

OREGON DELEGATION IS PLEASED WITH RESULTS

Some Feel that Fess Glossed Over in His Speech

FARM AID NOT DEFINITE

Concrete Mention of Prohibition Enforcement, Also, Would Have Given More Satisfaction

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 12.—(AP)—While some members of the Oregon delegation to the Republican national convention expressed the feeling tonight that Senator Fess left something to be desired, in some particulars, in his keynote speech today, the general reaction of the representatives from that state, as far as revealed in discussion after the session, was one of general satisfaction.

Although voicing admiration for the address, Fred Kiddle of Island City, Hoover's Oregon manager and chairman of the delegation, expressed slight regret that farm relief and law enforcement declarations were not more sweeping. Kiddle felt the farmers of wheat sections might have found more hope in a more definite promise of government aid than the keynote gave them.

Dry Issue Touched On
Concrete mention of prohibition enforcement also would have pleased Kiddle, he said, since he expected the party would commit itself definitely on the issue in the platform. He is, however, disposed to accept the senator's law enforcement declaration as a sincere statement of administration policy.

F. I. Cook of Medford was pleased with the entire speech, which he regarded as a well-considered statement of the administration policy. He considered an apparently undesigned reference to the department of commerce an intentional endorsement of Hoover's record by the administration spokesman, as well as the speaker's statement with reference to President Coolidge's refusal to be considered as a candidate.

Speech Pleases Korer
Sam A. Korer, secretary of state, expressed satisfaction with the speech, which he considered a scholarly discussion of the party's position.

Dr. I. T. Temple, Pendleton, thought the speaker covered the farm relief question "in an admirable manner," particularly in declaring for cooperative marketing as a solution to the farmer's difficulties. Temple characterized the speech as "a wonderful address."

E. P. Mahaffey of Bend, who suffered an acute attack of indigestion yesterday morning, was still confined to his hotel room tonight. Dr. Temple expressed the opinion that Mahaffey would be unable to be around for at least two days. Although there was no skull fracture from the fall to the floor in a faint, physicians said there was only slight improvement.

remedies which in the end may only add to our problems."

No Mention of Bill

There was no specific mention of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, which Mr. Coolidge has twice vetoed and about which has centered the stubborn battle over the agricultural question.

The Ohio senator declared that the administration had enacted no less than twenty-four separate pieces of legislation covering every phase of the agricultural problem. The government also should aid the farmer, he said, "in insuring an adequate marketing system where it can be done as an industry in the hands of its members rather than as a government function."

He asserted that the Republican policy of a protective tariff and the development of transportation facilities, especially inland waterways, constituted two important methods of assistance to the farmer.

Remedy with the Farmer

"Whatever aid the government may give," he continued, "the remedy lies most largely with the farmer himself, acting in unison with his associates to control his products. It is a matter of management rather than legal enactment, save in constructive legislation, enabling the farmer to better handle his products, to better determine a market."

The Ohio senator pitched his speech to the theme of Republican leadership throughout. Under that leadership, he said, the American people had reached "a financial position never reached by any people in the history of the world."

"Today we are in the longest sustained business prosperity in our history," he declared. "To continue it free from the cycle of business depression is the prime concern of leadership in industry."

Covert Prohibition Hint

While not specifically naming the prohibition law, the Ohio senator said his party was ready "to call the roll" on "false doctrines masquerading under the mask of liberty."

The "principle of human conviction" must be advanced, he declared. "It is not a question of tolerance or liberty, but of life, both individual and national. The Republican party is ready to sound the moral tocsin against the present campaign of a noise-making minority whether in the interest of business profits or mere human indulgence. It stands for respect for law. It condemns the violation of law. Its prosecutions are without respect to rank or party and are conducted by the judicial branch of the government."

While moral delinquencies are to be found in all political parties, in fact among all classes and while they sometimes reach places of influence, the general rule is a high type of character in our public service, and never more so than at the present time.

