Spain May Prove A Second Russia

New York.—Unfortunate Spain—a few citizens fabulously enriched and the mass of the population bitterly impoverished by the war, her banks so surfeited with gold that the yellow metal is at a discount and her people mostly going without sufficient to eat—seems to keep international observers here on the brink of plunging into a state of disorderly turmoil like that recently witnessed in Russia.
The sanguinary events of the world war distract attention from King Alfonso XIII's country. But history is being made there, which in normal times would fill the front pages of the newspapers and be the principal topic of discussion here from the tea table to the cabinet room.
Spain is probably the hardest hit by the war of all the nations except those actually in the conflict. In the early part of the war the agitation between pro-ally and pro-German groups was looked upon as a possible source of trouble, but this international question is now overshadowed by a multitude of internal maladies any one of which would ordinarily be considered of major importance.

Alfonso Is Hissed.
Alfonso, the athletic young king, has lost his former popularity. He is hissed in the theater and stays away from polo games because of anticipated disagreeable hostile demonstrations. This is because he is blamed for the series of impotent governments which battle weakly and ineffectually against the nation's multiplying difficulties. But Alfonso is no Kaiser. He is as much at the mercy of the conflicting political currents as his subjects. However, it is the prerogative of a king's subjects to blame him for everything that happens.
Mail dispatches received here describe the labor disorders in Spanish cities, which have resulted in several hundred deaths, as likely to increase rather than diminish. Perhaps this is the most serious of the dangers threatening Alfonso today.

The radical workmen, to be compared with the Bolsheviks of Petrograd, are pursuing a course of sabotage and destruction in an effort to intimidate the authorities. But the outbreaks in different cities appear to have little connection and the movement is not well organized.
Whatever power the workmen's revolution has arises from the fact that it costs two and a half times as much to live in Spain as it did before the war, while wages, contrary to the experience in most other countries, have remained stationary or actually decreased.

Many lines of profitable manufacturing have had to close, because their markets in the Teutonic countries and in Russia have been cut off by war lines and because England, France and Italy are stringently limiting importations. In a few lines the entente allies have demanded all Spain could produce and have made merchants and manufacturers wealthy beyond their wildest dreams. But these exceptions have not relieved the general situation.

Army Its Own Master.
The army so far has proved dependable when set to the task of putting down the revolutionary workmen. But Spain's army is almost self-governing, as Russia's was for many weeks last spring, before Kerensky was able to use the spectre of defeat by Germany to restore discipline.

Every army corps and smaller unit, it appears, a council of defense. This is especially representative of the noncommissioned officers and commissioned officers of lower grade, who feel themselves ill-treated by the bureaucracy at Madrid. It will be remembered that in the army crisis of a few weeks ago the officers were able to force the release of their leaders who had been thrown into fortress prisons. The army trouble is not settled. The officers demand technical changes in organization, more pay, and less favoritism in promotions.

A third clearly defined source of trouble is the separatist movement in Catalonia. The Catalans speak a different language from the people of Madrid. It might be described as midway between French and Spanish, as Catalonia lies between France and the rest of Spain. The Catalan is insulted if called a Spaniard—"Catalan" is what he likes as a designation of nationality.

The province of Catalonia is the wealthiest, most prosperous and most progressive in the country. Its capital, Barcelona, is the center and hotbed of most revolutionary movements in Spain. Most of its people would rather be part of France than of Spain. They believe a hidebound, incurably antique government at Madrid is preventing their taking a place with the most advanced peoples on the globe.

Other Spanish provinces would also like to break away from the Madrid government, perhaps partly in imitation of Catalonia, but more on account of what differences in race, language, manners and habits of thought.

Country Seems to Be on Brink of Plunging Into State of Turmoil.

HARDEST HIT OF NEUTRALS

King Has Lost His Popularity and Is Hissed When He Appears in Public—Three Parties Are Pro-Ally.

