Pacific International Live Stock Exposition

A huge building! It covers ten acres of ground. It takes a lot of time to walk all over ten acres, but the Pacific International is so full of interesting and fascinating exhibits that nobody gets tired. Or if they do, it's a "happy tiredness."

Not only is it the largest building of its kind in the world, but its arrangement is ideal. The great arena where the judging is done in the daytime and the horse show held at night, is in the center. In front is the beautiful Industrial Exhibits division, 728 feet long and 120 feet wide—filled with a bewildering number of exquisite displays. On the other sides of the arena are ranged the beef cattle barn, the dairy cattle department, sheep and goat department, poultry, horses, with two big auction sales rings in the corners.

The Pacific International Live Stock Exposition is recognized by livestock men everywhere as one of the most important institutions of its kind in the world. It is held in Portland, Or., November 3-10 inclusive. People come across the continent to see its attractions—the finest livestock in the world. This is an opportunity to visit and learn and enjoy, close at home. You could travel all over the United States and see no better exposition.

The pride we take in the Pacific International is justified. It is ours, and it indicates what kind of people we are—the best.