Touche on Oil Cases

The latter part of this phase of the address was the only statement which might be taken as a reference to the oil leasing cases.

The Republican party's achievements and policies were praised by the keynote as having increased the wealth of the nation from $20,000,000,000 to $400,000,000,000 "with a general distribution of that wealth permitting the highest standards of living ever reached, where the average citizen of this country enjoys more comforts than did the kings of earth two hundred years ago."

Under Republican leadership, he said, the nation had adhered in its foreign policy to the declarations laid down by Washington in his farewell address and to the Monroe Doctrine. It was unwilling to "pay the price of surrender of national sovereignty" to participate in the league of nations he declared.

Referring to the recent proposal of Mr. Coolidge for a multilateral treaty for the renunciation of war, Mr. Fess said the nation had taken the leadership in promoting peace.

Refers to Efforts Abroad

In the relations of the United States with Central American countries, he told the convention the Republican administration "shows a new standard of cosmopolitan philanthropy never before aspired to by any nation of history." When the facts are compiled on America's efforts to promote stable government among the struggling people, he added, "it will reveal aspiration upon our part and realizations upon theirs which will challenge the admiration of the world."

The reduction of taxation and the public debt under the Coolidge administration was described as an accomplishment "not the result of accident but rather of management" through the observance of rigid economy in government bringing about the diminution of the debt at a rate of nearly a billion dollars a year.

Fess referred to the department of commerce, which is headed by Secretary Hoover, a candidate for the presidential nomination, as promoting home building through the better houses movement, "an example of prosperity."

SMITH FOR ANOTHER HOP

CAPTAIN AND CO-PILOT WILL FLY TO NEW ZEALAND

SYDNEY, Australia, June 12.—(AP)—Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and his co-pilot on the trans-Pacific plane Southern Cross, will fly to New Zealand at an early date.

After a brief stay there they will return to Sydney. Lubbeus Hordern, a resident of Sydney, has presented Captain Kingsford-Smith and Ulm with $5,000 ($25,000). The Australian parliament already has presented to Captain Kingsford-Smith a similar amount.

The Americans of the Southern Cross crew, Captain Harry W. Lyon, navigator, and James W. Warner, radio operator, have been given an enthusiastic reception here. The federal government has invited the two Americans to remain in Australia for a month as the commonwealth's guests.

COHORTS OF HOOVER GAIN MORE SUPPORT

tempt to start a demonstration or a march about the hall with state standards. Perhaps this will come later. The only candidate mentioned by Fess was "the secretary of commerce" and the passing reference drew hearty, but only brief applause.

Pays Tribute to Leaders

Going down the line of the past and present leaders of his party, Fess paid each in turn a tribute for what he had done for the nation. At each pause the delegates applauded. Finally the name of Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic war president, was thrown in in passing and it, too, was applauded.

When Senator Fess came to the agricultural question, there was hand-clapping from a part of the auditorium at a declaration against any "price fixing" method of aiding the farmer.

A silent listener was Andrew W. Mellon, who only half an hour before the opening gavel fell had pledged his keynoters to Hoover, giving the commerce secretary the balance of power. He was applauded mildly when he entered the hall and after that he spoke scarcely a half dozen words.

Hoover Men Sitting Pretty

Not so with the other Hoover men, who, while not noisy, smiled their satisfaction that everything was going along to suit them. They appeared not to want to delay the convention by too much applause. They want to get their man nominated as early as possible.

After Senator Fess had concluded, the necessary committees were appointed to draft a platform which must harmonize the bitter differences over the declarations on farm relief and the dispute as to prohibition plank; to decide contests or seats, mainly from the south, and to provide machinery for the permanent organization of the convention over whose future sessions Senator Moses of New Hampshire will preside.

The convention hopes tomorrow to receive the report of the platform and other committees and to hear nominating speeches, the first of which will be delivered by John McNab of California, presenting Secretary Hoover. There is small prospect, however, that balloting will begin before Thursday.

