A little book entitled the World's Crisis, which came to our desk a short time ago, contains a couple well condensed paragraphs on the cause of the present European war, which is worth of note, and we quote as follows:

"For the more immediate cause of the conflict we have only to go back a period of six years. The fatal fire was lit," says Leon Dominian, in the New York Evening Post, "in 1908 in the heart of the mountains of Macedonia, when a Turkish officer sent a telegram to Sultan Abdul Hamid, demanding the reestablishment of the form of constitutional government in Turkey."

Out of that event came a Turkish parliament. To that parliament Bosnia and Herzegovina claimed the right to send delegates, for by the treaty of Berlin they were left suzerain to Turkey although turned over to Austria-Hungary for administration. This claim caused an embarrassment in Vienna that was ended by the high-handed annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina. The Serbs, who constitute the main part of these two provinces, were enflamed to the point of war then, but Russia restrained them. Her response to the move on the chessboard, came later in the shape of the Balkan Alliance, which expelled the Turks and then went to pieces in trying to divide the spoils. The Serbs, who have their own dreams of national grandeur, felt cheated once more by Austria, and out of race hatred that has smoldered and flamed for centuries came the assassination of the Austrian archduke, on the 28th of last June, by a Serb lad of nineteen, resident in Herzegovina. On July 28 Austria-Hungary sent her pre-emptory note to Serbia demanding that she crush out the agitation against Austria and punish those accused of complicity in the murder of the archduke. Serbia's reply was not considered satisfactory, and on July 28 war was declared upon her. Austria says she could not wait longer because Serbia was already mobilizing. Russia says that she had to begin mobilizing at once because Austria was mobilizing. Germany declared war because she found Russia mobilizing and did not dare to wait for Russia to strike first. France began mobilizing because Germany had begun. Belgium was forced into war to resist the invasion of German troops, and Great Britain went to war because she had guaranteed the neutrality of Belgium and Germany refused to respect it."

Ford Runabout . . . $390.
Ford Touring Car . . . 440.

No speedometer included in this year's equipment, otherwise cars fully equipped.

There can be no assurance given against an advance in these prices at any time. We guarantee however, that there will be no reduction in these prices prior to August 1, 1916.

Profit-Sharing With Retail Buyers

On August 1, 1914 we made the announcement that if we could make and sell at retail 300,000 Ford cars between August 1, 1914 and August 1, 1915 we would share profits with the retail purchasers, to the extent of from $10 to $60 on each car. We have sold over 300,000 Ford cars in the time specified, and profit-sharing checks of $50 each will be distributed as rapidly as possible after August 15, 1915. Retail purchasers who have not yet mailed us their profit-sharing coupons, properly endorsed should do so without delay.

Our plan to profit-share with retail purchasers of Ford cars during 1914-15 has been most successful. We thoroughly believe in it, but realizing the uncertainty of conditions generally makes it advisable to defer any announcement of future profit-sharing until a later date.

We are, however, confident of our inability to reduce costs for several months, and therefore can offer no profit-sharing for cars delivered during August, September and October, 1915.
