STEWIER'S RECORD CLEAN

The authors of the so-called "Yellow Ticket" have been indicted and soon will be called for trial on the charge of violation of the election law. The fathers of that vile action will stand before the people of Oregon as being even below the standard of dirty politics, if that breed of politicians may be said to have a standard. That they will be convicted goes without saying, for their practice was so coarse and underhanded that even they do not want to be tried together and have their crookedness exposed to the voters of the state as a gang.

But one good has come out of the rottenness shown by the "Yellow Ticket" framers. It has shown, and most conclusively, that Fred Steiwer had nothing to do with the scheme. He has come out of the mess as though purified by fire and today stands before the people of his state clean and unadorned. Mr. Steiwer has been making friends wherever he northwest and Hartley's action at that time was uncalled for, and showed the man up for what he really is worth.

STAUNCH SUPPORTER RENIGS

Governor Pierce has had a change of heart. For some time past he has cast sheep's eyes at the Housewives' Council and has expressed a longing to become one of the household. But things will happen to turn a man's feelings. Walter seems to have had some story poured into his ears which has had the effect of "souring" him on his lady love. He has assumed an air of indifference and now says that he will have none of the council.

Our worthy governor may soon discover the meaning of the saying that "hell hath no fury like that of a woman scorned."

It is not difficult to visualize the effect on the lumber industry in Oregon if it should be decided by the voters of this state that the hydro-electric energy shall be supplied by state-owned and operated enterprise.

Imagine, for example, the State of Washington notifying any of its big lumber companies that hereafter all streams would be subject to the whim and dictation of a housewives' council board, named in a constitutional amendment! Oregon faces that identical situation. Giant sawmills hum along the Columbia river, on Coos Bay, along the Deschutes, and throughout Oregon's great stand of forest timber. Many of these mills have their own equipment.

Those near central energy use powder for machinery, light, and other mill purposes. Such a mill could not generate its own electricity, could not dam a stream for logging purposes, and could in no manner use the streams of Oregon without the consent of a politically appointed and politically minded board of managers, supreme in itself and responsible to no other state official body or executive.

Is it to be supposed that investments of capital will continue in Oregon by those who are sending lumber from this state to all the world in raw and manufactured form? Electric cranes facilitate lumber shipment; electric trucks operate in the yards; electric motors drive the saws, shapers and planers. Electricity throughout the mills reduces the danger of fire and is elemental. If the exclusive right to dictate how this electrical energy shall be supplied, and to tax all property for the deficits of operation, were vested in this political board, lumber industries would certainly hesitate before making further investments. These mills pay large taxes; owners of timber are taxed for their uncut holdings. The proposal of the housewives' council makes the taxpaying properties of Oregon directly responsible.

In November the constitutional amendment will be presented for voters to decide. Men who have made a close study of the subject answer the question with a flat negative. Voters should be prepared to act intelligently. The measure should be defeated.— Paid Adv.

Bert Haney wants to go to congress as a senator from Oregon for a purely personal reason. He was "canned" as a member of the shipping board and now wants election to a position in which he can act as an obstructionist to recommendations advanced by the man who tied the can to him—President Coolidge. He knows that as a member of the United States senate he would cut but a sorry figure, also that his attitude antagonistic to the administration would preclude his attaining any prominence or recognition as a legislator.

The defeat of the University of Oregon by the team from the like institution of Washington, might be the last big game ever played by the two teams—if Governor Hartley is allowed to have full swing in matters educational in the Evergreen state. If he continues to "buttin" as he has been doing, there soon will be no university or other college in that state, consequently no football or other athletic teams.

Bert Haney's statement that "a divided delegation at Washington is more effective than one united and in harmony with the administration," does not coincide with the Scripture, for in the 11th chapter of Luke, 17th verse, this is stated: "Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and a house divided against a house falleth."

Governor Pierce proclaims the Dennis resolution as iniquitous. Maybe so, but do the people of Oregon think for one minute, if it is adopted, that it will have the effect of driving capital to other parts, like the governor's pet income tax measure has done in the past?

Fred Boalt and his "guts" might do better by working in a sausage factory. Bologna casings are always in demand, but at that Fred's job might not last long for it takes something substantial to hold matter more solid than wind.

Measured by Millions of Dollars

NO event is so important to all the West as the Pacific International Livestock Exposition, which is held in Portland each year. It is the largest combined livestock exposition known in the world. Its exhibits are valued in the millions. The very finest bred dairy and beef cattle, horses, sheep, hogs, goats and foxes come from all over America.

And this year, it is said the Exposition will be far greater than ever before. The premium list of over $100,000 is the largest ever offered anywhere. The Horse Show premium list is the largest, too—one single event offering $4,000. An entire train of 25 cars is enroute from the East—bringing many of the prize animals from the National Dairy Show recently held at Detroit.

The date is October 30-November 6 and we say GO and look and learn, Mr Farmer. Then come back and talk it over with us here at the Maupin State Bank.