KEYNOTE SOUNDED BY SENATOR FESS

SEN. SIMEON D. FESS Of Ohio, "Keynote" and Temporary Chairman

Temporary chairman of Republican national convention in his keynote speech lauded the leadership of President Coolidge and pointed with pride to the record made during his administration. He observed that Mr. Coolidge had left office by his own fiat. Promise of relief was held out to the farmer, he said, but felt that the burden of the tiller must be lifted largely by his own efforts. He finds that today the American people are in the longest sustained business prosperity in the nation's history.

CARRANZA ENDS FLIGHT

PILOT HOPS FROM MEXICO CITY TO WASHINGTON

Is Welcomed by High Government Officials and Foreign Diplomats at the Capital

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 12.—(AP)—Captain Emilio Carranza, Mexican aviator, late today completed his flight from Mexico City to Washington and was welcomed by high government officials and foreign diplomats.

Before landing at 3:17 p. m. he circled over Bolling field and then as if drawn by the Mexican flag waving proudly, he brought his machine to a stop almost directly in front of the stands where sat the Mexican ambassador and his wife. With Ambassador Teller were assistant secretaries for war, commerce and navy, for aviation, Davidson, MacCracken and Warner.

No sooner had Carranza's plane come to a stop, than Major H. C. Davidson, commandant at Bolling field, went out to greet him. The crowd of 1000 spectators began to mill and cheer. The hands played the Mexican and American national anthems, cameras clicked, and reporters scurried.

Carranza Grins His Pleasure

In the midst of it all, Carranza walked bashfully to the stand, chewing gum, his white teeth showing in a pleasant, half-bewildered grin.

Carranza left Mexico City yesterday morning and had he not been forced down by a fog at Mooresville, N. C. early today, he probably would have landed in Washington shortly after 6 a. m. today. His flying time until he lost his bearings in the mist and haze averaged over 100 miles an hour.

He flew a plane that is a replica of the famous Spirit of St. Louis, and the idea of a non-stop flight from Mexico City to Washington presented itself to Carranza after Colonel Lindbergh made his recent flight to the Mexican capital.

MEXICO CITY, Mex., June 12.—(AP)—Announcement that Captain Emilio Carranza has landed at Bolling field, started a frenzied celebration in the Mexican capital today. Milling crowds thronged the streets, cheering and throwing their hats in the air. A dozen army planes soared over the city.

It seemed as if nothing in the exciting history of Mexico had ever stirred the people as did this peace-time accomplishment.

Church bells, which had been rung since the religious dispute stopped regular services, were rung for the first time since August, 1925. Flags and bunting blossomed from balconies, confetti was brought out, and the city started an impromptu carnival that promised to last throughout the night.

PRINCE CALLISON TO WED

FORMER OREGON FOOTBALL STAR TO TAKE BRIDE

MEDFORD, Ore., June 12.—(AP)—Cards announcing the engagement of Prince G. Callison, former University of Oregon football star, and, for several years past, athletic coach of Medford high school, and Miss Frances Genevieve Donovan of Burlingame, Cal., were received by friends here today.

It is understood that the wedding will take place at the bride's home the last week in June, and that the couple will make their home here, arriving September 1. Callison is now visiting friends and relatives at Eugene.

RITCHIE KING DEFEATS BULAHAN IN 10 ROUNDS

Bob Mariels of Portland Is Winner Over Stewart

PORTLAND, Ore., June 12.—(AP)—Ritchie King, Seattle lightweight held an appreciable advantage in height and reach over Battling Bulahan, aggressive young Filipino, and he used his superior boxing skill to such purpose that he won eight of the ten rounds and the decision in the final bout on the boxing program here tonight.

The other scheduled ten-round fight went only one round and a fraction. Bob Mariels, local heavyweight, launched an avalanche of short right hooks and straight lefts to the jaw of Mike Stewart, hardy resident of Seattle, and Stewart sank to the canvas four times in the first round, and the same number of times in the second. The last time he stayed there.

