

PORTLAND OFFERS A MARKET FOR YOUR PRODUCE

Cash Every Day for Cream
MUTUAL CREAMERY CO., Portland.

NORTONIA HOTEL You Will Feel Right at Home Here
 SAFE AND CENTRAL—REASONABLE RATES
 Excellent Cafe Special Weekly Rates Bus Meets All Trains
 11th and Stark, Portland, Ore.

Portland, Oregon
VAUDEVILLE PHOTO-PLAYS
 Complete Change Saturday. Adults, Matinee, 20c
 Evenings, 30c. Continuous 1 to 11 p. m. Children
 10 cents all times.

A good place to Eat and Live Well.
 Remarkable 40c luncheon at noon.
 Open 7 a. m. to 2 a. m., 394 Yamhill

We Pay Highest Prices for HIDES, PELTS, WOOL, MOHAIR, CASCARA BARK.
 Address Department B

Now is the time to market capons. We are pioneers and largest handlers of these in the Northwest. Write us.
Capons

Direct from Factory to Car Owner
MULTNOMAH BATTERIES
 Guaranteed for one year.
 Send no money. We ship by Express C. O. D.
 $18.00—Ford, Chevrolet 490, etc.
 $22.50—Hudson, Oldsmobile, etc.
 $25.00—Dodge, Franklin, etc.

State Distributors of Gould Batteries
 Corner 10th and Flinders Sts.
 Portland, Oregon.

Jack King Cures It. Ladies and Gents Examination Free. 207 Dekum Bldg., Portland, Ore.

Right Down Town
 Park and Morrison Sts., Portland, Ore.
 Cheerful Large Lobby. Well furnished rooms with all modern conveniences. Prices $1.00 up. You will certainly feel at home here.
 W. J. Soffield, Manager.

New $2,000.00
NELSON TRACTORS
 $350.00
 315 Belmont Street, Portland, Ore.

for farm produce brings producer better returns. We like to tell you of our plan.
RUBY & CO.
 215 Front St., Portland, Ore.

2ND AND MORRISON PORTLAND, OREGON
 MENTION THIS PAPER WHEN WRITING

INVESTIGATE my remarkable work as a highly specialized physician before subscribing to so-called "home" or "quick" treatments. This FREE book tells about my guaranteed non-surgical, painless cure. Send for it today.

2ND AND MORRISON PORTLAND, OREGON
 MENTION THIS PAPER WHEN WRITING

Merely Shifts It.
 The man who doesn't want any trouble and endeavors to smooth things so he will have none, not infrequently mixes the dope for some one else.—Exchange.

Trail Plainly Marked.
 "How do you find your way through the great north woods?" "Follow the tin can trails."—Louisville Journal.

Change of Color Which Had Long Been Considered Remarkable Is of Simple Explanation.
 A tree which changes color—blushes like any school girl—is, something of a curiosity, and for some time the cause of the blush puzzled botanists. A German savant, indeed, is said to have begun a ponderous treatise on the subject, when the explanation was discovered, not by Teutonic theorizing, but by simple examination.
 The blushing tree is found in the Florida swamps, and assumes its modest and mysterious glow of color during and for a short while after a rain-storm. As the wet drenches its foliage, a change of hue at once takes place. Gradually the green gives way to pink, which creeps over the leaves, deepening as it goes, till in a minute or two the green is gone. Only by examining closely under the boughs, broad leaves, and on the trunk, are a few streaks of green to be detected. The tree, on the whole, is as pink as the cheeks of a healthy girl. After an hour or more, the rain having ceased, the tree resumes its familiar green.

 One day a naturalist subjected a leaf to microscopic examination. He found the cause of the transformation to be certain tiny insects which live on the tree. These, and not the tree and its foliage, change their color, being as green under the rays of the sun as the tree on which they live. When the cold rain falls on them they contract their infinitesimally tiny bodies and turn pink. Numberless millions of these parasites take part in the performance, so numerous that when they blush their pink makes the green invisible.
 Nursing Profession Popular.
 Since the passage of the nurses' registration act in England, the names of more than 11,000 nurses have been placed on the state registers of nurses and upward of 14,000 nurses have applied for admission thereto.

May, 1911, under the alias of Felker, it is said. She left him the day they were married when he told her that she would have to support herself.
 Nine years later, police say, he married Harrietta Reeside and lived with her two years. He deserted her almost a year ago. Police found the matrimonial tangle when they served divorce suit papers. Voelker was arrested and charged with bigamy.
 Voelker married his first wife in

Choosing a Man for Husband

By H. IRVING KING
 (©, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Peter Hampden was thirty-five and looked ten years older, for his had been a busy life, from which he had cut out all superfluous like yachting, golfing and marriage. When barely of age he had been known in the street as "the old young man." How a man of thirty-five came to be trustee of a young lady approaching twenty-five was this way. Candice Minturn's grandfather had, by will, appointed Peter's father trustee of the estate of his orphaned granddaughter, with power to appoint his successor, and Peter's father had bequeathed the trust to Peter. After Candice had done with her finishing school Peter had seen a great deal of her, for John Randall and he had many business interests together, and it was with Mr. and Mrs. Randall that Candice made her home, Mrs. Randall being Candice's aunt.

