Winter weather still prevails, snow, freezing wind, all mixed together.

School opened Monday in the Pine Grove district after a number of weeks' vacation.

Mr. Johnston came from Portland last week and announces he is here to stay, and will handle real estate business and life and fire insurance.

Mr. Doak is here from Portland and looking after a farm. O. L. Paquet, the last victim of the flu in this vicinity, has now recovered, but says his ears have contracted it, and cough, sneeze and choke just like they had genuine influenza.

Clyde Flinn has been assisting Mr. Pratt haul straw the past week from R. W. McCorkle's farm. They report the roads in very bad condition, being almost impossible to get over them with a load.

The people of this section are very grateful for the untiring efforts of N. G. Hedlin, who is so faithfully working for the building of a spur road from this section to

Home from France

(Wapinitia)

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson Rice were made very happy Monday morning when their son Arthur who has been in the army for about eighteen months arrived home. He enlisted in Portland in July, 1916 and spent a few months in the different training camps in the U. S. and was then sent over seas in December, 1916, and remained there until some time in January. He has had some very exciting experiences during his services there. Has spent a number of months in different hospitals, been operated on three different times; but spent much of the time at the front, has been gassed twice and slightly wounded once. At one time at the front when they were separated from their supplies he went four days and nights without food or water. He says that time he was about all in. Once when he was delivering messages from one post to another, as he was making a trip the big shells were flying and bursting all around him and it seemed as though he could not make it, seeing a dug out, he jumped into it, but found it already occupied by a number of Hun. He says he proceeded to get out of there as quickly as he got in, but just as he was making his exit a big Hun grabbed him by the coat, but it fortunately was unbuttoned and he slipped out of it leaving it in the Hun's hands. In the coat were some valuable papers which were lost. At two different times when he was in the hospital the stretcher was ordered to take him out, but he had revived before it arrived. Arthur now wears two stripes on his sleeve, one for a year's service over seas, and the other one for being gassed also a star, showing volunteer enlistment and that he was among the first fifty thousand to arrive over seas. He fought at Verdun and Argonne Wood, and in some way unaccountable to him, he lost his identification tags and everything whereby he could be identified, and it will be some time before the officials can get the records straightened out so he can draw his pay. He came from France in a hospital ship via South America, and was in a hospital in Paris when the armistice was signed. He carries a medal given him by the the school children at Verdun. Arthur Rice is the first boy from this section to arrive home from 'over there'.

connect with the Mt. Hood loop road. This would be of untold benefit to this section of the country, as it would only take a few hours to drive to Portland with a car.

Mack Hollman has opened up the pool room of Pearl Eyick and is doing some business nowadays, being patronized by some of the ladies.

Milt McClure is quite sick at the home of his niece, Mys. Bowen. Ed Davis spent several days last week at his homestead on the hills.

Jackson Rice made a trip to Maupin Tuesday taking his son Arthur to take the train for Portland, where he will sign his final discharge papers. He will return here in a few days.

Arthur Pechette went to the Abbott ranch Monday, where he will be employed helping care for the sheep.

Mrs. Ball came down from the Agency Tuesday and is visiting

Hold U. S. Insurance

To the relatives of America's soldiers and sailors:

Your relatives serving with the colors will soon be back in civil life. For your protection and for their own, they undoubtedly have taken out insurance with the United States Government. You should impress upon your relatives in the service the vital importance of keeping their insurance with the Government. Write to them without delay—or tell them personally, if you can—that they may retain insurance with the United States Government even after they leave the military service.

The privilege of continuing their Government insurance in a valuable right given to soldiers and sailors as part of the compensation for their heroic and loyal services. If the soldier or sailor permits his insurance to lapse, he loses that right and he will never be able to regain it. But if he keeps up his present insurance—by the regular payment of the monthly premiums—he will be able to change it later to a standard Government policy without medical examination. Meantime he can keep up his present insurance at substantially the same low rate. The Government will write ordinary life insurance, 20-payment life, endowment maturing at age 62, and other usual forms of insurance. This will be Government insurance at Government rates.

Many men will come out of the war physically impaired and will, therefore, be unable to obtain any life insurance protection whatsoever for themselves and their families unless they keep up their present insurance with the United States Government. Uncle Sam's insurance may be continued and converted into standard Government policies, regardless of the men's physical condition.

Impress these things upon your relatives in the service. Tell them there is nothing safer or stronger than Government insurance. Tell them to talk about this to their commanding officers and to the insurance officer at their place of duty before they leave the service. Tell them to carry back with them to civil life as an aid and asset, the continued insurance protection of the protection of the United States Government. Tell them for your sake and for their sake, to hold on to Uncle Sam's insurance.
