Entered in the post office at Maupin, Oregon, as second class mail matter.

A number of Maupin people would attempt, were it within their reach, to consume the whole Deschutes river in their yards and gardens, keeping the sprinkler busy at all hours of the day and night. Tuesday morning so much was being used that water could not be obtained at some of the faucets for domestic purposes.

While we very much appreciate being able to print the news this week, we have still nearly a column of good news which neither time nor space will permit of publication this week. So if the item you contributed is omitted, that is the reason.

Estray Notice.

One bay horse 4 years old, white stripe in face, blocky built branded P on right stifle. One sorrel horse, trim built, star in face, 6 years old, branded P on right stifle. THAT YOUNG CORN LOOKS GOOD.

Those sweet, juicy leaves and stalks, swelling with sugary sap, soft and palatable, and easily chewed—what a feast they would make for a hungry steer! How they would distend the udder of a gentle milker!

Take a hint from the cattle themselves and preserve all the goodness and all the succulent food values of the June forage together with the body building corn for winter feed by storing the entire crop, from stem to stem, in the air tight walls of a