In summer Peter was constantly running down to the Randall country place for the week-end, reconciling himself to such an indulgence by the fact that there he could talk shop with John without fear of interference by other business men. But if Peter saw a great deal of Candice he also saw a great deal of a certain antique sideboard he had in his bachelor lodgings. He admired them both and was watching for nothing untoward happened to either—but to Peter a sideboard was only a sideboard and a girl was only a girl. They were all (except the sideboard) down at the Randall country place on Long Island.

The house was full of guests, as usual, for Mrs. Randall was fond of entertaining, and, moreover, was determined that Candice should have an opportunity to select a first-class article in the way of a husband. Candice was horribly hard to suit, her aunt thought, but she nevertheless went on displaying her wares and discoursing on the texture and quality of each exhibit like a good "saleslady."

She had considerable hope of making a sale this season. Willie Anstruthers and Calvin George were paying fast and furious court to Candice, and for a wonder Candice appeared to be encouraging them. Peter, who had just arrived, was sitting with Mrs. Randall on the piazza when Candice, with a young man in attendance, came strolling from the direction of the lawn.

"Who is that with Candice?" asked Peter.
 "Young Anstruthers," replied Mrs. Randall, "and I do hope she will take him. It's time she got married. If she doesn't take him I think she will choose Calvin George, who is a good match, too. I was beginning to lose all patience with the girl, but of late I have begun to have hopes of her."

"Hum-m," said Peter, thoughtfully. Candice in connection with marriage was something new to him—he required time to assimilate the idea.
 That evening as Peter, having planned his host into an obscure corner of the piazza, was upon the point of convincing him that an amalgamation of P. Q. & C. with the C. T. & K. would be an excellent and most profitable combination and wouldn't hurt the anti-trust law, Mrs. Randall came and retrieved her husband with: "John, you really must come and speak to the Hetheringtons—they have just motored over from Glen Cove."

Mentally anathematizing the Hetheringtons, Peter sat glooming in the gloom when there appeared to him a graceful, white-robed figure and a pleasant voice that said: "Oh, Mr. Peter, I am so glad to catch you alone. I have been watching for an opportunity to ask your advice." She always called him Mr. Peter. It was a compromise between Peter and Mr. Hampden.

"My dear Candice," replied the man of business, "as your trustee, to give you advice is of course my duty—as well as pleasure—yes, pleasure, I am sure. What is it? Your investments are—"
 "Oh, it isn't money," cried Candice a trifle petulantly. "It's about—well about getting married."
 "Mrs. Randall said something on the subject to me this afternoon," replied Peter. "There are two young men under consideration, I understand. The matter is entirely outside my jurisdiction. I am merely trustee of your property. But since you consult me I must say that I don't see why you need be married at all."
 "But it is rather expected of one—isn't it?" replied Candice demurely.
 "Well, yes—of women I suppose it is rather expected," admitted Peter reluctantly.
 "Willie Anstruthers is a very nice young man," ventured Candice.
 "Humph! Don't fancy him," growled Peter.
 "And Calvin George is considered a great catch," she went on.
 "No business ability whatever," said Peter, emphatically. "But of course if you are really in love with either of these young men—but this is entirely outside of my jurisdiction."
 "But suppose," said Candice, "that I wasn't in love with either of them, but with some one else?"
 "Oh, in that case—what sort of business man is this other?"
 "An excellent one," replied Candice, with a little giggle.
 "And of a suitable age?"

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF

Salem.—No new contracts for highway construction in Oregon will be awarded until it is definitely known whether or not the referendum is to be invoked against a measure approved at the last session of the legislature increasing the state gasoline tax from 2 to 3 cents a gallon.
 Seaside.—When bedding has been used for 13 years, it is time to change quilts, in the opinion of Chief of Police McCauley, who is replacing all mattresses and blankets in the Seaside jail with new material as a part of his spring "house-cleaning." The present bedding was purchased in 1912.

Albany.—The school board of the Albany district has advertised for bids on $40,000 worth of school bonds. The bonds will be sold April 17. They are to be issued in denominations of $1000 and will bear 5½ per cent interest, maturing serially at the rate of $4000 a year from 1923 to 1942, inclusive.

Port Orford.—Much of the work of clearing the right of way on the Port Orford-Elk River link of the Roosevelt highway has been accomplished, the grade stakes set and the grading at this end of the route started. Contractor John Haakensen now has all his equipment except the rock crusher on the ground.

Salem.—Preliminary petitions looking to the referendum of the law enacted at the last session of the legislature increasing the tax on gasoline from 2 to 3 cents a gallon, were filed in the offices of the secretary of state Friday. Ballot title for the referendum measure will be prepared by the attorney-general.

Salem.—The Oregon public service commission Saturday denied the application of the Oswego Log & Boom company for a franchise to operate a booming business on Oswego lake. The application was opposed by a large number of Portland residents who have erected modern and expensive homes near the lake.

