

FILIPINOS WILL FACE TEST OF COOPERATION

Stimson's New Policy Facing First Trial

SOLUTION IS IMPORTANT

Management of Corporations Is Causing Much of Island Trouble

By EYAN W. HOBKINS
MANILA.—(AP)—Cooperation between American and Philippine officials, the cornerstone of Governor General Henry L. Stimson's new Philippine policy, is approaching its first severe test.

Efforts to work out a plan for the management of vast business enterprises owned by the insular government have brought both Governor Stimson and leading islanders face to face with a dilemma. The question is whether the Filipinos will continue to cooperate with the governor general or return to the demand for "independence at any price" which prevailed under the late Governor Wood.

Agriculture Concerned
Both Americans and Filipinos know that the development of the Philippines' great agricultural and industrial resources depends on the solution.

The national companies were the chief bone of contention between the late Governor General Wood and the Filipino political leaders. The governor general as minority president of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives.

Wood Abolished Board
General Wood abolished the board in November, 1926, through an order locally famous as Executive Order No. 37, on the ground that the legislature, in creating the board, had assumed powers that belonged solely to the executive branch of the government.

The leaders of the two political parties in the islands contend, even long before the decision was rendered, that the people should have a part in the management of the concerns, through their representatives, the heads of the two houses of the legislature.

Cooperation Expected
In view of the new spirit of cooperation between the executive and the legislative branches of the government, it is generally believed in both political and business circles that Governor Stimson will get together with the legislative leadership to work out a plan to give the people representation in the management of the companies. However, it is freely predicted that the governor general and not the legislature, will hold the controlling vote in any new board that might be created.

The manner in which this may be done remains an unsolved problem. Senator Juan Sumulong, leader of the Democrats, minority party, suggested a plan, which was endorsed by the Nationalist, majority party, shortly after the board of control litigation started. He proposed a new board be created to include the governor general, technical experts in each of the lines of business in which the government is financially interested and perhaps one or two of the department secretaries.

Board Control Question
The objection which has been voiced to his plan, from the viewpoint of the executive branch of the government, is that there is nothing to prevent such a board from taking control away from the executive department by voting in favor of the position taken by the legislature in the event of a dispute over the management of the companies.

The national corporations consist of three major concerns—the Philippine National bank, the Manila railroad and the National Development company—and four smaller concerns. These latter are the Manila hotel, operated by the Manila railroad; the Cebu Cement plant, the National Coal company and the Sabon plant, operated by the National Development company. The companies were organized during the administration of Governor General Harrison, who preceded General Wood. Their total monetary value has been placed in excess of $37,000,000.

BLOOD OF INDIAN CHIEFS FLOWS IN CURTIS' VEINS

G. O. P. Vice-Presidential Nominee Is a Real 100% American

By GRAHAM STEWART International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent

SENATOR CHARLES CURTIS

For the first time in American history an Indian blood is likely to become Vice-President of the United States! This statement isn't as fantastic as it sounds, for—

Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, chosen by the Republicans of the country to be the running mate of Herbert Hoover, is a descendant of noble Indian chieftains himself born on Indian territory in what is now North Topeka. The holder of a powerful position in the Senate, where he was for some time G. O. P. leader, and a statesman second to none, which fact is proved when he coaxed the insurgents of the upper house into party alignment, the vice-presidential nominee's grand-mother was a member of the Kansas Tribe and was one-half Indian. His maternal great-grandfather was "White Plume," chief of the Kansas Tribe, who was the son of "Pawhuska," the great chieftain of the Osages. Thus Senator Curtis, cowboy, rancher, statesman, is justly a "100 per cent American," one of the few who has ever attained high office in the United States.
