AN APPLE GREEN FOR MISS LEE

By CLARISSA MACKIE
(© 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

When Marcia Scott invited her school friend, Estelle Lee, to come and visit her she planned to have her party during Estelle's stay. They had been close friends at boarding school, but had not met for three years, although they corresponded regularly. Marcia expected to see the same careless, generous, happy-go-lucky girl—of course three years older—but still just over twenty. Estelle had always given promise of a certain fair beauty for she had quantities of light hair and light brown eyes that were always laughing and merry. The Lees were rich, and Marcia had really thought twice before she considered inviting fashionable Estelle to the quiet atmosphere of Old Brookfield. "My dear," gushed Estelle, when Marcia met her at the station, driving the family car herself, "I did not mean to land here the very night of your party—I am sorry, but of course it doesn't matter. Have my trunks arrived?" (Estelle knew very well that her trunks had not left home as yet, owing to her putting off her departure until the last moment.) "Why, no, I am afraid they haven't come yet. What—" "It doesn't matter," interrupted the guest hurriedly. "I just put an evening frock into my suitcase for emergency, so I will be quite all right. Now, tell me about yourself, for from the brief look I have had you have developed into wonderful beauty! You were such a plain little thing, too!" "What nonsense," laughed Marcia. "You see with the eyes of love, Estelle. My young brothers will soon put that idea out of your head. They draw at me in the most provoking way, 'Well, sis, you wouldn't quite stop a clock.' That is the way they cheer me on."

How We Get That Way! Why Not Learn Truth?

Ring-a-ling-a-ling went the telephone bell five minutes after they had all sat down to the table. Sister jumped up quickly from her place. "I think that's for me," said she with suspicious haste. A dead silence fell upon the room; Brother listened quite openly. "Hello," began Sister. "Oh, it's you!" At this Brother guffawed like a braying donkey. The long-distance conversation continued for a few more noncommittal monosyllables, and then Sister said good-by and returned to her interrupted meal and her ribald relatives. She had a stern expression of countenance, however. As she took her place, she remarked, "I wish you wouldn't laugh like a car cranking, Brother."

Brother put his hand over his mouth to suppress his risibles, but Sister didn't notice. "How should I laugh?" questioned he meekly. "Don't explode," said she, taking him quite seriously. "Open your mouth and your throat and let the laugh come out naturally!" Then with careful pitch she went, "ha, ha, ha, ha, ha"—beginning low, rising higher, and finally dying away softly and delicately. "Oh! Ho!" roared Brother, unable to restrain himself any longer; "you sound like a phonograph record!" And he emitted a perfect series of bellows. "For heaven's sake, don't laugh at all if you have to make such terrible noises as that," retorted Sister, irritated at having fallen into his trap. "Ha! ha!" cried Brother, too pleased for words at his success; "I mustn't laugh—I can only smile, I suppose!" Then he fixed his features into a huge and cavernous grin, opening his mouth without making a sound, so wide that they could see into the depths of his raw, red interior.

At this point Sister left the table in tears. How do we get that way? By refusing to learn the simple truth that families are born, not made! (© 1924, by the Eastman Syndicate.)

Land of Flying Animals

Australia is the home of flying animals and boasts of at least twenty species. They claim to have flying mice, squirrels, opossums and also a species of bear that flies. The species generally is referred to as "phalanger." This means that they have, extending from the front to the hind legs, a membrane which enables them to float in quite a graceful way from tree to tree. They are not really flying animals, but gliders. The flying squirrel is said to be the most beautiful mammal in the world. It is odd that in the land where many animals fly, birds often cannot fly at all. Both the emu and the cassowary are practically wingless and have to depend upon their long and strong legs to escape from their enemies.

Kangaroo Meat Dainty

It is said that all parts of a kangaroo are good for food, the flesh being very like that of hare or small venison; but the tail is the only part which has much meat on it, the rest of the animal being extraordinarily spare and lean. The tail is thick and fleshy, nearly as big as a man's leg; and, broiled on the embers in its own skin, which draws off afterward like a glove, or made into soup or hash, is considered a dish fit for a prince.

