Richard Johnson and wife are visitors in Seattle this week.

Mr. Anderson of Hood River, is buying hogs and cattle in this section. Sam Brown, Mr. Heckler, Roy Slusher and several others sold him enough beef stock to make up a car load which was shipped out today.

Frank Creager is building an addition to his house 14x22 and a porch.

All subscriptions and advertising are payable to Walter V. Martin, including the month of October. W. C. Walker.

Send The Times to your friends and relatives. Let them know you are living in a section that is advancing and create an interest.

The traveling public library is now open to the people of this section. Anyone wishing a book inquire of postmaster Talcot. After the book is out two weeks, two cents per day will be charged.

Potatoes. We have them and at the right price.—Shattucks'.

Potatoes:—For good potatoes, call up Wing's barn. Tygh Valley, Oregon.

Mr. Vanderpool and wife returned to Duour last week after enjoying two weeks, visiting their children here.

W. A. Matthews of Sumnasho, was a visitor in Maupin Tuesday, enroute to Portland. He is a missionary among the indians, and his family resides there. The indians are to have a saw mill and a site is being picked out and the government will expect them to build better homes. Some of the indians built good homes but the wigwam still has supremacy among the older, and will until the younger generations become recognized.

Tygh Valley is a beauty spot, at all seasons of the year, and have a very fine class of people. They make you feel at home, wherever you visit.

Announcement

To the Public of Southern Wasco County:

Representing the O. W. R. & N., at Maupin, during the past three years, it has been, not only a privilege, but a great pleasure, to have met and known you in the varied walks of social intercourse and business dealings.

While here with you, it was always my endeavor not only to please my employers, but to serve and advance the interests of the public to the end, that all would be satisfied.

While I have been successful in doing this, I do not forget in no small measure you, my friends have assisted in my advancement and promotion, through your patronage, to the line I represent and while requesting a continuance of this for my successor, Mrs. Eagan joins me, in extending to you all, our sincerest appreciation and warmest thanks. My new position takes both of us from Maupin and our great circle of friends. It is hard to go, but duty calls. We will keep in touch with you through the Maupin Times and various other ways.

In conclusion we must add, success to Southern Wasco and her people. Our home will be at the Bend, in Central Oregon. Come and visit us. A warm welcome awaits you. A. C. Eagan.

Not Perfect.

He—I suppose you think I'm a perfect idiot? She—Oh, dear, no; none of us are perfect.—London Mail.

He Got It.

Small Harold—Papa, won't you please give me 5 cents? Papa—Not now. Run along. I'm very busy. Small Harold (holding his hands joined together)—Well, papa, just drop a nickel in the slot and see me go.—Exchange.

Every Kind in Stock.

"Will you direct me to your range department?" asked the lady in the big department store.

"Certainly, madam," replied the polite floorwalker; "rice, kitchen or mountain?"—Yonkers Statesman.

The Little Thing Counted.

The Pastor (dining with the family)—Ah, yes, Brother Smithers, it is the little things of this life that count! Little Willie (in a loud whisper)—Maw, that's the sixth biscuit he's took.—Exchange.

Spoiled Her Trip.

"Then your wife didn't enjoy her trip to Niagara?"

"No. The minute she saw that rushing water she began to wonder if she hadn't come away from home and left a faucet running."—Pittsburgh Post.

The Place For All.

"Nothing," says Robert Herrick, "frustrates the thinking woman more than to be told that woman's place is in the home. She knows it. It is the man's place also, and she knows that."—Boston Globe.

A Demonstration.

"I distinctly saw you with a policeman's arms around you."

"Oh, yes, mum! Wasn't it nice of him? He was showin' me how to hold a burglar if I found one in the house."—Life.

The Widow's Name.

In addressing a letter to a widow—for instance, "Mrs. John Jones"—you can write it Mrs. John Jones or Mrs. Hilda Jones, whichever you prefer. Either is proper, there being no hard and fast rules about the matter. If Mrs. Jones prefers being addressed as Mrs. Hilda Jones, then let it be that. There is no law in the case one way or the other.—New York American.

