Proper Housing Means More Profits in Hog Raising

The hog needs protection more than most domestic animals, because it lacks natural protection, and is very susceptible to the influences of cold, heat and drafts.

Hog houses should have tight walls, roofs, doors and windows, abundant sun light, well drained floors, and plenty of fresh air with out drafts.

They should be strongly built of good materials. Frame construction meets all these requirements and Tum-A-Lum is recommended because it is carefully and accurately made, is strong, durable, dependable and will give life long honest service.

Picture of hog house here shown is only one of many properly designed styles that our architectural department has worked out. Our retail blue prints and material lists are so complete that building can be done by yourself. These are furnished free with the material.

Drop in our office and let us show you other styles.

Problems Discussed, Plans

Engineer Potter, representing the state water board, from the state engineer's office, Salem, Oregon, is conducting a series of hearings of water right claims, from The Dalles to Bend, covering the whole Deschutes river watershed. The Maupin meeting was held Wednesday from 9 until 4 in the Maupin State Bank. The several water users whose rights are obtained directly by appropriation from the state were obliged to get questionnaires and file the same later.

These main water users are Woodcock Bros., East Maupin water users, City of Maupin, A. H. Staats, Wapinitia Irrigation Co., Jake Davidson and others. All the Wapinitia plains farmers whose rights were obtained from Wapinitia Irrigation Co. are protected by the company's own claim and need not file or be represented individually.

The meeting Saturday at the Kelly church building was fairly well attended, about one half of the water users being present. The new board elected for the new irrigation year is: R. W. McCorkle, O. L. Paquet, T. B. Shusher, F. E. Batty and Otis Chastain. The retiring members are John Powell and Dee Talcott.

After much deliberation and many spilted debates it was decided that the word "cooperation" spelled the only spelled the only success for the farmers of the Wapinitia Irrigation Co. as a two-fold working force in the irrigation field.

Accordingly a foreman was selected by popular agreement to represent the farmers and the company in repairing and enlarging the canal system in the mountains and on the flat. Otis Chastain for the eastern end, Jack Kelly for the central portion and Joe O'Brien for the southwest side, R. W. McCorkle to aid in the mountains.

It was found that a few low bank controlled the flow to given portions of the plains this year and that in order to get water to these districts in required amount it was necessary to do this work now in good season.

The company was to be asked to allow credit on accounts for this labor, which said credit has been O. K. by N. G. Hedin for the company upon the request being made. N. G. Hedin to cause the canal low places to be surveyed and stakeset and general supervision be made covering the whole construction field. This too has been agreed to by all.

The matter of water measurement and regulation for 1924 took up considerable time and thought. Some favored petitioning the state engineer's office to take over the difficult job, others favored a united effort to get all farmers to pay the maintenance fee in advance so that the company could provide four ditch walkers for the flat, one for the mountains, and then hold every one to the flow. This latter rule proved the one most favorable

NEWS ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

Promise of commencement of operations on the Maupin section of the state highway in about two weeks seems to be assured. The concrete culvert pipe is being received at the O. T. station, and the big steam shovel is on the east. Several houses here have been retained for highway quarters, and camps will be built.

Council convened last night and discussed water.

At the election here Tuesday 32 voted against and 64 for income tax. It is believed to have lost in the state.

Despite the well directed efforts of Maupin's whole force of teachers to entertain the growing generation Hallowe'en night the usual pranks were enjoyed. The wood intended for stove in Uncle Sam's distributing station was used to barricade H. R. Kaiser's front door. Parts of Bob Wilson's big red wagon decorated the school buildings.

Frequent blasts have been set off the past week in an endeavor to penetrate enough of local surface to plant poles for holding electric wires.

Supt. Gronewald has been a Maupin caller a couple times this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Staats are in the postoffice this week while Mr. and Mrs. Turper are visiting in the valley.

Quite a delegation of Odd Fellows went from here Monday to Dufur to attend the big meeting there that night.

G. L. Harpham and L. C. Wilhelm were the occupants of the ill-fated Ford which overturned on Tygh grade about 11 o'clock Monday morning. They were enroute to The Dalles. Both men were shaken up badly, and Mr. Wilhelm suffered some cuts and broken ribs. The only reason for the accident Mr. Wilhelm gave our reporter was his removal of a red string from the radiator cap that morning before leaving here.

O. T. Agent E. W. Griffin reports the shipment of a car of hogs last Saturday night respectively by H. E. Driver and C. H. Walker, and the week before by J. W. Davidson and Roy Battv. A. A. Bonney will ship two cars of cattle from Sherar Saturday night.