Kewpie Riley, Vancouver, Wash., and Joe Slesoff, Seattle, both 135 pounders, battled a furious six-round fight to a draw.

In the first event, a scheduled four-round go, Frank Warneke, 140-pound local boy, scored a third-round knockout over Young Morgan, Vernonia.

INDIAN RUNNERS ARRIVE

MARATHON FRISCO TO GRANTS PASS STARTS THURSDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 12.—(AP)—The advance guard of the Indian runners who will race in the Redwood Highway Indian marathon from San Francisco to Grants Pass, Oregon, starting Thursday, began trickling into this city today.

Mad Bull, winner of the 480-mile grind last year, and his running mate, Flying Cloud, who finished second, reached here accompanied by their trainer, Bill Hayward, University of Oregon track coach. Mad Bull said he was in better condition than last year and not only expected to repeat his victory, but better his time of 7 days and 12 hours.

Ford Snaps His Record

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 12.—(AP)—Horace Ford, Cincinnati shortstop, snapped his errorless record at 24 consecutive games here today when he fumbled and then threw wildly past first base for two misplays on the same chance in the fifth inning of the clash between the Giants and Reds. Ford previously had handled 133 chances without an error.

Major League Umpire Dies
NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—Frank Wilson, National league umpire, died of appendicitis at Viary hospital in Brooklyn today after a brief illness. Wilson was stricken and operated upon last Friday and progressed well until last night when he suffered a relapse. He sank steadily until he died.

LOMSKI TO FIGHT LATZO

MEET IN TEN-ROUND BATTLE TONIGHT IN GOTHAM

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—A new advantage of probably ten pounds and a reputation as one of the hardest slugging body punchers in the world, made Leo Lomski, of Aberdeen, Wash., a slight favorite over Pete Latzo, the former Scranton, Minn. boy, as the two wound up training today for their ten-round bout tomorrow night at Ebbets field.

Latzo is by no means figured out of it, however, and there are many who witness his great though losing battle against Tommy Loughran a few days ago, who give him an even chance to match punch for punch and win from the Aberdeen Assassin. This chance is believed to depend to a large extent upon the effectiveness of Lomski's body attack and Latzo's success at blocking blows to the kidneys something he was unable to do against Loughran.

ASKS FISH PROTECTION

ASSOCIATION FILES FOUR INITIATIVE MEASURES

SALEM, Ore., June 12.—(AP)—The Oregon Game Protective association, through its president, Ed Pizacek of Dallas today filed four initiative measures for the protection of wood and game fish in the Rogue, Deschutes, North Umpqua and McKenzie rivers. The measures would withhold from appropriation all waters of those streams not heretofore appropriated and put to beneficial use. The measures brought out the recent contention of fish and game officials that unrestricted appropriation of water

HIGHWAY BIDS OPENED

FEDERAL AID IMPROVEMENT JOBS ARE LISTED

Two of the Projects in Washington, One in Idaho and One in Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore., June 12.—(AP)—Bids on four federal aid highway improvement jobs were opened here today by W. H. Lynch, district engineer of the United States bureau of public roads.

Two of the projects are in Washington, one in Idaho, and one in Oregon.

A. C. Greenwood, Portland, with an offer of $217,124, was low of three bidders for the grading of four miles of the West Side highway in Rainier national park.

Only One Bid For Job

Only one bid was submitted for the surfacing of 10.4 miles of road along the south shore of Lake Chehalis, Wash. It was for $19,980, and was rejected. It was submitted by Goodfellow Brothers, of Wenatchee.

Crick and Huney, Walla Walla, were low with a bid of $85,487 for the grading of five miles of the North and South highway, St. Maries-Moosew section, Idaho. Gust Elloch and company, Portland, was low bidder, with $25,519, for the grading of four miles of road between Tiller and Trail, southern Oregon.

The bids must be passed upon