Finesses.

"What did you tell your wife when you got home from the club last night?"

"I told her she was the sweetest woman in the world."—Spokane Spokesman Review.

Psalms Not Barred.

The other evening Miss Y., a maiden lady of uncertain years, suspecting the cook was entertaining her beau downstairs, called Martha and inquired whether she did not hear some one talking with her.

"Oh, no, ma'am!" cried the quick-witted Martha. "It was only me singing a psalm."

"Very good," returned Miss Y. significantly. "You may amuse yourself with psalms, but let's have no hims."—Exchange.

Works Both Ways.

Kind Lady—Oh, my poor man, I suppose you are often pined by hunger, are you not?

Tramp—Yes, marm, and by the copper, too, sometimes.—New York Journal.

Definition of Tact.

Mrs. Pyne—Mrs. Blank certainly possesses a lot of tact. Mrs. Hyne—What is your definition of "tact?" Mrs. Pyne—Tact is a woman's ability to make her husband believe he is having his own way.—Lippincott's.

That Wheezy Sound.

"Say," inquired the boy next door of the little girl whose father suffered from asthma, "what makes your father wheeze so?"

"I guess it's one of his inside organs playing."—Puck.

Exclusive.

"My ancestors came over in the Mayflower," said the haughty lady.

"Oh, yes," rejoined Mrs. Cumrox, with interest. "Mine didn't. None of my family ever cared for those big excursions."—Washington Star.

What the Band Did.

"Here's a heading in this paper which says, 'Badly Mutilated by a Mounted Band.'"

"What was the name of the piece the band was mutilating?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Awful Fate.

"What became of that Russian count who insulted you?"

"He choked to death."

"How did that happen?"

"I made him swallow his words!"—Exchange.

CHARACTER.

He that has character need have no fear of his condition. Character will draw condition after it.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Advertising in India. Even in India merchants know the value of newspaper advertising. Newspaper advertising, even though it only reaches a small proportion of the total population, is probably the best general medium for advertising such articles as are used by the most well to do and well educated person with a high standard of living. In proportion to circulation, Indian newspaper rates for advertising are high as compared with the United States.—Publishers' Guide.

Mean of Him.

"Paw,"

"Well?"

"When I promise to marry him do you want him to come and ask your consent?"

"No, not my consent; but I would like to have him trot in and tell me the good news. I sort of feel like I needed cheering up."—Houston Post.

Vocabularies.

A well educated person who has been at high school and university uses from 3,000 to 4,000 words, but the average individual can get along with 1,000. Shakespeare made use of 15,000 and in Milton's works 8,000 are used. By actual count the Hebrew testament says all that it has to say with 5,642 words.

Citizenship.

Aliens of the age of twenty-one and upward, who have enlisted in the armies of the United States, in the regular or volunteer forces, and have been honorably discharged, are entitled to become citizens upon petition, without previous declaration of intention, and are not required to prove more than one year's residence.

His Train Was There.

"And where did William go after the battle of Hastings, Mary?"

"He took the first train to London."

"Why, Mary, you know those people didn't have trains in those days?"

"It says so in the history book, Miss Brown; it says he marched upon London with his train."—University Correspondent.

Sensitive.

Robert Boyle, the philosopher and one of the founders of the Royal Society, could never overcome his aversion to the sound of water splashing from a pipe, and he has put on record the case of one of his servants who could never hear a knife sharpened or a sheet of brown paper torn without bleeding at the gums.

Drawing the Line.

"I want you to read my speeches," said the candidate.

"Couldn't think of it," replied Mr. Dustin Stax.

"Why, I thought you would be interested. You have always subscribed to my campaign fund."

"Yes, I'm glad to be an old subscriber. But I'm hanged if I'll be a constant reader."—Washington Star.

Iron Ore.

Next to the United States, Germany and France are the largest producers of iron in the world.
