DORT

Quality Goes Clear Through

This is not only one of the most beautiful cars in America, but one of the most economical to operate. It is not at all surprising to get from 23 to 25 miles to a gallon of gasoline. The mileage on tires is equally high. This along with the fact that the New Model DORT has unlimited power makes it your kind of a car.

And think of it—you may own one of these remarkable motor cars at $985 factory. And on our easy payment plan, too. Write us direct—today—or see your local Dort dealer.

Some very desirable territory still open to responsible parties who would like to act as dealers. Very attractive proposition.

BEHEADER LOSES HIS JOB
Former Prussian Death Dealer is Now Trying to Sell His Official Ax and Block.
London.—Herr Englehardt, formerly the chief executioner of Prussia, is trying to sell his official ax and block, according to a dispatch from Berlin.
He has no further use for the implements, having lost his job after holding it a little more than ten years. He received a fee of $25 for each execution, besides his traveling expenses and $250 a day subsistence money when employed away from home.

Englehardt succeeded his father-in-law Gustave Reinold, who died in harness in 1908, at the age of eighty-five, having beheaded over 100 criminals during his term of office. Reinold always wore evening dress when wielding the ax, and his son-in-law remained faithful to this custom.
Prussia and Brunswick were the last countries to retain the ax for capital punishment. The guillotine is used

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

DEPENDENT ON OTHERS.

DID you ever stop to realize how dependent you are upon the thoughts and efforts of your fellow men?
Did you ever try to imagine just what would happen to you if you were left alone on this round globe with all its wealth, all its resources and all its possibilities?
It might teach you a lesson in humility if you gave it the proper consideration.
The money would be worth nothing to you for there would be no person from whom you could buy.
You could not even be charitable and give it away for there would be none to accept it.
What would happen to you then happens in a lesser measure every day now.

Let us suppose you are a millionaire with plenty of money and a desire to spend it, we will say, for a beautiful home.
Suppose again that the masons and the carpenters and the plasterers and the hundred and one other artisans whose handiwork go into a fine home, refused to accept your money or do your work. How would you get your home?
You might by dint of hard work build yourself a shelter, but it would not be at all what you wanted nor in the least what you could afford.
You see, then, that although you were a millionaire, you are dependent for your home comforts upon the willing efforts of others.

Suppose, on the other hand, that you are a poor man, not poverty-stricken, but poor in the sense of modern fortunes.
You have saved a few hundred dollars, bought a bit of ground and wish to build yourself a home.
In order to do it you have to borrow money. Suppose the bank, or the building association, or whatever organization you apply to just plainly and bluntly refuses to loan you a penny.
You will find yourself in the same predicament that the millionaire was in. You cannot have the kind of home you want and can afford. You are dependent on others for that.

Every morning when you eat your breakfast you are eating, in part, the labor of hundreds of men and women. The clothes you wear, the shoes you walk in, the hat that shelters your head, all the necessities, to say nothing of the luxuries, you enjoy are the fruit of your dependence upon other people.
If you could analyze your needs for one day and count the human beings that labored to satisfy them with either toil or money, you would find that scores and scores of people had been indirectly in your employ and working in your behalf.
And, on the other hand, you have the satisfaction of knowing if you do an honest day's work that you have labored to help scores of others.

It is the lack of recognition given to the fact that we are all dependent each upon the other that leads to our greatest troubles. It is that that pits capital against labor and labor against capital. It is that that causes the war between classes and the wars between nations.
If you fully recognized your indebtedness to your fellow man, you would want to help him because by doing so you would be indirectly helping yourself.

If everybody in the world set out to gouge and cheat everybody else in the world, it would be only a short time before there would be utter chaos, commercially, and morally.
It is because only a comparative few try at one time to get all they can regardless of methods or results that keeps the world on an even keel and society from toppling to destruction.

The more we recognize that we must rely and depend upon each other, the higher consideration we have for the good of the world as a whole and the more nearly we come to being truly civilized.
God in His wisdom made no one absolute.
The only such power that has ever been bestowed has been placed and recognized by subjects who thought they needed to be ruled, which was a conclusion not very complimentary to themselves.

It is really worth while for you to think for a few minutes on what an inefficient and incompetent being you are when you divorce yourself from all outside aid. It will help you to be meek and in the greatest sermon ever preached it was said, "Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth."
(Copyright.)

The Ostrich is Shedding a Toe.
The common ostrich has only two toes, but certain individuals, it appears, are tending to lose one of these. Possibly, in time, there will arise a one-toed form, analogous to the present day one-toed horses, whose ancestors had as many toes as the ancestors of the ostrich.

Suspense.
The moving picture audience was watching a bathing beauty scene, and stood it pretty well. A five-year-old girl was also watching and stood it about as long as she could. "Say, mother," she piped, in a voice heard all over the theater, "when are they going to put their nighties on?"—Film Fun.

Japanese Sleeping Arrangements.
The Japanese bed, consisting merely of a few thick comforters and a pillow, can easily be made up in any room. It is considered a mark of hospitality to make the guest's bed in the parlor and put the room at his disposal.

Federal Bonus Favored.
Washington, D. C.—The five-way soldiers' bonus bill endorsed by the American Legion was reported favorably Monday by the senate finance committee. There was no opposition in the committee but several senators reserved the right to offer amendments.

Salem.—The state board of control has rejected bids for installing equipment for an auxiliary water plant at the state home for the feeble-minded. The lowest bid received was in excess of the appropriation of $16,000 authorized by the last legislature.

Severe but Effectual.
The Miami Herald says that in some parts of Tibet they eat bride's mother at the wedding feast. That's certainly a severe but effective way of getting rid of the mother-in-law difficulty.

Thirty-foot Cone of Ice.
Water from a pressure pipe protruding about the ground in the northern part of New York state, gradually froze, forming a natural cone of ice thirty odd feet in height.

Then He's Not Interesting.
It is not hard to arouse a man's interest by telling him it's his move, unless you indicate that he must move toward the cornfield or the iron works.—Houston Post.

Watch Cuticura Improve Your Skin.
On rising and retiring gently smear the face with Cuticura Ointment. Wash off Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water. It is wonderful sometimes what Cuticura will do for poor complexions, dandruff, itching and red rough hands.—Adv.

But His Love Lasts Longer.
The college professor who says that after a man is thirty years old he is guided by common sense in falling in love must have forgotten that there's no fool like an old fool.—Boston Transcript.

Worry—A Moral.
There was a man who worried because he feared he would die before he could make adequate provision for the future of his wife, to whom he was passionately attached. He carried his worry with him night and day. It made him so melancholy and irritable that his wife, unable to bear his sad, dull company any longer, ran away with another man, and he never saw her again! Worry often does things like that!

How True!
A Philadelphia capitalist says too much money is a bad thing. However, there is this consolation: Not many are afflicted with it.

All Puffed Up.
When a man completes a doubtful deal without getting caught he imagines he has brains enough to be a lawyer.—Exchange.

Jud Tunkins.
Jud Tunkins says a man may show wisdom by declining to take all kinds of advice, but never by refusing to listen to it.

The Supreme Excellence.
In character, in manners, in style, in all things, the supreme excellence is simplicity.—Longfellow.
