford, and Portland Baptist churches was called, the witness said, in an effort to effect a settlement of the row, but nothing was accomplished, the "hand" of fellowship being withdrawn from Rev. Miller.

After a long argument, and reading of the rules of order and outline of the tenets of the Baptist church, the court ruled that testimony on this point would be heard, "as cumulative and advisory evidence."

The "unrocking" of Rev. Mr. Miller was the subject of argument between opposing counsel. The plaintiffs contended that he was not upholding the Baptist faith. The defense contended that articles of faith were a matter of each individual congregation, and was not subject to set rules. The plaintiffs admitted this, but held that Miller had wandered from certain basic tenets of the Baptist church. To support it, quotations were read from the rules pronounced by Dr. J. Newton Brown. The defense countered by reading from a manual for Baptist church conduct written by the Rev. Edward Hitchcock.

The plaintiffs held that "the majority ruled," and "each church being law unto itself," did not hold in the case; as "Baptist faith had been cast aside," by Rev. Miller and his followers.

HINDENBURG STOPS GERMAN BICKERING

They represent only 171 out of 492 mandates in the reichstag, making it a minority ministry, which is wholly exposed to the parliamentary mercies of the two majority parties, the German nationalists and the socialists.

The socialists may be relied upon to support the government on all issues connected with fulfillment of the Dawes plan and the policies initiated with the adoption of the Locarno treaties.

KARASICK AND YOKEL BEGIN TRAINING GRIND

Wrestlers Will Meet on Next Heilig Card

Al Karasick, the untamed "Russian Lion" and Mike Yokel, present holder of the world's light heavyweight wrestling title, started intensive workouts last night for their match to be held in the Heilig Monday night. Promoter William Dodelle announced.

Karasick's ability to handle himself on the mat is well known to fans here as he deliberately roughed his way to a win over Ralph Hand in the match held here last Friday. He is practicing some more of his famous tricks and expects to garner the title held by Yokel when they meet.

However, Yokel has something to say about this and this is the way he says it: "This Karasick may know something about rough stuff but I have wrestled some of the hardest men in the United States and sincerely believe I can give him as much as he can give in return. He is classed as a rough and tough opponent, but wait until you see me in action, I may not be so rough but I am able to give as much as I take."

Karasick doesn't intend to get real rough, he states, but from the reputation he has gained, what he calls child's play is what a man is put to sleep by his headlock. "Wrestling is a man's game and the man must take what he gets," is the way he describes the work he has taken up.

PLAN SPRING CONCERT MEN'S CHORUS GETS AWAY TO FLYING START

Members Enthusiastic; Dates Held Open for Conventions and Celebrations in Summer

With a spring concert in sight, and open dates for singing at the state Elks, Kiwanis and Veterans of Foreign Wars conventions which will be held in Eugene this summer, members of the men's chorus meeting at the chamber of commerce last night entered into their first rehearsal with enthusiasm.

Such was the report of Hugh Winder, director of the chorus, at the conclusion of the meeting. No name for the organization has been chosen, although it will be known generally as a Tuesday night music club. The name will be proposed at the next rehearsal.

Members of the club vied to make this a permanent organization with the aim of a 60-voice chorus, second to none on the Pacific coast. That there is an opportunity to do this was indicated by Mr. Winder when he said that the two positions hardest to fill, namely the high tenor and the low bass, were complete.

Fifty-five singers were present at this rehearsal and the books contain the names of 15 applicants who for various reasons were unable to be present. The membership is open to everyone.

One of the features of the program for the future will be the celebration to be staged in Eugene when the last spike is driven in the Natron cut-off, some time in July.

ELK GETTING NUMEROUS ANIMALS DO DAMAGE TO PROPERTY ON DEADWOOD

Elk are breaking down fences and causing other damage to farm property along Deadwood creek and tributaries not far from the Lake Creek valley and the Willamette Valley-Florence highway, according to Lee Lewis, a farmer of that locality, who was here yesterday.

Mr. Lewis said that a small herd of elk has been in that district for a number of years and that it has increased to considerable proportions during the past two or three years. The animals are seen frequently and as the law protects them from hunters they are very tame although not so tame as the moose placed by the state game commission in the lake country in the western part of Lane county several years ago.

DANCE PLANS PROGRESS COMMITTEE MEETING IS CALLED FOR FRIDAY

Local Civic and Fraternal Leaders Hope to Raise $4000 for Children's Home

Representatives of the various civic and fraternal organizations in the city who have been made a committee to organize a drive for the W. C. T. U. farm home at Corvallis, in which it is hoped to raise $4000, will meet at the chamber of commerce again Friday night, January 22.

Call for the meeting was issued last night by Fred Ches, general chairman. Mr. Ches will appoint sub-committees to work out the program for an "old-time" dance to be held at the armory, either February 19 or 20. The exact date is yet uncertain.

It is planned in connection with the dance to hold a contest for all old "callers" and "fiddlers" and prizes will be awarded. Lane county, in the meantime, will be combed for some of these old-time dancing masters.

ENGLISH BARBERS BUSY WOMEN SPEND LARGE SUMS FOR HAIR CLIPPINGS

(By The Associated Press) LONDON, Jan. 19.—Although England's unemployed total well over the million mark, no barbers or coiffeurs are incited among those drawing the government's dole for the jobless. This is revealed in statistics just published which show that women of this country are spending approximately $100,000,000 a year more with hair dressers of various kinds than they did before hobnobbing and shopping became fashionable.

It is estimated that about 7,000,000 women and girls more than 16 years old, about half the female population of England and Wales, are wearing short hair. This has given employment to all native hairdressers and led to importation of other "artists" from abroad.
