BOB STANFIELD DESERTS PARTY

Says He Will Accept Independent Nomination If
Extended To Him

OPEN WAY FOR HANEY

Turns His Back On the Party That Made Him Senator—Takes On
Bright Yellow Ochre Streak

Bob Stanfield has at last come out of his shell and proclaimed his ingratitude toward the party that exalted him to the lofty position of United States senator. He has stated his intention to run as an independent candidate to succeed himself, and in so doing has made the way easier for the election of the candidate of the democrats, Bert Haney. Ingratitude is a besetting sin. No one has ever accused our senator of having that streak in his makeup. The friends he made while in congress stuck manfully to him during the primary campaign and worked for his reelection. That a majority of the republican party of Oregon had tired of him was made manifest at the polls. Now, listening to the voice of a few paltrons, who chose to bolt the party and who flaunted a yellow streak, Bob Stanfield, a man whom we thought much of, has taken on a coat of ochre that will be visible in his makeup so long as he inhabits Oregon.

Stanfield's decision to make the run as an independent is given in a short paragraph in the Oregon Journal. He says:

"I expect to accept nomination as a candidate for United States senator, provided such nomination is tendered me prior to September 7, the last date for filing acceptance of same."

The Journal is right in its statement that the news of Stanfield's decision has been anticipated with regret by the state republican organization. Not only the state organization will regret Bob's action, but the many friends he has had will look askance at him hereafter. He has proved a traitor to the party of the state; he is playing into the hands of the opposition and will be elected to stay at home and muse over the treatment meted those who betray their friends. We have no use for a man who is not possessed of sufficient manliness to abide by a popular verdict. Stanfield is a poor loser, and while he may contribute to the defeat of Mr. Steiwer by running as an independent candidate his conscience will not permit him to again proclaim himself a republican.

Bob, The Times is agin you, at the same time we pity you.

Returns To First Love.

J. M. Temple, an auto mechanic who worked for Ben Fraley in Maupin about four years ago, but who has since been Idaho, returned to Maupin last week and is in charge of the repair shop at the Maupin Garage. Mr. Temple is considered to be one of the best auto mechanics on the coast and Geo. Tillotson says he is extremely lucky in securing his services.

Firemen Should Turn Out.

The fire department of this city is one of the essential parts of Maupin. When an alarm is sounded nearly every member of the department turns out. Why not make the same effort to attend meetings. There the business of the organization is transacted and it is there all members should be on meeting nights—the last Tuesday of each month. Do your full duty, firemen. Come out to the meetings.

Springs Benefit Health

Mrs. Frank McCorkle is home from a sojourn at the Warm Springs, where she went in hopes that the waters there would prove beneficial to her health. In that Mrs. McCorkle was well pleased, for she says she is in much better health than for some time. The lady declares she will go back again as soon as spring opens next year and remain through the summer.

NOTICE TO DELINQUENTS

As the publishers of The Times we have been easy with those of our subscribers who are in arrears for their subscriptions. We have sent out notices but once, and then arrears amounted to over $400.00. Of that amount less than $50.00 were paid. Those who are behind in their paper know of that fact. Just why they don't pay we cannot tell. Fact is, they don't come in and settle.

We do not like to be forever dunning people; we do not like to be dunned, and for that reason strive to keep our bills paid up. If our delinquent subscribers would only realize that it takes money to run a newspaper; that the publishers have bills to meet, and also that they must live, probably more would come in and liquidate.

Subscribers to a newspaper must pay their grocers, their clothiers, their shoe dealers. They must pay for all commodities used and they usually make an effort to meet those obligations. Why not consider the newspaper as a commodity and keep it paid for? We need the money and will have to take drastic measures to collect arrears. The harvest is over and a majority of our delinquents are in a position to meet the little they owe us. One account does not amount to much, but in the aggregate make to quite a sum. Be as honest with us as you are with your grocer. Come in and settle your indebtedness. By so doing you will be helping us and at the same time enabling us to give you a better paper. Think it over, then come in.

WAS CRIMINALLY NEGLIGENT

Driver of Car Which Killed Dufur
Man So Charged

That Walter Marx was "guilty of criminal negligence" when he ran into the Ford car of W. N. Endersby on the market road west of Dufur on Sunday, August 22, was the verdict brought in by the coroner's jury at the inquest held at Dufur last week. This verdict automatically sends the case to the grand jury. Mr. Endersby, who was severely injured at the time, is said to have a fair chance for recovery. He is at a hospital in The Dalles.

