BESTOWED BY THE GREAT SPIRIT

Indian Legend of the Origin of the Calumet, Better Known as "Pipe of Peace."

When the North American Indiana made peace or formed an alliance, the high contracting parties smoked to gether to ratify the arrangement.

The peace pipe was about two and a half feet long, the bowl was made of highly poilshed red marble, and a stem of a reed, which was decorated with eagles' quills, women's hair, etc.

Legend has it that the Great Spirit at an ancient period called the Indian nations together, and standing on the broke off a piece which he moulded inthem, turning to the four winds. He whist the Great Spirit disappeared. harmed.

To present the calumet (peace pipe) to a stranger was a mark of hospi-tality and good will; to refuse to offer it was an act of hostile defiance.

A Narrow Escape.

An overhead tramway wire charged with electricity at a high voltage was responsible for an unusual accident to a motoring party on a busy street. A motor cyclist was driving his wife and child in a side-car through a large city when the wire broke and became en tangled with the side-car, showering sparks on all sides as it struck the nations together, and standing on the metal of the machine. A terrible death precipice of the red pipestone rock, awaited the motorist if he had got off to attempt to remove the live wire, but to the bowl of a pipe, and fitting it on the sat still, while people called out a long reed, filled the pipe with the "Sit still! Live wire!" and the rub bark of red villow, and smoked over ber tires of the machine acting as in sulators, prevented the current fro told them the red color of the pipe passing through the steel work of the represented their flesh, and when they represented their flesh, and when they smoked it they must bury their war moved by engineers with rubbe clubs and scalping knives. Chinese Farmers Become Accustomed to Many Western Ways, But Transparent Windows Puzzle Them.

Peking.-The Chinese have become accustomed to many western ways, but glass windows in trains are still perplexing to them. In the remote disricts the natives continue to make their windows of rice paper, following a custom that is centuries old.

Passengers on a railroad between Shanghai and Peking recently were surprised to find black lines painted across the window panes of the cars. The explanation given was that Chinese farmers, being unused to transparent windows, would thrust their heads through the glass.

"And I want to tell you sincerely, that I attribute my success solely to the fact that I learned how to talk to people."

When Jordan finished, I saked him for the address of the publishers of Dr. Law's course and he gave it to me. I sent for it and found it to be succity as he had stated. After studying the eight simple lessons I began to sell to people who had previously refused to listen te me at all. After four months of record-breaking sales during the dullest season of the year, I received a wire from the chief saking me to return to the home office. We had quite a long talk in which I explained how I was able to break sales records—and I was appointed Sales Managor at almost twice my former salary. I know that there was nothing in me that had changed except that I had acquired the ability to talk where formerly I simply need "words without reason." I can never thank Jordan enough for telling me about Dr. Law's Course in Business Talking and Public Speaking. Jordan and I are both spending all our spare time making public speeches and Jordan is being talked about now as Mayor of our little town.

Something to Think About By F. A. WALKER

KNOW YOUR TALENT

THE first requisite in the life of the youthful, is to know his or her natural talent so that it may be intelligently developed and turned to Find the hole in which your peg fits without wabbling and keep it there. Do not move from pillar to post in quest of another, and you will enjoy more of what makes life valuable, glad as the years swing by that you have held firmly to your original intention.

Most of the fallures in this worka-day world are due to inefficiency, caused generally by shifting from one station to another and the woeful lack of fixed effort in the pursuit of a definite course

You can never find the port you hope to reach if you persist in salling your ship without compass and rudder. The tides and the winds will toss your precious craft into the open jaws of destruction or hurl it high and dry on the scowling rocks from which there is no likelihood of escape.

If you have a talent for painting, see that you produce pictures of beautiful themes and attractive col-ors; if your hand is deft in the use of tools, clasp the saw and the hammer and resolve that no one shall excel you.

You cannot overcome difficulties nor rise above the common level by lounging around in idleness, bemoaning your lot and envying the prosperous men and women climbing towards the hill-tops.

Whether you have one talent or holding steadfastly to your course and refusing to yield to discourage

There is in every person's life the crucial moment of choosing a per-manent vocation, and when that is overcome, there remains nothing else to do but to drive straight ahead, determined to win an honorable destiuntion. To the men and women who are predisposed to loafing, given to stopping by the wayside to gather wild flowers when they should be trumping resolutely upon the highway, this scarcely forms an agreeable subject for meditation.

But these, as you may have already guessed, are they who have hidden their talent in a napkin and been crowded from the ranks of the suc cessful, because of their own fickle

MESSENGERS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

SOMEONE has said that thoughts are things-I know each thought of mine. Is like a bird with living wings

And pinions all a-shine. I toss a thought upon the air, As pigeon owners do No matter when, no matter where, It hurries home to you!

O live each day with open heart So, when my thought shall come Across the miles we are spart, It shall not find you dumb. O live each day with open door, Your heart's door open wide

Some thought of mine is speeding o'er

The valleys that divide, It bears a message all aglow. The message old and young. The message men and maidens know In every land and tongue; It sweeps across the azure skies. It darts across the dome,

Because your heart is Home. And may my bird, so fond, so fleet, Upon its happy quest, As it files east another meet,

And home to your heart it files,

A pigeon flying west; And, as they hall upon the blue, Oh, may that pigeon be A thought of yours, a thought as true A thought that files to me!