PRINCESS JOLANDA OF ITALY

This latest photograph of the Princess Jolanda of Italy shows a smile that reveals her joy at the successes the Italian arms have been winning in the Carso and along the Isonzo, where the Italian forces have been steadily driving back the Austrians from one mountain fastness to another. It is a smile that she shares with everyone in Italy, for the whole nation is filled with joy at the glorious prospect of victory over their foe of centuries, and well may they be glad, for the fighting men of Italy have covered themselves with glory in the fighting above the clouds. Princess Jolanda is the eldest daughter of the king and queen of Italy and like them she has endeared herself to the Italian people during the war.

Internal troubles became paramount this "block" was concentrating its efforts on throwing Spain into the war as an entente ally. Spain's grievances against the Germans are almost exactly like the United States—continued outrages on undefended merchant ships by the U-boats.

Not to go into all the maze of details, one may say in general that the conservatives, the clericals, the high army officers and the leaders of the old aristocratic families favor Germany.

But there are notable exceptions to the general rule that the aristocrats favor Germany, one being the Duke of Alba, whose family has been famous in history for centuries.

The king himself is believed to lean toward the entente. His consort, Ena, is British through and through. In fact, she has incurred some unpopularity by failure to conceal her preference for England to Spain.

But what the king may do matters little. High officers in the government at Madrid is confined to a group of about a thousand men, bureaucrats no less stupid if not so brutal as those of the czar. Cabinet follows cabinet in an endless, wearying round. Each one is destined to failure from the start, because of the brainless hidalgos in positions of importance, if for no other reason.

Thus, unhappy Spain stumbles on. She is buffeted by blasts from all directions. The Spaniard is a natural revolutionary. There seems little likelihood of a solution of the country's troubles—little chance that any sort of a firm, strong central government will take control and lead the people in the ways of a modern prosperous democracy.

Carlists Also a Danger.
Unusual as it would seem in these days, Spain may even witness conflicts over the crown. The Carlists are very strong. Most of the pro-

tence, like Nicholas Romanoff. He is a soldier and a real one.

But Alfonso might bow to reason, where force would not avail. In a light moment he offered once to run as candidate for Spain's first president should the people desire a republic.

Yet Spain's troubles are too deep-seated and too involved to be cast off with a change of constitution. What would help her most is the ending of the great war. If the war goes on Spain's woes appear certain to increase.

DRAFT TWIN; OTHER ENLISTS

Brothers Who Have Never Been Separated Want to Be Together in Army.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Harry F. and Herbert N. Langlois, twin brothers, twenty-six years old, played together when youngsters, studied through school life together, received their diplomas on the same stage, were partners in the business world and had never been separated a day in their lives when Harry was notified in Los Angeles he had been selected for Uncle Sam's Liberty army. Herbert's number was down near the end of the list, but when he heard his brother had to go to war he immediately began setting up his end in the Hughes Arizona Copper company and announced he would join Harry in the trenches.

"We are not going to let the war separate us now," said the brothers at their home here. "We have never been separated a day, and as we lived together so we would choose death together, if such should be our lot. Neither of us wants exemption. We are both ready to fight for Uncle Sam and we have no dependents."

VIOLIN USED TO CATCH FISH

But It Is Not the Lure of Music That Lands Them—New Fish Yarn.

Macon, Mo.—"They have a new wrinkle for catching fish at Elmer, and it is wonderful the luck they have," Alva Willoughby, circuit clerk, remarked, swapping experiences at the courthouse. "About fifteen of us pitched camp on a lake north of town and then set lines across zigzag, like German entanglements, you know. When all was ready the fiddler sat on a log and played 'The Arkansas Traveler' and other classics. And you ought to have seen the fish come in! By noon we had more than the party could eat. They tell me they always take a fiddler along when they go fishing up there."

"I see," County Clerk Sears said. "The music charms them, and they go blindly toward it and are caught on the lines."
"Not exactly," Willoughby replied. "You see, we put the musician at the other end of the lake and in padding to get away from the noise the fish run into the hooks."

PORT OF ROME TO BE REBORN

Ostia Again Will Supply Food and Coal After Sleep of Nearly Ten Centuries.

