Threshing was resumed Monday after the rainfall here Friday night and Saturday. The weather has been quite cool since the rain fell, a sudden change from that of a week ago, when the thermometer reached 97 degrees.

Mrs. Laura Kennedy is ill with heart trouble.

Just after dark one evening last week several young people who were enjoying the cool night air concluded while passing the Mack Palmateer place to sample the Red June apples growing near the house. Just as one of the party had climbed the tree and was shaking the delicious fruit to a basket, a gun was fired that seemed near by. No time was lost by the party in reaching the outer gate, where it seemed safe to halt, but the crack of the gun again caused another race for a short distance; then the party stopped, only a moment though, for another explosion of the gun started the young people at full speed. Of course the apples were all spilled at the beginning of the run and Festus Swift was almost dying with laughter during the whole performance. Mr. Swift lives on the hill just above the Palmateer place. Mr. and Mrs. Palmateer are in Toppenish, Wn., at present.

The many friends here of the editor of the Times are unanimous in their expressions of congratulations and wishes for a happy future for the bride and her husband. [Thank you.—Ed.]
