COMMUNITY RIGHTEOUSNESS

The Times has at all times agitated "buying at home," and always will be found on the side of the home merchant. The idea of sending away for things carried by our own home town stores does not appeal to us as being either economical or in justice to our home town. Home merchants carry lines needed by the ordinary people, and if they at times charge a little more than does the mail order houses, they are entitled to their small profit. Freight rates to Maupin are high, and these must be considered when purchasing commodities. Again, the home merchant pays his taxes in the place wherein he operates; his family lives here and his children attend the home schools. He is usually a substantial citizen, ever awake to the best interests of his town and is always ready to assist in the upbuilding of the community.

The newspaper of your town is as much a mercantile institution as is the general store. It is true the print shop does not carry as many lines as does the merchant, but his columns, both advertising and news, are the same to him as the goods on the shelves of the store keeper. He solicits news items; he asks for job work, and above all desires items of news with which to regale his readers. There are some people who will not patronize either the stores or the newspaper. They buy everything possible outside and when it comes to a matter of news they are close-mouthed, usually saying they "know nothing." At the same time they have enough news to send to outside papers, which are published and credited to "contributed."

If Maupin people desire a paper which will publish all the news of the community, it is up to them to tell the news man what they have; if they fail to do this they alone are to blame for the dearth of items in the local paper. We want all the news of the community. If people withhold it from us they are to be likened to the ones who send away for their necessities. They are not good citizens, for they are holding back that which conduces to the best interests of the town and supporting outside business places to the detriment of their home town.

GASOLINE ROBBERY

News that the government has finally decided to investigate gasoline prices will doubtless cause every Maupin motorist to wonder why it wasn't done long ago. Ever since the auto came into vogue the one thing about its operation that no man has been able to understand is why there is such a wide discrepancy in the price of "gas."

Every spring there is a boost in price, and so prompt are the various so called "independent" companies to fall in line that even Uncle Sam has come to believe the boost always follows a pre-arranged plan. He can't understand, for instance, why Texas gasoline should be higher in states close to Texas than in states as far removed as New York, or how the same company can sell gasoline for one price in one state and for a higher price in the state in which it is refined. Gov. Byrd of Virginia has petitioned the president to institute an investigation, declaring that the jumping of gas prices in his state four cents on the gallon has cost Virginia motorists $6,000,000 more than if they had bought their gas from the same company in an adjoining state.

It is said in press dispatches that Pres. Coolidge has reason to believe that the auto drivers of this country are being gouged, and when figures were recently shown him to the effect that auto owners have been deliberately "stung" for over $500,000,000 by the gasoline companies in the past four years, he authorized the federal trade commission to take a hand. Let us hope the commission works speedily and effectively.

It is well to remember that the man who will come to you with a mean story of some other man will go to some other man with a mean story about you.

Italy is putting a ban on America. Sport and crime news are to be banned from Italian papers.

One thing that makes farmers angry is that it often happens that he raises blisters if nothing else.

SMOCK AND VICINITY

J. C. Bradway has been on the sick list for the past two weeks, but under the care of Dr. Elwood he is now convalescing.

Rev. A. Frischknecht and wife and R. Ruffer and wife were callers on Mr. Bradway Sunday afternoon.

Water is getting rather scarce. F. T. Felch motored to The Dalles last Friday.

D. M. Stenciliff has been suffering with an infection on one of his hands.

We are having cooler weather—thank goodness!

Mrs. F. T. Felch went to Portland Friday last for the purpose of taking Walter to his grandparents, where he will remain while taking treatment for a nasal trouble.

Mrs. S. G. Ledford stepped on a rusty nail Wednesday with the result that she has been suffering greatly with the pain caused thereby. Her husband took her to Maupin where Dr. Elwood dressed the wound.

B. C. Scott made a round trip to Dufur Sunday, taking his family with him.

W. L. Scott and wife of Roseburg have been guests at the Bradway home for the past two weeks. They returned to the Valley on Saturday. Mrs. Corney, a sister of Mrs. Bradway accompanied them.

B. C. Scott is now running his combine on the J. W. Farlow place, now owned by Prof. Wiley of The Dalles.

Semi-Savage Chileans Serve as Stevedores

Coronel is the principal coaling port on the west coast of South America and there it is customary for freighters to ship 20 or 30 stevedores in addition to the regular crew to break out the cargo when it is consigned to various ports further up the coast, the New York Times states.

These men are mostly Chileans and a tougher-looking company than these seagoing longshoremen could not be found, even among the bandits of southern Europe and Asia or the old-time pirates of the West Indies.

Swarthy, undersized, dirty and clothed in rags, they seem to touch the bottom notch in the scale of humanity. What they lack in intelligence is apparently made up in animal cunning and ferocity. Even a crew of Kanakas refuse to berth or mess with them. Every one carries a knife, which he can throw with the speed and accuracy of a bullet.

They are commanded by an overseer who is addressed as captain and who exerts a certain degree of author-

You Can't Laugh This Off

It has been figured out that if the sum of $1.00 had been deposited in a saving bank at 6 per cent on the day of Christ's birth, the interest on it up to the present day would pay off all of the national debts of all of the nations in the world.
And interest piles up just as fast today as it has at any time in the history of the civilized world.

Did You Know

that the only reason more people are not saving is because they have not learned how fast interest on money mounts up? Why not start on the one road that leads to Comfort and Happiness—the Thrift Road?

Our time is yours if you will ask for it—Drop in and let's talk over the benefit of a saving account—A dollar will start one.