Rome.—After a sleep of nearly ten centuries, Ostia, the ancient port of Rome, will now be reconstructed to supply Rome with cereals, coal and other necessities. Under the Caesars, in the most glorious period of the Roman port, especially for the landing and storage of free grain, which the emperors had to give the Romans if they would keep them in a good temper. Little by little the Tiber filled up the port with mud, and under the troubles of barbarian invasion Ostia became wholly deserted. Many times the Romans have desired to rebuild the port and facilitate food supply, but it costs money, and jealous Naples, whose port now supplies Rome, raised great objections. The commune of Rome has, however, gained a victory, and the governor has sanctioned the rebirth of one of the oldest ports in the world.

SKIRTS WILL BE TAKEN IN

Paris Styles for Coming Winter Are Designed to Economize on Fabrics.

Paris.—Dress styles of the coming winter are designed to economize on woollen fabrics as much as possible. The Master Dressmakers' association of Paris has decided that not more than 5 1/2 yards of cloth shall be used in making a dress. This compares with an average of ten or twelve yards two years ago and seven yards last year.

The association also has decided to use silk and national products as much as possible and decrease the amount of cloth imported. The Tailors' association and the large fashionable shops have agreed to this reform.

LABOR

Eastern Washington Industries Suffer On Account of Men Being Taken for War—Union is Formed.

Spokane.—A labor shortage of 10,000 woodmen and mill operatives faces timber operators of eastern Washington and Oregon and northern Idaho, it was declared here Thursday at a meeting of the Loggers' club, composed of lumbermen of that section and attended also by several operators from Montana.

Of these, 7000 were lost by army enlistment or draft, it was stated, but about as many now engaged in harvesting and firefighting will be available for woods work later. The operators took no action on wages, and no decision for uniform resumption of operations was announced.

Plans for circulating among lumber manufacturers and their employes petitions for congress asking for a universal eight-hour day in the lumber industry were formulated and the club reaffirmed its indorsement of the eight-hour day.

A resolution indorsing the boycott of coast building trades unions against lumber manufactured in camps and mills running 10 hours a day was passed by the local Central Labor council, and referred to the Spokane Building Trades council.

Application for a charter in the American Federation of Labor was made to the Central Labor council by a newly organized union of mill workers and timbermen, which it was declared has 400 members. It is committed to the principle of the eight-hour day, it was announced.

HUNTERS FIND GAME SCARCE

First Venture in Eastern Washington Brings Poor Results.

North Yakima.—Hunters who went into the hills Sunday and Monday for grouse did not find the birds plentiful and few of them got full bags. Game Warden Greenman and a deputy stationed themselves at the forks of two roads leading into the most popular districts for hunters Sunday evening and held up and examined from 60 to 60 automobile parties returning. In no instance was it found that the bag limit had been exceeded, and only four were found who could not show their licenses, each of whom claimed they had a license but had come away without it.

Two More Mills Are Reopened.

Seattle.—The big sawmill of the Puget Sound Mill & Timber company at Port Angeles, and the plant of the Crown Lumber company at Mukilteo, have reopened each working 10 hours daily at half capacity. Spruce from the Willapa harbor district is being shipped in trainloads to Grays Harbor, to be cut into airplane stock for the United States. Twenty-one of the 24 mills on Grays Harbor are running. The I. W. W. who have been on strike for several weeks, are returning to work in the logging camps.

Laugh When People Step On Your Feet

Try this yourself then pass it along to others. It works!

Ouch ! ! ! ! ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn or hardened callous stops soreness at once, and soon the corn or callous dries up and lifts right off without pain.
He says freezone dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any drug store, but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callous from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels. If your druggist doesn't have freezone tell him to order a small bottle for you.

Cynical. The cynical spinster's definition of marriage is simply an opportunity for a girl to throw herself away on some man.

WOMAN SICK

TWO YEARS

Could Do No Work. Now Strong as a Man.

Chicago, Ill.—"For about two years I suffered from a female trouble so I was unable to walk or do any of my own work. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and determined to try it. It brought almost immediate relief. My weakness, nervousness, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.
