SNARLS DEVELOP AS PLANKS ARE SORTED

tentative draft of the platform is far from acceptable to the farm organizations which demand a re-statement for the principle of the equalization fee although without naming it. Administration forces have been resisting this effort as tantamount to a slap at the administration since President Coolidge twice vetoed the McNary-Haugen bill because it contained the fee provision.

Upward Revision Urged
Aside from the tariff declaration in the farm plank, demands were made for a statement for a general upward revision of the tariff. These came especially from the Pennsylvania delegation which approved a resolution offered by Joseph R. Grundy, a large manufacturer and long a leader in Republican politics.

Another proposal emanating from the Pennsylvania delegation was one by William S. Vore which would declare for equal representation of all states in the United States senate at all times.

An all star cast from New York banded away for repeal of the 18th amendment, drawing a fiery reply from a Kansas Methodist.

At the first sitting of the committee for public hearings, a troop of farmers invaded the hall, peacefully enough for all their militant banners, to plead for a plank providing for legislative relief for agriculture.

The notice of hearings brought out representatives of almost every national agency seeking recognition, including women who asked for equal rights and world peace, proponents of higher tariff, advocates of American adhesion to the league of nations and spokesmen for the American Federation of Labor, who urged an anti-injunction and coal relief declarations, among a dozen of others.

All Should Obey Law
Cheers greeted the declaration by Dr. Butler that the dry law should be obeyed as long as it is on the statute books and that it should be obeyed by "cabinet officers, senators, members of the house, governors and others in public life who speak and vote in its favor and violate it every day of their lives."

John Marshall, who described himself as a member of the Methodist church and from Kansas, replied to the wet arguments, placing the prohibition issue on the grounds of religion and asserting that the Christians of the Middle West remanded the dry law.

Senator Borah of Idaho, author of a dry plank for the platform gave the committee a good laugh when he interrupted the wets to inquire of the chairman Senator Smoot of Utah, if the sergeant-at-arms could "be induced to find some good drinking water around here."

"I am dry," he added with a smile.

FREE BRIDGE ASSURED

INTERSTATE SPAN SOON TO BE STATES' PROPERTY

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 12. — (AP)—After operation of nearly 12 years as a joint utility of Clark county, Washington, and Multnomah county, Oregon, the $1,633,000 Columbia river interstate bridge at Vancouver, Wash., will on January 1, 1929, become the property of the states of Washington and Oregon.

At the same time the mile-long steel section of the Pacific highway will become a free bridge with no tolls being assessed except for transit of interurban cars, stages, and certified truck carriers.

This was the decision here late today when the state highway commissions of the two states signed a basic agreement drawn up by the attorney generals of the two states which completes the transaction except for determining the ratio of maintenance distribution.
