Guy Harvey hauled lumber and wood from this place to homestead at Lick Skilet on the Peschute river last week.

F. M. Driver and W. M. Jackson left Thursday for Portland and Warrington where they are engaged in real estate business at the latter place. Jay Fowler took them to The Dalles in his new Overland.

Eugene Pratt constructed seats for the cemetery whereby persons may have the comfort of sitting down while there. The Ladies Social Club ordered them made.

This place experienced some springlike weather the past week. A car of fat hogs was shipped from here Monday. W. E. Johnson, Frank Magill, J. E. Kennedy and Albert Savage being among those shipping.

Assisted by his neighbors, Ralph Chandler raised a log barn on his homestead Saturday.

Don Stogsdill hauled several loads of posts from this place to the home of his brother on Juniper

Flat last week.

Rastus Savage and wife who were called here by the illness and death of Mr. Savage's brother, returned to Portland after the funeral.

Mrs. Maude Okerman who came to this place to attend her father, David Savage, left for home at Riley accompanied by her mother.

The fatal accident to Jim Lake was a shock to the people of this community. Mr. Lake formerly resided here and had warm friends who are deeply saddened by his untimely death. Much sorrow is felt for the bereaved parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Lake and their family who reside here. Mr. Lake hurried to Maupin as soon as the news of the accident to his son reached this place. Mrs. Lake and Winston went to The Dalles Saturday, Henry Miller taking them in his car.

Mrs. Annie Gilmore left Saturday for her home in Creswell after spending a month here with her mother.

Parties gathered at Four Corners cemetery a week ago and set in the ground the concrete posts made by the End brothers, ordered by the Ladies' Social Club. The women here prepared a lunch with hot coffee for the working men.

The Social Club met at the Young-Chastain

A quiet wedding took place Tuesday afternoon at the home of the Christian minister when Leonard Chastain and Miss Callie Young of Maupin were united in marriage by Rev. O. P. Burris. A cousin and the sister of the groom were the attendants of the bridal couple and only a few friends witnessed the simple ceremony. The young couple will make their home in Maupin.—Optomist.

home of Mrs. Mary J. Swift Saturday afternoon and elected officers: Mrs. Georgia Norvel, president; Mrs. Mary Beaty, vice president; Mrs. Maud Gerity, secretary and Mrs. Mary Pratt, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Woodcock were over from Maupin Saturday, remaining over night.

Jack Fraley and family were over from Juniper Flat Saturday, guests at the Willie Norvel home.

Jake Spath, who with his family resides in The Dalles, visited his farm here last week.

Wapinitia Items

Sunday, December 2nd, will be a big day here. Bishop Washington of the Pacific coast district, and who just recently came from the east, and Rev. G. E. McDonald, conference superintendent have announced that they will be here over next Sunday and hold services and dedicate the church. There will be several services during the day, and in the afternoon the Maupin and Wapinitia Bands have promised to come and furnish the music. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. An old fashioned basket dinner will be served. Come and bring well filled baskets.

A genuine rain is falling here today, Wednesday.

Mrs. Geo. Heitz left here Monday for Aberdeen, Wn., where Mr. Heitz is employed in the shipyards. Mary Bowen accompanied her there.

Mrs. J. P. Abbott returned from Suplee where she has been staying with Mrs. Washburn since Mr. Washburn's death. Mrs. Washburn has been sick with pneumonia but was able to sit up when Mrs. Abbott left. One of Mrs. Washburn's little girls came home with her.

U. S. Endersby was visiting at Cap Endersby's at Eight Mile last week. Bill and Alice Endersby of that place came home with him and will remain until after Thanksgiving.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Woodside and Mrs. Barzee returned home from Portland Saturday.

Mrs. N. G. Hedin, and little daughter Nova, left here for Portland to day to spend Thanksgiving with her parents, and soldier Bro. Harold Rutherford, who visited here last winter, and will be home on a furlough before going east.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Wilson arrived home Sunday morning. Mr. Wilson has been at Camp Lewis since September 5th. Mrs. Wilson has been visiting relatives in Tacoma and Seattle the past few weeks. Mr. Wilson says he likes the Army life fine and that they are all a fine bunch of fellows. A reception was given him in Evick's hall Monday night. A short programme was rendered, and the Maupin, and Wapinitia Bands furnished the music. E. M. Hartman gave an address and an urgent plea for the Y. M. C. A. was made. Mr. Wilson gave us a fine talk on Army life, and

YOUNG MERCHANT FATALLY INJURED

Auto Accident

Friday night while enroute from Shattuck's hall to their rooms at the Kelly Hotel after the dance, J. A. Lake, John Parsons, and Paul French of The Dalles in the latter's car, skidded at the curve below the school house, the machine turning completely over and righting itself.

Mr. Lake, who was in the front seat beside the wheel, and having nothing to protect him, dashed his head through the windshield, from which injuries he died Saturday night at 9 o'clock.

They went to their rooms and although Mr. Lake complained of his head hurting him, the injuries were not thought so serious until Dr. Elwood was called and found a broken jaw bone, and the skull fractured. He became unconscious about 8 o'clock from which he never rallied, and L. D. Kelly took him soon after noon to The Dalles hospital where an operation was performed to no avail.

Mr. Lake was a young man of pleasing appearance and has made many friends during his residence of something over a year in Maupin, as well as having built up a thriving little merchandise business of Lake's Cash Store at the end of the bridge. He is a native of Wasco county, having spent most of his life in The Dalles, being the son of A. E. Lake of Wamic, a former county judge.

Funeral services were held at the Crandall chapel in The Dalles at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning and interment made in the Odd Fellows' cemetery.
