OREGON BASKETEERS TO START SOUTH TODAY

Westergren Unable to Play But May See Game

ATHLETE IS MUCH BETTER

Player Suffering from Appendicitis Will Not Be in Lineup in Southern Games

Minus one member of the famous Westergren-Okerberg combination, the University of Oregon basketball team will leave on the Shasta limited today for Oakland, where it will meet the University of California in the first game of Pacific coast title series on Friday.

Algot Westergren, all-coast guard, who has been suffering with appendicitis, will not be in the lineup, but he may be able to encourage his teammates from the sidelines. If Westergren's condition improves so that he is able to make the trip, he will be sent down to witness one of the games at least, according to Virgil Earl, athletic director of the university.

The decision to go ahead with the series this week as scheduled was made yesterday morning after Westergren's improvement was announced. It had been arranged with the general graduate manager of California that the series could be postponed in the event that Westergren's condition should not show improvement.

Improvement Noted

Last night it was announced that the stricken athlete was very much improved, and that an operation would not be necessary. Westergren will probably be returned to the university infirmary some time today, according to Dr. A. H. Ross, attending physician at the Eugene hospital. He will probably be up by the end of the week, Dr. Ross stated, but he would not be in condition to play basketball for at least two weeks.

The nine players who leave for the South are: Gunther, Hobson and Kiminki, forwards; Okerberg, Edwards and Eberhart, centers; Jost, Joy and Hughes, guards. Coach Billy Reinhart did not give out a tentative lineup for the first game, but it is thought likely that Kiminki will go in as guard to fill Westergren's place, the four regular players remaining in their old positions. However, there is a possibility that Okerberg will be shifted to forward, Hobson to guard, and Edwards put in at the center position.

OREGON SWIMMERS OFF FOR AGGIE CAMP TODAY

Webfoot Line-up Revamped For Final Match

The Oregon swimming team leaves today for Corvallis where it will meet the Oregon Aggie mermen in its last dual for this season. The first meeting between these teams ended in a 36 to 32 win for the Aggies but a different result is planned by Coach Abercomble of Oregon for tonight's final count.

The lineup of the team has been revamped and changed although the entree list carries the same names. Several men have been induced to try for honors in other races and some have been left to carry the burden in but one or two events.

"The weak points which were displayed in the Multnomah club session here last Saturday night have been worked over and I believe we have a chance to beat the Beavers," is the way Coach Abercromble discussed the prospects.

To date Oregon has had a rather unsuccessful year in swimming, losing three events in three starts. The Aggie contest was so close that the relay, final event, decided the winner. The Beaver men nosed out the Webfeet in the final lap, winning the event. Oregon had been leading prior to this.

Oregon entries will be as follows: 50-Yard dash—Boggs and Stone; 150-yard back stroke—Gardner and Wright; 220-yard free style—Boggs and McCook; dives—Byerly and Riggs; 100-yard dash—Boggs and McCook; 200-yard breast stroke—Sinclair and McGregor; 100-yard medley—McCook and Smith; relay—Riggs, McCabe, Johnson and Stone.

The team missed the services of Melvin Fisher who has left school. The Wendling girl's team lost to the Marcola girls.

The Wendling team will play the Mohawk Pioneers Friday, February 26, and an Epworth League team consisting of Berl Crow, Everett Keeler, Hal Howard, Melvin Fisher, and Ralph Phillips will play the Y. M. C. A. leaders' corps on the same night.

NEW SPORT INTRODUCED

OREGON MEETS MULTNOMAH IN GAME OF SQUASH

The first outside competition for the University of Oregon in the game of squash, recently adopted as a minor sport by the university, will take place in Portland next Saturday afternoon, when the five varsity men will compete with the Multnomah team.

Squash, a game which is popular in the eastern colleges, was just recently introduced to the university by E. F. Abercrombie, tennis and swimming coach, who favors the game because of the valuable training it affords tennis players during the bad weather. It is a game which resembles handball, being played with a different ball and with a racquet.

The men who will represent Oregon at Portland are: George Mead, Harry Coffin, Henry Neer, Tom Cross and Arlie Reed.