Reedsport.—A fish cannery will be in operation here and make its first heavy run of fish about September 1. The Pacific Fish & Cold Storage company, which has been idle for the past two years, has been purchased by E. A. Anderson of Astoria. It is estimated that 30 people will be employed and output of 1000 cases a day made.

Salem.—More extensive co-operative organization in the Pacific northwest to the end that pears and apples may be marketed under better conditions was predicted by Robert G. McNary, manager of the dried fruits department of the Oregon Growers' Co-operative association, at a meeting of producers and association experts held here Saturday.

Hood River.—The Apple Growers' association the latter part of this week will forward to growers checks on the second cash distribution for the 1922 crop. The total of the distribution will reach $110,000. The checks are sent so that growers may have funds for payment of taxes. The first distribution, made early in the month, reached $167,000.

Eugene.—The Siuslaw Timber company, owning large tracts of timber in the western part of Lane county, seeks to invalidate a special ten-mill road tax levied by the people of district No. 33. In a suit filed in circuit court Saturday the company seeks to restrain the sheriff from collecting such a tax on its land, amounting to 2590 acres in that district.

Salem.—There were four fatalities due to industrial accidents in Oregon during the week ending March 23, according to a report prepared here by the state industrial accident commission. The victims were: George Hart, choker setter, Portland; Russel McCullough, off-bearer, Silverton; F. L. Williams, pipe fitter, Portland, and L. F. Bellenger, faller, Portland.

Portland.—Southern pine, so far as commercial purposes are concerned, is as extinct as the great auk, and Oregon henceforth will be the hub of the American lumber industry, according to the viewpoint of Andrew A. D. Rahn, vice-president of the Shevlin, Carpenter & Clarke company of Minneapolis, who is now in Portland while reviewing the interests of that corporation in this state.

Salem.—Governor Pierce Saturday appointed W. G. MacLaren, superintendent of the Pacific rescue home in Portland and B. E. Haney, prominent Portland lawyer, members of the state parole board. They will succeed Ira Martin of Portland and Louise Lechmund of Salem. Ward Irvine, private secretary to Governor Pierce, is the third member of the board. J. S. Murray, bookkeeper and Bertillon expert at the penitentiary, is secretary of the board.

Pigeons Die Where They Roost.
 "During my 25 years' experience as a steeplejack," an Englishman writes, "climbing city spires and other lofty structures, I have seen hundreds of dead pigeons. They die where they roost, in the belfries, on beams or any projections inside the spires; often on their nests. On each occasion that I have climbed the Nelson column I have found scores of pigeons' skeletons on top behind the capitol."

After Every Meal

WRIGLEYS

Chew your food well, then use WRIGLEY'S to aid digestion. It also keeps the teeth clean, breath sweet, appetite keen.
 The Great American Sweetmeat

Large Hotel Staffs.
 Six of the largest hotels in New York city, under the control of one company, employ 510 cooks, nearly 1,000 waiters, besides an average of 3,000 extra waiters for banquets. In all, they have 6,200 employees, representing over twenty trades and several professions.

His Grouch.
 "As the song has it, we are only poor weak mortals, after all." "Admitted," said Mr. Grumpson. "What I object to is the large number of persons with no other visible means of support who draw fat salaries for telling us how weak we are."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Cuticura Toilet Trio
 Having cleared your skin keep it clear by making Cuticura your every-day toilet preparations. The soap to cleanse and purify, the Ointment to soothe and heal, the Talcum to powder and perfume. No toilet table is complete without them, 25c everywhere.—Adv.

Sun Worshipped in Early Times.
 Centuries ago the sun was worshipped by practically every race on the face of the earth. Babylonians, ancient Persians and Armenians, Assyrians, Ammonites, Ethiopians, Arabians and several others had their own sun gods.

Possible Explanations.
 Hubby—"Of course, dear, it's only a rough idea of mine, but do you think it's possible there's ever such a thing as a printer's error in that cookery manual of yours?"—London Opinion.

The Greatest Opportunity.
 A little child is always a sacred charge, and there is no greater opportunity than to direct a young mind through wholesome growth to a realization of the abundance of life.

Are Known as Midshipmen.
 The students of the United States Naval academy at Annapolis are called midshipmen. Previous to 1902 they had been called naval cadets, but in that year the old term midshipman was revived.

Artesian Well Seven Centuries Old.
 The oldest artesian well in Europe is found at Lillers, France. From its mouth water has flowed uninterrupted for more than 750 years.

Monotonous Merit.
 "You are constantly referred to as the favorite son of your state." "Yes," replied Senator Sorghum, "but every once in a while people seem to get tired of a well behaved favorite son and want somebody who can be a cut-up."

Parents of Crimes.
 If poverty is the mother of crimes, want of sense is the father.—La Bruyere.

Weak Humanity.
 A man's real limitations are not the things he wants to do, but can't; they're the things he ought to do, but doesn't.—Anon.

Are You Satisfied?

BEHNKE-WALKER BUSINESS COLLEGE
 is the biggest, most perfectly equipped Business Training School in the Northwest. Fit yourself for a higher position with more money. Permanent positions assured our graduates.
 Write for catalog—Fourth and Yamhill, Portland.

P. N. U. No. 13, 1923