CHEAP COOP FOR BACK YARD

Inexpensive House Will Prove Entirely Satisfactory Where Small Flock Is Kept.

It is not necessary to spend much money for housing if you are going to keep a small flock of hens in your back yard. Indeed, it is unwise, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.
One or two plunk cases or a large packing box may often be made into an acceptable home. But whatever you build should be made dry and free from drafts, and have good ventilation. The United States Department of Agriculture has numerous bulletins giving directions for this kind of construction, and any of these are available for the asking, or for a very few cents where a charge is necessary. A card to the division of publications, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., will get you what you need.

Don't Dope Healthy Fowls.

Don't continually "dope" well fowls with stimulating tonics and condition powders; they don't need it, if the fowls are healthy and kept under sanitary conditions.

Cull Unprofitable Producers.

Old hens that become lazy get over-fat and should be disposed of. If three or more years old, it is not likely that they will ever again become profitable egg producers.

POULTRY

GUINEAS FAVOR FREE RANGE

Fowls Can Be Depended Upon to Pick Up Considerable Portion of Their Food.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Most guinea raisers allow their breeding stock free range of the entire farm at all times, and this helps to keep the birds strong and vigorous.
During the winter the breeders should have been fed a grain mixture of corn, wheat and oats twice a day, and where no green feed was available, vegetables, such as potatoes, turnips, beets and cabbage. Animal feed is essential to best results and can be supplied by feeding meat scrap or skimmed milk. Given free range, where the supply of natural feed during the winter and early spring are ample, as it usually is in the southern portion of the United States, the guineas can be left to pick up a considerable part of their feed, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. Free access to grit, charcoal, and oyster shell is necessary throughout the breeding season. Avoid having the breeders too fat, but keep them in good, firm flesh.

Like quail and most other wild birds, guinea fowls in their wild state mate in pairs, and this tendency prevails among domesticated guineas, also, provided the males and females are equal in number. As the breeding season approaches, one pair after another separates from the remainder of the flock and ranges off in the fields in search of a suitable nesting place. Once mated this way, the male usually remains with his mate throughout the laying season, standing guard somewhere near the nest while the hen is laying, and ready to warn her of any approaching danger.

However, it is not necessary to mate them in pairs under domestic conditions to secure fertile eggs, and most breeders keep but one male for every three or four females. When mated in this way the hens are more apt to lay near home, and several usually lay in the same nest, thus making it much easier to find the nests and gather the eggs.

While guineas can be kept in the best breeding condition upon free

Guineas Can Be Confined If Necessary, But They Do Best When Given Free Range.

range, still they can be confined, if necessary, and satisfactory results obtained. One extensive guinea raiser has confined as many as 45 hens and 15 males in an acre pen throughout the breeding and laying season and been successful. This pen is enclosed with a wire fence five feet high, and the birds are prevented from flying over by clipping the flight feathers of one wing. Within the pen is a grass pasture with bushes here and there where the hens make their nests by scratching out a bowl-shaped hollow in the ground. The winters being severe, a roosting shed is provided, having a cleated board reaching from the floor to the roosts for the wing-clipped birds to walk up.

GEESE GOOD GRAZING STOCK

Fowls Play Important Part in Utilizing Waste Grain About Stables and Feeding Pens.

Geese have an important part in the endless war on waste. They are in a class with chickens in utilizing waste grain about stables and feeding pens.
In a larger measure than chickens or any other kind of poultry they are a grazing stock, getting their living in large part from the ordinary grasses of the pastures, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. When it is considered that the demand for geese is steady, and extended over almost the whole year, not confined to holidays, as in the case of turkeys, that geese excel all other poultry as producers of fat, the importance of geese in the poultry scheme is realized.

STUDY DEMANDS OF MARKETS

Poultryman Should Learn How, Where and When to Dispose of Products to Advantage.

A large part of the profit in poultry keeping often depends upon the proper marketing of the products, and the producer should study the market demands as to how, where and when to dispose of the products to the best advantage.

Makes a Handy Tool.

From an old screwdriver may be made a handy tool for turning castellated nuts that are inaccessibly located. A slot is ground in the business end of the screwdriver of such a size that as the bolt comes through the nut its end enters the opening, where it does not interfere with the wielding of the turning tool.

Opals Found in Few Places.

There are known only five gem-opal regions in the entire world. For 500 or 600 years, a deposit in a remote section of northern Hungary has been mined by local peasants. The removal of opals from this region ceased about 20 years ago. For the most part, stones from northern Hungary are milky white.

A Great Jewel.

We publish beautiful editions of books, to be sure, and thousands of people enjoy them; but in ancient times the expense that we spread thinly over a thousand volumes was all compressed into one, and it became a great jewel of a book, a heavy folio, worth its weight in gold.—Hawthorne.

Etching for Reproduction.

That etching, as a branch of art apart from its fascinating accidents and means of expression, is also a process of reproduction which interests many of the present-day dealers, artists, and students, cannot be denied.—E. A. Taylor.

"Drumfire's" First Prominence.

Drumfire is first mentioned in Tolstol's description of the bombardment of Sebastopol in August 1855.

Cuticura Soap for the Complexion.

Nothing better than Cuticura Soap daily and Ointment now and then as needed to make the complexion clear, scalp clean and hands soft and white.
Add to this the fascinating, fragrant Cuticura Talcum and you have the Cuticura Toilet Trio.—Adv.

Honesty in Business

It depends upon the point of view whether present-day appeals for honesty in business are regarded as a hopeful sign of the times or as the reverse.—Boston Transcript.

Thirty-One Children in Family.

diana pioneer, who died in 1846, was one of a family of 31 brothers and sisters, by the same father and mother.

Sun Engine Does Good Work.

The most remarkable sun engine, built up to date is operated at Mead, near Cairo, in Egypt. It consists of five 265-foot boilers placed on edge and in the focus of five channel-shaped mirrors. Its best run for an hour yielded 1,442 pounds of steam at a pressure of nearly 16 pounds to the square inch—equivalent to 63 horsepower an acre of land occupied by the plant.

Sharp Reminder.

When poison of any kind is brought into the house it is a good plan to immediately run two common pins through the cork, opposite each other, with the pin points extending about an eighth of an inch past the heads on each side. The prick of the pin gives warning by day or night
