The highway engineers are prospecting for material with which to hard surface this section of the highway. They are drilling around the gravel pit to ascertain the extent of it. Considering the condition of the grade leading west out of Maupin it is believed that if the material in the gravel pit were put through a crusher before being used on a roadbed the result would be practically pavement.

Mrs. O. J. Williams had an exciting experience Monday in driving over to Maupin. About a hundred yards below the turn in the road at B. F. If some of the residents of the Mt. St. Helens territory should see the steam shovel that has been working on this section of The Dalles-California highway the past several months they would be certain the apes had done a vicious attack on it. When the said steamshovel commenced on the excavations here last fall it had the appearance of being almost new, but at present the cab of the great machine is badly battered.
