

WILSON'S COLUMN

Our Friends Tell Us Our Mistakes and Shortcomings

Our Enemies Tell the Other Fellow.

There are two sides to every question: WE as merchants do not always know what is expected of us from those we strive to serve. YOU do not always realize what your merchant is up against. We learn by an exchange of opinions. Help us to serve you the way you would like by giving us YOUR opinions. We will appreciate them.

Contrary to those who would paint their home merchants as their worst enemy, your home merchants are necessary links in the chain of distribution.

It is true there were traitors in the army, but we didn't condemn the whole army. There are traitors in the mercantile business but should we condemn all merchants?

Is there any reason why a merchant should "trick" his customers?

We believe that a man can stay in business only so long as the buying public want him to, and they won't want him long if he does not deal fairly with his fellow men.

Our business is not a secret society. We want you to feel as free to talk to us as you would a member of your own family. We want to be a depot of supplies that is of mutual benefit to the whole community. The community cannot receive any benefits without everyone receiving some. We want to stay here and invite you to talk TO us as you would talk to your neighbor about us.