Cows Showed Sense

Lil and Red, cows owned by Ezra Edgell of Smithfield, W. Va., saved their own lives when Fishing creek rose to record flood stage. The cows planted front hoofs against the side of their barn, keeping their noses out of the water, which would have drowned them had it risen three inches more, as a haymow above held their heads down. The horses and another cow in the same barn were drowned.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF.

Mill City.—Thomas Brothers have started construction of a dance hall on the county road on the outskirts of Mill City.

Harrisburg.—The Harrisburg Grain & Elevator company installed an additional grain and seed cleaner of large capacity this week.

Brownsville.—Charles Powell, a farmer living two miles west of town, was gored by an enraged Jersey bull Friday and was in a serious condition at his home.

Eugene.—Building permits in Eugene thus far this month have amounted to more than $400,000, according to William H. Alexander, city building inspector.

Astoria.—The six months ending on June 30 last were the most successful in the history of the port of Astoria so far as the net returns from the port operations were concerned.

Salem.—There were three fatalities due to industrial accidents in Oregon during the week ending July 24, according to a report prepared here Friday by the state industrial accident commission.

Medford.—The forest fire that has been raging for two days in the pine timber of the Oregon-Owen Lumber company in the Butte Falls district, was under control late Saturday afternoon with 100 men standing guard to prevent further spread.

Condon.—Two large barns, the property of Elgin and Earl Myers, burned down here Friday night. Prompt action of the Condon fire department, that now has an up-to-date chemical engine and plenty of water, saved the southwest section of the town.

Baker.—Three hundred persons attended a picnic Sunday at Ebells grove, 12 miles from here, at which Baker Kiwanis club members and their families were the guests of the Missouri Flat grange and residents of the Missouri Flat neighborhood.

Eugene.—A local unit of the new state prune growers' association has been organized here and articles of incorporation have been filed. The incorporators are L. D. Scarborough, Frank Brunner, U. B. Kletzing, E. S. Lutgen, E. P. Saunders and L. N. Miller.

Eugene.—Six of the tunnels originally planned by engineers on the Eugene-Klamath Falls cut-off of the Southern Pacific company, now being constructed over the Cascade mountains, will be eliminated, according to a report of the engineers stationed at Oakridge.

Corvallis.—"The teacher is the greatest agency by which civilization is promoted," said James Q. Donley, professor of social and political science at Brown university, who lectured to summer-session students on the relation of social sciences to the fundamental problem of American civilization.

Salem.—C. E. Smith, R. J. Smith and F. R. Morrison Friday were fined $10 each for refusing to assist a federal officer in fighting a forest fire. It was said that these are the first cases of this character ever tried in the local courts. Two other warrants charging W. J. Smith and Jack Doyle with similar offenses were issued Friday.

Sweet Home.—Threshing started at Sweet Home Wednesday afternoon. E. Russell, who owns one rig, threshed his grain and now is making the regular run of the season. Many farmers have not finished cutting grain yet. The fall sowing is fine, but spring sowing was very poor. If rain does not come before long, there will be many cattle suffering for feed.

Eugene.—The Eugene water board at its next meeting will take up the question of tapping the McKenzie river for a new supply of city water, and it is quite likely that a survey will be authorized at that time, according to J. W. McArthur, member of the board, who is acting as superintendent of the water plant during the illness of Superintendent McClain.

Forest Grove.—In spite of the dry weather and the long continued drouth, farmers in this section of Oregon report good grain yields. On some farms an average wheat yield of 35 to 40 bushels to the acre is being reported. Kemper Brothers, north of Forest Grove, reported a yield of 72 bushels an acre from a 14-acre field of oats. Threshing has only just begun in this locality.

Klamath Falls.—A record run that is expected to stand for some time in Klamath county has been made by the Algoma Lumber company. The company, on July 21, with the McGiffert loader, wheeled and loaded 40 cars, 80 tiers of 16-ft. logs for a total scale of 429,600 feet. Actual loading time was seven hours, thirty-five minutes. These logs were accepted by the Southern Pacific inspector with the exception of one car, on which a chain broke.
