OLD SETTLER PASSES

Early Resident of Tygh Valley Dies in Portland.

J. T. Harper, 65 years old, died in Portland Sunday, following an extended illness. Mr. Harper was an early resident of The Dalles at one time operating a grocery store here. Later he moved to Tygh Valley where he operated a general merchandise store until about four months ago, when he moved to Portland. He is survived by his wife, one sister, Mrs. Mary Bass of St. Joseph, Mo., and three brothers, J. H., A. H., and W. D. Harper, all of The Dalles. He was a member of the Tygh Valley Odd Fellows' lodge and the Dufur Masonic lodge. The body will arrive in The Dalles tomorrow. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. from the Crandall Undertaking company's chapel, Rev. W. H. H. Forsyth officiating. Fraternal services will be held at the grave, under the direction of the Masonic lodge. Burial will be in the Odd Fellows' cemetery.—Chronicle, July 11.

Excursion Date Changed.

The excursion of farmers from the middle west to Oregon which was scheduled to leave Omaha on July 19 and which would have reached Maupin on July 27 has been postponed until some time in September.

The reasons given are that because of the excessive rains throughout that section, there are miles of wheat in Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri still in the shock and the weather is such that it cannot be threshed and the farmers are unable to leave at this season of the year. The farmers interviewed by the Union Pacific men and others assisting in the work have stated that they would be glad to come to Oregon in September and request that the date for them to leave be postponed until that time.

DECREE FAVORABLE

Wapinitia Irrigation Co. Wins Bitterly Contested Suit.

The decree of Judge Wolverton in the Keep-Morgan suit against the Wapinitia Irrigation Company and water users is here in below printed. It was one of the most bitterly contested cases in the U. S. Federal Court in many years. It lasted ten days. Among the witnesses who attended the trial were L. B. Kelly, J. S. Brown, John Ayers, W. B. Keen, Joe Colt, Edward Fisher, and others. This victory over Keep and the Eastern Irrigation Power and Lumber Company is occasion for rejoicing over Wapinitia Plains. The attorneys for Morgan and Keep were Shepherd & Mendelshon, Richard Montague represented the farmers and water users. Attorneys Harry Hay and S. B. Houston, the late senator, represented Wapinitia Irrigation Company.

DECREE

That the complaint should be, and hereby is dismissed.

That the defendant Joseph R. Keep and his agents, employees and attorneys should be, and hereby are, perpetually enjoined from interfering, directly or indirectly, with the Wapinitia Irrigation Company in its enjoyment of the property and rights, franchises, etc., acquired by said defendant corporation by virtue of the deed to it from the Eastern Irrigation, Power and Lumber Company which said deed is further described as bearing date on or about the twenty-fifth day of September, 1914; and are also perpetually enjoined from in any manner disturbing the said Wapinitia Irrigation Company and the water users securing water from the ditches of said defendant company, or either or any of them, in the full enjoyment of their respective properties, rights and privileges with reference to the irrigation plant of said Wapinitia Irrigation Company.

That the answering defendants in the suit, namely, the Wapinitia Irrigation Company, a corporation; E. E. Miller, J. P. Abbott, C. E. Alexander, J. W. Ayres, Fen Batty, Frank Batty, Roy Batty, Ed Bothwell, H. F. Bothwell, O. D. Bothwell, A. A. Britton, John Carlin, W. O. Chastain, George Claymier, F. M. Confer, Charles Cox, J. S. Fischer, and each of said answering defendants have and recover of and from the above-named complaint, their respective costs and disbursements in the above entitled suit.

Done and dated at Portland, Oregon, this 9th day of May, 1921.

Chas. E. Wolverton,
District Judge.

Game Warden Makes Catch

Verily the way of the transgressor is strewn with much grief, and he that fisheth without a license had best keep his weather eye peeled for the wily game warden.

One gentleman of Maupin and two more of Tygh Valley have cause to believe there is wisdom in the above paragraph.

L. B. Kelly of Maupin, being of the opinion that Old Sol was smiling too brightly for comfort on the hill, hid himself to the river to while away an hour or two in the shade of a willow and incidentally angle for the luscious rainbow. Mr. Kelly is not really fond of fishing and seldom indulges in this form of sport or pastime, consequently Mr. Kelly had neglected to secure the necessary angler's license. (We think Mr. Kelly will agree the word necessary is well used). Mr. Earl B. Houston, game warden of Bend, being a very industrious game warden, and a game warden who ranges wide and silently, silently ranged upon Mr. Kelly in his quiet and secluded and shady spot. Mr. Houston is not a fisherman and seldom indulges in the sport but seems to have an overgrown hankering to feast his eyes upon the little blue tinted slip the state uses for a receipt for the coin they extract from your bank roll for the privilege of fishing. Of course Mr. Houston could not visit with Mr. Kelly very long without mentioning this special hankering of his and Mr. Kelly being unable to assuage said hankering because Mr. Kelly does not care a great deal about fishing—just goes occasionally for want of something better to do and perhaps kill a little time in the shade and breathe the pure air and refreshing breeze that interferes with accurate fly casting, Mr. Houston informed him that the state demanded that all of the male gender over the age of sixteen carry one of those little blue tinted slips while flitting with the funny tribe if for no other reason than to show game wardens who have a hankering to look at them, and provides a penalty for failure to satisfy the desires of the hankering game warden. Mr. Kelly, being of a very generous and obliging disposition, deplored his inability to satisfy Mr. Houston's craving, accompanied Mr. Houston to the chambers of Judge Fischer and contributed the required salve for the healing of the wound inflicted.

Louis J. Bonney resident of Tygh Valley, was also encountered by Mr. Houston, while fishing near Shearers bridge without permission by the state as indicated by the little blue tinted slip. He also made the usual contribution in Judge Fischer's Court.

The Bonney case came up Monday and Mr. Kelly had his turn Tuesday.

The Harvest is On.

Threshing commenced for the season on Juniper Flat at R. W. McCorkle's farm Wednesday, when Mr. McCorkle and sons started up their machine.

Considerable binder work has been done and some heading, and in a few days harvesting and threshing will be underway in the entire section.

Tuesday's Dalles Chronicle made following comment:

Fall wheat is now sufficiently hardened that no amount of heat, even including the dreaded