Case For Humane Society.

It is reported that the drovers, who recently passed through Maupin with a band of range horses, had left a dead colt in Bakeoven canyon, near its head. The cowboys do not seem to take in consideration the fact that it is hard work for a colt to keep up on a long and fast drive, and once in a while one dies. Throwing a dead body of any animal in a canyon is against the public health and the perpetrators of such an act should be made to feel the penalty for so doing.

More Fords Sold

George Tillotson has been busy the past few days selling the products of the sage of Dearborn—Henry Ford. Dolph Goetjen has provided himself with a used Ford roadster and Henry Wing of Wamic has purchased a new Ford touring car. We will wager when Dolph wants his buggy to stop he will pull on the steering wheel and holler "whoa."

Nearly Serious Fire.

But for the prompt assistance of neighbors the Lew McCoy barn at Wapinitia with its contents would have been consumed by fire Monday morning. Mr. McCoy discovered the blaze early and sounded an alarm, which brought out neighbors with buckets and who soon had the fire under control. Trust those Wapinitia people to hustle when the occasion demands.

Enjoying Auto Trip

M. J. Shearer, with his wife and daughter, Madge, are on an auto trip which covers a part of the Dalles-California highway, part of the Pacific and part of the Roosevelt highways. They left last Saturday and expect to return the same day of this week.

Wamic Young Man Appendicitis Victim

Brief mention was made in these columns last week of the death of Arby G. Magill, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Magill of Wamic, who died in the Sellwood hospital as a result of an attack of and operation for appendicitis on August 23.

Arby Magill was brought up in the Wamic section. He was born June 27, 1901, being a little over 25 years of age at the time of his death. He was married and besides his parents and other relatives leaves a young widow and an eight-months-old son to mourn his untimely passing away.

Arby was stricken August 12 and was immediately taken to the hospital, where an operation was performed the next day. He seemed to rally from the effects of the operation, but the next day or so an abscess formed at the seat of trouble and from then until death overtook him, the young man continued to sink. The body was brought to Wamic and the funeral services conducted there, Wednesday, August 25, by Revs. Frischkecht and J. I. Parker of Manor, Washington. The body was followed to its last resting place by a large gathering of sorrowing friends and the hearse was covered with floral offerings, a last testimonial of the respect in which the deceased had been held.

Arby had been associated with his father in the conduct of the ranch. He was a young man of exemplary character, honest, industrious and a friend to all that knew him. That his demise has cast a cloud over the whole Wamic neighborhood is shown by the many sympathetic messages of condolence received by his sorrowing parents and young widow.

OREGON WOOL WEIGHS HIGH

U. S. Department of Agriculture
Says Better Than Nine Pounds

The average wool clip in Oregon has been reported as being better than 9 pounds to the fleece, the experiment station reported. This is the first and only state that has been so listed by the United States department of agriculture.

A LITTLE BIT OF EVERYTHING

Information of Interest For the Home and Rancher

Mite Killers

Chicken mites may be eradicated by a few applications of kerosene or some of the coal-tar products sold for this purpose, or crude petroleum, to the interior of the poultry house, including the floor, taking care to get the material into the cracks.

Tin Can Not Dangerous

The prevailing idea that it is necessary to remove food from cans as soon as they are opened is erroneous. For a reasonable period incident to its utilization it would be safer to allow the food to remain in the can. Transferring to another receptacle only adds to the danger of contamination.

"Inside" Information

Winter squash or cymlins can be sliced and fried like egg plant.

To remove a light scorch stain from cotton fabric moisten the stain with water and place in the sun.

Left-over hominy grits may be cut into slices and browned in butter or other fat to make a most appetizing dish good to serve at any meal. The slices should be at least a half inch thick, dipped in flour, and fried a delicate brown on both sides. Have the fat hot enough to form a brown crust quickly on the grits before the inside soaks up the fat. Also time the cooking so that the fried grits can be served as soon as they are browned.

Custard

A soft custard should be cooked slowly in a double boiler and stirred almost constantly.

Ladies, Take Notice

If you want your hair either bobbed or marcelled call at room 6, Home hotel, and the work will be done by licensed operator, Marcell 75c, haircut 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Kreso Dip, the best disinfectant. For sale at the Maupin Drug Store.

