Union Meeting
Open meeting at Farmers Union Hall. All farmers are urged to meet representatives from The Dalles and Columbia Locals on matters of great importance to every farmer, on Saturday April 29 at one o'clock sharp. This is open meeting, every one come.
The general manager of the Oregon Trunk Railroad passed through here in his special car evening.

School Notes
Mrs. George Bolher gave a most interesting talk for girls at the University of Oregon during the student body conference at Eugene. The title of her address was "High school girls ideals". She contended that the most important factor of a girl's life is the art of being cheerful, pointing out how one person being cheerful and happy often cures other persons of what we call the blues.

Bank Building
The concrete mixer commenced Tuesday morning furnishing material for the foundation, walls and vault of the Maupin State Bank on the corner of Deschutes Avenue and Fifth Street. Quite a crew of men are employed and much interest is manifest.

Road Work Booming
Work on the market road between Wapinitia and Maupin is now in progress with a large crew of men and equipment, hardsurfacing the lane near the Kelly church. Heavy blasting is being done.

The Triumph of Tasty Toast

WHETHER for an appealing breakfast or for dainty luncheons or suppers, good toast is a refinement of good bread—the one food of which 90 per cent is quickly and easily absorbed as nourishment.

One reason why users of Butter-Nut bread insist on getting it at their grocer's is because they have found Butter-Nut makes the most perfect toast.

Because it is appetizing, while losing none of the nourishment in the bread, toast is the physician's favorite prescription for delicate stomachs.

When ordering bread, be sure to ask for the loaf of fine flavor and high food value—the genuine ALWAYS in its sanitary wrapper.

Another important factor in girls ideals is that of honesty. In honesty she particularly advised the elimination of pretense "Be what you seem to be" was the motto used a great deal, and that is a motto more of us should adopt. How many people in this world are what we call "sugar-coated"? They pretend to be courteous, gracious, honest and many of the other qualities that cause us to place confidence in them. Then, when their pretense, or disguise is penetrated, for a person rarely goes by without being discovered, what a disappointment they are!

Sincerity and honesty are very closely related, but Mrs. Bolher brought dependability under the head of sincerity. In this she showed the advantage of always being dependable and one's being able to rely on your word.

Purity of heart and unselfishness were two other qualities noted as being indispensable to a girl's character and high ideals.

Still another point that Mrs. Bolher enlarged on that carried perhaps most emphasis, and is a point that "strikes home" more forcibly than any, was that of being to work with other people. That is a power that must be developed in order for any person whether man, woman girl or boy to become a leader. It is the ability to follow some one's advice, to stop and listen to some one's warning that makes any one truly great and a good leader.

Many people, especially young people, feel that in order to be good leaders they must follow their own intuition unerringly. This is not true, and a great deal of harm is done in this way. Any problem should be turned, twisted and looked at from all sides and angles until the situation is understood, then perhaps an inference may be drawn. But at any time it is well to at least listen to some other person's advice, and whether or not it is used it should be carefully considered.

And last, but not least, comes that feature of being tolerant of other people that are boxing or unattractive. In any business, work, pleasure or problem we constantly meet people with whom we dislike to be in the same company. There is the place where a person's courtesy, tact and personality are taxed to the utmost. We must develop and train ourselves to meet these people and be agreeable to every one.

As a closing feature of her talk, Mrs. Bolher read Edward Rowland Sills wonderful poem "Opportunity" with so much feeling and expression that we all felt a deep and new lesson derived from from it.
