The Volunteer

In answer to Only a Volunteer. Why didn't you wait to be drafted, Why didn't you wait for the band, Because you are not a waiter, When wanted by Uncle Sam. Why didn't you wait for the Why should you wait for a cheer

When Uncle Sam and your country needs you
Of course you would volunteer.
You say nobody gave you a banquet
Or even a kindly word,
But those who love you best my boy,
Are glad that the call you heard.

And when you were hustled off to camp
To be trained for half a year
We knew you didn't need a brace
To become a volunteer,
And perhaps when in the future
A small boy sits on your knee
He will be glad to know that his daddy
Helped to make all nations free,
And he will be proud of you
And hold you ever more dear,
Because you didn't wait for the draft
And was only a volunteer,
And when you are on the water
And the call to arms you hear
Be sure that the folks at home are proud
Of the boy whose a volunteer.

The Dalles, Ore.

Who's Who

- Professor John B. Wise — A poor married man
- Dr. Matthew Graham — A Country Physician
- Billie Blake — A college boy
- Jupiter Jackson — A black trump
- Mrs. Iona Ford — some mother-in-law
- Zoie — Her charming daughter
- June Graham — A Little Freshman
- Rosalind Wilson — College reporter
- College Boys and Girls—

Orchestra Music

ACT I. Living room in the professor's bungalow. The students prepare a hot reception for the professor and his bride. The pretty college reporter writes up the home coming. The dummy bride. Jupiter has trouble with the "decoration." "Well I'll be dog-goned." The bride's mother arrives. "Is this a Junitic asylum?" "No, lady, its only a college town." "That's the same thing!" "Here comes the bride." A befuddled bridegroom. "Is dat young hippopotamus our little pet dog Socrates?" "Say, how old is my daughter?" "I should say about twenty." Then how old is my wife?" "Well she must be at least twenty-one." Lobster salad and mysterious disappearances. A modern Lucrezia Borgia. Getting rid of Socrates. "My dear, you've married a lunatic!"

ACT II. Same scene as Act I. Billie and Zoie. "Professor, I love your wife." "Take her mother." Dr. Graham and his modest little daughter make a great impression on the professor. "We'll get a divorce." A peaceful little lunch. "Good lawsey me, I've poisoned, I've a dead nigger, I've a gone coon!" Off for Reno.

ACT III. Two years later. A happy family. Marriage is not a failure. A letter from Billy. Doctor Graham and his bride. "She's like a violet, a little, timid, shrinking violet!" June mistakes Zoie for her new mamma. "You have deceived me, sir; I'll get a divorce." The professor's nightmare Billy's trip to China and what he found there. "Marriage is a great and grand success."
