The Vital Hour.

This is the hour of patriotism, in which the entire strength of the Nation is needed to ward off the danger which threatens our home and country. Never in history has the grave question of the waste and loss arising from preventable fires assumed such serious importance as at the present time. Every pound of fruit, and every ounce of foodstuffs saved from the ravages of fire becomes an added source of strength and support for those who are so gallantly fighting to restore the peace of the world. It is, therefore, the urgent and imperative duty of every citizen to consecrate his utmost effort, both in his individual and communal capacity, towards the elimination of the fire hazard and conservation of the Nation's food supplies.
