Good Advice

The following Radiogram from Mars was received by several stations on the Pacific Coast at 8:14 this morning. It is being relayed to Washington, New York, London, and other world points, where it has created intense scientific excitement and frantic requests for particulars. In every case it came in unexpectedly while instruments were being tuned, and corresponded to no known wave length. What was apparently a calling signal was repeated many times, but could not be understood.

OILPULL

"The Cheapest Farm Power"

25% Reserve Power
to meet extraordinary conditions

Why do OilPull tractors avoid the junk pile for 10 years or longer? Why is expense for repairs only half the Government's national average? One reason is 25% reserve power in the OilPull heavy duty, valve-in-head motor. When plows run into hard, dry soil—when wet bundles are fed into separator—when adverse conditions of all kinds are met—this reserve power permits motor to work without laboring or straining. Let us demonstrate.

when suddenly the message broke into excellent English. As completed through hasty comparison by several receivers it was as follows:

'Greetings From Planet to Planet!

This experiment is hoped to be the forerunner of acquaintance. It was authorized by the Martian people only after much hesitation as we have watched your groping and still primitive development of interspace communication. Your civilization is erratic and comprises many governments with differing aims but all still permitting wars, politicians, and like evils. Disadvantage might come to you from improper use of communications from us. It must certainly be disturbing to learn that we have means, useless to attempt describing, of knowing your ways, languages, and the like, and that we are able, should we care to make it a pastime, to assist any one of your nations to crush another.

It was however, decided to instruct our Department of Interplanetary Communication to deal with this difficulty by analyzing your apparent needs and deficiencies and by offering our aid only in matters of great and universal importance which should permit of no controversies among you.

We have found one subject so conspicuously of such a nature that it is warranted in being the first subject of interplanetary discussion, with all the publicity and attention this must necessarily receive. No inconsistency in your civilization, so advanced in many respects, has struck us so forcibly as your failure to recognize one essential of self-preservation. The same error has destroyed life on several planets and reduced others to misery, but as a rule, they have been inhabited by beings less perfectly evolved than yours. We are at a loss to understand how such people as Americans, for example, can devote unlimited publicity and interest to the disinterring of a king, dead these 3000 years, or to a girl's dancing for three days but give hardly a passing thought to the destruction of their forest by fire.

Thus it is that we have chosen Forest Protection Week as the occasion of our first message to you. We hope by so doing to help impress its lesson so much needed, especially in the magnificent forests of the western American states which our observers tell us have no superior in any world. BE CAREFUL WITH FIRE! KEEP IT OUT OF YOUR WOODS!

"Your older brothers and well-wishers, THE PEOPLE OF MARS. Through the Martian Department of Interplanetary Communication."

Sherars Bridge

Spring weather still prevails. Much interest was aroused Sunday morning when three heavy touring cars crossed the new bridge on planks.

Ralph Hallyburton is a Dalles visitor this week.

Ruby Petteys of this place was a Moro business visitor Saturday. John Conroy was a visitor here Friday.

A number of people from here attended the ball game at Antelope Sunday which was played by the Antelope and Tygh Valley high school teams. Tygh Valley being the one to bring home the victory score of 12 to 1.

Mrs. E. R. Webb and Mrs. Taylor motored to Tygh Valley Wednesday.

W. C. Lucore was a visitor here today.

Although the river is still high fishing parties are quite numerous. Mackey, Emmet, Eldridge, and Arthur Ashley of this place, left Tuesday for a short trip to Washington.

Several cars of lumber and freight were wrecked on the O. W. track above here and the Sunday trains used the O. T. track.