Schools To Reopen On Thursday of Next Week

Full Corps of Teachers Selected—
But One Relected

The Maupin schools will open for the 1926-7 school year on Thursday next, Monday, the 6th, being Labor Day and the 7th and 8th being taken up by teachers' institute, makes the date of opening come in the middle of the week.

Those who have been selected to guide the educational steps of Maupin pupils are:

J. A. Nagel, Principal.
Katherine Enright, assistant principal.

Mrs. Marian Barringer, Seventh and Eighth grades.

Mrs. Lucile Cantrell, Sixth and Seventh grades.

Miss Marjorie Tillotson, Third and Fourth grades.

Miss Mamie Bostrack, First and Second grades.

Mrs. Cantrell is the only one of last year's teaching force who returns for this year.

School Meeting Called

A meeting of the legal electors of School District has been called for Tuesday next, September 7th, for the purpose of ascertaining the sentiment of the people regarding hauling pupils to Maupin, when such pupils reside more than a mile from town.

Injured by Broken Pick.

Julius Dierfeldt, one of the O. T. section men, was severely injured a short time ago and was taken to a Portland hospital. He was working with a pick, when the head of the tool broke, a piece striking him on the shin. A painful wound was the result. He was reported as gaining and soon will be at work again.

APPLE TREE ANTHRACNOSE

Makes Appearance From November
to January Each Year

New cankers of apple-tree anthracnose in Oregon begin to appear November to January, the experiment station reports. The first shows a circular spot darkened with purplish tints when moistened. At first the bark is not sunken but is discolored and has a water-soaked appearance. It develops but little until March to April when it enlarges rapidly. The spots become elliptical and the surface sunken.

Horse Hit By Auto.

Bill Williams was notified last Saturday that a horse was on the highway near the top of Cow Canyon with one of its legs broken. A woman, who was driving a big Studebaker car, ran into the animal, which was grazing on the highway, breaking one of its legs. The driver telephoned the accident in and Bill and Lon Kennedy went to the scene of the collision, where Bill soon ended the equine's suffering.

Some Fine Show Windows.

Bates Shattuck has again shown his versatility in window dressing. This time Bates seeks to remind hunters that the open season is near, and to that end has nicely displayed hunting paraphernalia of all kinds. R. E. Wilson also has a neatly decorated window, the work of his son, "Bo," a lad about 12 years of age. "Bo" seems to have a natural ability along art lines and we predict that, if he studies the art and puts his learning to use, he will soon become an adept in window decorating.

Editor Visits On Flat

H. J. Simmons, with his son, Billy, and his daughters, Misses Marion and Rachel, spent a couple of days this week at the Ed. Mathews home on Wapinitia Plains. Mr. Simmons and Mrs. Mathews are brother and sister. On his way home Mr. Simmons, who is editor of the Fossil Journal as well as serving as county superintendent of his county, stopped off long enough to say "Howdy" to The Times force.

Got Couple of Coyotes.

Predatory Animal Hunter Halbrook was on Tygh Ridge one day last week and succeeded in trapping a couple of coyote on the McLeod ranch. Halbrook has been very successful in the war against the sheep stealers, and is making their numbers grow smaller each month.

The following is attributed to the United States by Otto H. Kahn, one of the leading bankers of the country. It shows the intense love he has for our country and should be considered a classic:

AMERICA

This country, through the blessing of Providence, is endowed with a combination of natural resources and advantages beyond any other. Ours is a hard-working, enterprising, alert and intelligent population, deeply attached to American institutions and to the fundamentals of the American form and aim of government, determined to preserve them against attack from whatever quarter, and wholly proof against Bolshevism and similar destructive excrescences.

We have the inestimable benefit of a matchless Constitution, which has given us a stability of government since the inception of the Republic, and has stood every test and strain.

We are situated on a continent which long has been—and promises to remain—the abode of peace.

We have no intrinsic cause for class conflicts inasmuch as, truly, there are no classes in America. Education and opportunity are open to all. The field for men of brains and character and enterprise is still almost limitless, and there is as much room on top as ever.

The standard of living of the masses of the American people is superior to that prevailing anywhere. We are in the blessed position, while naturally having our problems and questions in the social and economic field, (some of them, like those of agriculture, of a pressing character for the time being), that none of them, thus far, is of a permanently grave or intrinsically portentous nature.

