Did this ever Happen to You

A farmer came to us last week with a worn out boxing for a gang plow. We sent the part to one of the leading implement houses in Portland and they tried to get the boxing from every implement house there, but none had a part of the same number or size, consequently there is a gang plow in fairly good condition otherwise rusting in a fence corner.

The farmer who buys a standard article will never have this trouble.

We carry standard implement lines only.

Zells Establish Agencies

C. M. Zell spent several days in this section looking after business in the interest of Zell Funeral Home in The Dalles.

He together with his father and son have spent considerable money in building and equipping their Funeral Home, which is modern in every respect and stands first in that line in the state out side of Portland.

This investment means something to the tax payers of the county, this together with the enterprise of these men in their line would seem to merit the support of our citizens. Coming to The Dalles comparative strangers, they have succeeded far beyond their expectations in gaining the confidence of those with whom they have come in contact.

Mr. Zell feels that they are very fortunate in securing Fitzpatrick and Son of Tygh, Hills Cash Store in Wapinitia, and a representative in Maupin.

All of whose names will appear in his advertisement in this paper next week. He tells us that those who by sad circumstances may be compelled to demand such goods and service as Zells' Funeral Home have to offer, may by consulting their agents secure the amount of expense to be incurred before ordering or calling them.

While here he also renewed acquaintance with our pioneer Andrew Crabtree, who has been a life long friend of the family and was encouraged by meeting many of the Christian people and many of our citizens who are members of the Fraternal orders of which he is a member.
