VERY HARD TO STAND MOTIONLESS
 Experiments Have Proved That There is Invariably a Certain Swaying of the Body.

In the Journal of Industrial Hygiene W. R. Miles describes an investigation of static equilibrium as a test of motor control. He measured the swaying of the body when a man tries to stand motionless with the eyes either open or shut. The apparatus used, known as an ataxiometer, consists of an indicator fixed to the head, which, when it moves automatically records all anterior, posterior or lateral components of any sway present. He found that practice with the apparatus made but little difference in the capacity to stand steady; that the amount of sway recorded varied inversely with the efficiency of the neuro-muscular mechanism, and that it was greater with the eyes shut than open. The persons with small feet tend to sway more than short ones with broader feet, but many more observations are needed to establish a

A Corner in Purple
 By ARCHEY CAMERON NEW
 (©, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Between two flickering gas jets in an old-fashioned dressing room a cracked mirror had for six whole nights reflected a far prettier face than many a pier glass of superior station. But the twinkling eyes and the round, exquisitely featured face that had illumined the drab darkness of this middle western theatre now reflected a dismal look. And then as Flo heard a knock at her door she turned with a half-frightened gesture, and said timidly, "Come in."

"Is he going to stick to it?" asked Flo anxiously. "He is," growled Joe, flinging himself dejectedly on the only remaining chair. "We are canned—bounced—and no place to land. The agent agrees to give us three nights at the next stop and no more. Says we're dead ones—he could get thirty acts like ours—out of the gutter." "Joe!" she cried in dismay, "he didn't say—"

"But I would—and have," she retorted coolly. "He'd do almost anything for me—says so himself. He's in love with me, and—"

As their train pulled into Parktown early the following Monday morning Flo missed Joe, but as she stepped off the train she saw Tom Gillilan, big, bluff and devouring, bearing down on her with hands outstretched. "Little Flo!" he exclaimed boisterously. "Come, here's my machine—jump in." And he followed her into the car, which moved briskly away.

No, the clerk at the Saxon assured her, Mr. Williams had not registered as yet. Flo went to her room, later lunched alone and then went to the theater, still wondering about Joe. A few minutes before matinee he appeared.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF.

Albany.—Except two miles in the Calipool bottoms and a half mile north of Shedd and another mile at Driver's crossing, the paving on the Pacific highway between Albany and Halsey is completed.

Albany.—An airplane inspection of the Santiam national forest will be made Tuesday by Supervisor Hall, it was announced from the reserve office. The flight over the forest will be made in one of the planes from the air squadron at Eugene.

Salem.—At a meeting held at Molalla Saturday night it was decided to organize an irrigation district containing between 5000 and 10,000 acres of land. A committee was appointed at the meeting to submit the necessary petitions to the county court.

Bandon.—Several hundred members of the Order of the Eastern Star, representing five chapters of the county, met here Thursday for the convention of the Natal Day association of Coos county, in honor of the birthday of Robert Morris, founder of the order.

Klamath Falls.—Leonard J. Woodruff, prominent Los Angeles stock man, has purchased the Henry Gordon ranch of 440 acres and the Brannon ranch of 160 acres, both located in the Wood river valley near Fort Klamath. The purchase price is understood to be approximately $35,000.

Pendleton.—Fred Mason, brother of Walt Mason, the renowned verse maker, died early Monday from the effects of a drink of ammonia taken by mistake. He was a dyer at the Pendleton woolen mills. His widow and a large family survive. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Beaverton.—The new $60,000 movie studio was dedicated on Labor day. The Premium Picture company and the citizens of Beaverton are planning a great celebration. A monster crowd is expected here to welcome this great enterprise that will broadcast Oregon's beautiful scenery to the world.

Astoria.—A new logging concern which will begin operations in the lower Columbia river district Tuesday, is the Mooers Logging company, with a capital stock of $100,000, recently organized by W. F. McGregor, George Mooers, Charles H. Callender and William P. O'Brien, all of this city.

Salem.—Judge G. G. Bingham of the Marion county circuit court, in a decree handed down here Saturday, ordered August and Benjamin Lentz to deliver their berries to the Oregon Growers' Co-operative association in compliance with a contract entered into with the association last year.

Oakland.—Nearly 1,000 persons gathered here Saturday to attend the second annual farmer's picnic given by the Douglas county farm bureau. Geo. A. Mansfield, president of the state farm bureau federation, and M. J. Newhouse, assistant manager of the Oregon Growers, were the speakers.

Salem.—The ordinance drafted here recently under which it was proposed to put a number of the smaller dairies out of business was withdrawn from further consideration by its authors. Had the ordinance been passed every person or corporation delivering milk in the city of Salem would have been compelled to purchase a lot of expensive equipment.

La Grande.—Tests conducted by the city health officer, Dr. E. G. Kirby, resulted in unofficial condemnation of well water in the city of La Grande. Tests show the well water contains 75 to 100 cubic centimeters of colon bacteria, while the city water contains no colon bacteria. Four cases of typhoid fever have developed as a result of drinking well water.

Salem.—The state highway commission Saturday paid $10,000 on the principal of state highway bonds issued and sold by the state board of control in 1917. The money received from the sale of these bonds was used by the state highway commission in co-operation with the forest service in improving the road through Cow Creek canyon, in Douglas county.

Salem.—Bonds authorized by the various irrigation projects of the state aggregate $9,430,000, while the bonds certified total $8,515,000, according to a report prepared here Saturday by the state irrigation securities commission. Interest guaranteed by the state on these bonds aggregates $981,595. Frank Bramwell, state superintendent of banks and a member of the irrigation securities commission, said that because of the renewed interest in irrigation projects and the demands made upon the state, the members of the commission no longer rely entirely upon the representations made by the officers and organizers of the districts, like new!

WAS A BROKEN-DOWN WOMAN

Then I Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicines

Donaldsonville, La.—"I write with pleasure to praise your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—which has done so much to restore my health. I was a broken-down woman until my husband brought me a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. I had been having pains every month and at intervals between, was weak and seemed to be smothering at times, but in a week I felt like another woman. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. It did me a lot of good too. I cannot praise your medicines too much and will be more than glad to recommend them to any woman who is suffering from female troubles. You may print my testimonial, as it is true."—Mrs. T. A. Landry, 612 Miss. St., Donaldsonville, La.

Note Mrs. Landry's words—"as it is true." Every letter recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is genuine. It is a statement telling the merits of these medicines just as the women in your own neighborhood tell each other about them. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has sold on merit.