We are at peace with all the world. We cover nothing. We fear no one. We mean well by all. The future lies before us unclouded, bright with the sun of promise and boundless in its potentialities for material and spiritual achievement.

May we, individually and as a nation, ever so act as to be worthy of the blessings that have been given to us. May we in our abundance, individually and as a nation, ever take kindly thought of those less favored than ourselves. May we ever be conscious of the responsibilities and duties that go with power and prosperity. And may we always, in the midst of our material well-being and strenuous activities, maintain that idealistic striving which we believe we can justly claim to be one of the essential characteristics of the American people.

Roadmaster Has Pneumonia.

G. W. Lancaster, road master for the Oregon Trunk railway, is ill with pneumonia in a Portland hospital. For a time there were but small hopes for his recovery, but at this writing Mr. Lancaster's condition is such that his associates feel that he will soon be up again.

Is Professors' Cottage.

Principal J. A. Nagle has moved his household goods to the Lake cottage, occupied last year by Principal Geiser, and will live there with his family. The Nagel goods arrived Tuesday and were installed in the new home.

Ship Sheep To Portland.

Hackler & Benson recently sold three carloads of sheep to A. R. Bohosky, and they were shipped to Arlington on Saturday night's O. T. train. The sheep will be fed at Arlington.

Rents Tygh Valley Ranch.

Dolph Goetjen has decided that the life of a farmer is the only one to live. He has rented the W. E. Hunt Tygh Valley ranch and will move his family thereto next week.

Another Trainload of Sheep

T. A. Connolly loaded a train with sheep Monday evening and Tuesday they passed through Maupin from Bend. They were enroute to Idaho.

FACTS REGARDING PROPOSED BILL

Hydro-Electric Measure Is Opposed By Power Element of Whole State

NO SAFEGUARDS TOLD

How Will Bonds Issued Under This Power Scheme Be Paid From Earnings At Maturity?

If Dan Kelleher can put over in Oregon the political move that is back of the hydro-electric measure involving expenditure of $55,000,000 of public funds by a board of five inexperienced politically appointed members, he can start in and revise the ten commandments so far as Oregon is concerned. No one will have authority to restrain him.

It has been shown in numerous cases where public control and operation of such utilities has prevailed that the rate—all things considered—was not lower. Considered alone, the wattage charge might be in certain cases reduced. Compensating charges made this rate appear to the public as an advantage.

However, when loss in taxes from private sources, displaced or bought out is considered, the interest and sinking fund reservations taken care of and the total expense ascertained, the slight reduction in rates was more than offset by total cost of operation. Consequently many of the former publicly-owned plants have been returned to private control and ownership.

The varied schemes proposed in the "Housewives'" constitutional amendment involve the board in intricate businesses, including irrigation, with which none of its members is in any adequate degree acquainted.

On the financial side we would have not only the gigantic privilege of issuing public certificates wholly in the hands of the board. These are in effect mortgages on the plants to be constructed with funds from the immense bond issue.

The proposal in its entirety is staggering in its ramifications. It is so big that conservative private interests, although provided with unlimited capital, would hesitate to embark on such a wide program. Step by step taxpayers would discover the load that had been saddled upon them.

What Safeguards.

It is pertinent to ask how any assurance can be given that bonds issued under the Housewives' power scheme will be paid from earnings at maturity. All depends upon successful operation. If interest is not earned, the general fund of the state is tapped. So also for principal, at need. No safeguards of any kind are provided. It means a new issue of bonds to provide for further operation, or a refunding of those already outstanding. All is in the hands of a political board. The public will be confronted with increased rates, or that general fund will be reduced.—Adv. paid for by Oregon Public Utility Information Bureau.

Getting Out Power Poles.

Cecil Woodcock, with Ellis Doughton and Claude Roberts, are in the mountains for the purpose of getting out poles for the power line to be run to Maupin from the new plant at Oak Springs.

Mrs. DeVoe At Ilwaco.

In a letter to The Times Mrs. Vere DeVoe states that she is now semi-settled and desires the Times sent to her there, as she wanted to be reminded of the Oregon Sunshine.

Sheep For Rock Creek

Hackler & Benson shipped five carloads of sheep to Rock Creek Tuesday morning. This made the second consignment of sheep for the firm within a week. The shipment was made over the O. R. & N. railway.
