Dufur Notes

E. M. Hill and family motored to Wamic Sunday, their daughter Lois securing a school for the coming term in the Woodcock district. This is the most successful motor trip Mr. Hill has made since learning to drive his Overland, and he came back with a smile.

There was great excitement in this place Monday evening when a telephone message was received stating that the Moody ranch was on fire. Streams of automobiles rushed to the rescue, the business men closing their stores, and upon arrival found they were too late to help, the fire having been put under control before their arrival.

George Jenkins who has been employed on the new elevator at this place, while putting on rustic went to step around a corner of the staging on the inside of the building and took hold of a 2x4 that was not nailed securely and as he put his weight on it, it let loose letting him drop to the bottom of the building, a distance of 85 feet, striking on his head. He was given medical attention at once, but of no avail, life ceasing in an hour and a half. He was nineteen years old and leaves a mother and sister who were depending on him for their support.

Why take a bath in a wash tub when you can get a real bath at Styer's barber shop in the Post office building, Maupin.
