A PARALLEL CASE

The following story of a St. Louis doctor who issued an ultimatum to those of his patients who failed to pay for his services, is to be compared with the business of a country newspaper publisher. The doctor sent the following to his customers, and The Times might parallel it with a story of those who take the paper but who do not seem to care to pay for it:

Having been stepped on, crucified, lied about, cussed and cut off the paying lists of his patients for thirty-five years, a well known St. Louis doctor issued twice a week, an ultimatum-in-print—a regular Martin Lutherian defi, impaled on the door with a stiletto.

"After practicing thirty-five years with over $20,000 unpaid accounts on my books (charity cases not included)," the letter reads, "hereafter all charge counts are due and payable the first of each month, or upon rendering bill."

"I am compelled to pay office rent, drug bills, phone, light, gas, tires, etc., monthly and promptly. In consequence, I do not deem it just that I should render my services and supply drugs gratis or on an indefinite payment. Patients unable to pay, mentioning the fact, will be treated as promptly as before; those able to pay, and who do not, will oblige me by not calling me!"

DRINKERS, SEE THE DOCTORS

Washington reports that 2,000,000 gallons of whiskey a year are being sold in this country as medicine, on physician's prescriptions. Now that is nothing to get excited about. Two million gallons of whiskey are a lot of whiskey; but do a bit of figuring. It comes to about two-thirds of a pint per family per year, or a little more than one tablespoonful apiece per year.

Doubtless some are getting more than their share, but the stuff is probably spread around so that it isn't responsible for much drunkenness, whatever its medical virtues may be. The doctors have legal authority to spread 200 times that much.

The initial number of the Port Orford News has reached our desk. The name of Geo. W. Soranson appears at the mast head, and he shows that he is wise to what people want in the way of a country newspaper. The News starts out with a fair showing of advertisements, is filled with matter relative to the section in which it is published and gives promise of filling a field deserving of a first class paper. Bro. Soranson, The Times welcomes you as a member of the fourth Estate of Oregon.

The way the people of The Dalles are going after the new normal school shows they know what to do in order to help the town. They have constructed a new water supply system, are contemplating more business blocks, among which will be a modern theatre edifice, and are reaching out for everything that will make for a greater and more enterprising city.

An Oregonian truck driver was held up and robbed while on his way with a load of Saturday's papers to McMinnville. The holdups got but small shingle for their pains. The poor fools left what was of greater value when they failed to confiscate and read a copy of the paper the driver was hauling.

Dufur people are going after the new tuberculosis hospital with a vigor. That city is on one railroad, allied such by courtesy only, and The Dalles-California highway. And their show for getting the hospital is not half as good as Maupin's, if our people would only go out after it.

Maupin does not want a public institution. Her people are content to sit on the bank of the Deschutes and watch the water flow by. Dufur people want the new hospital and are going after it.

How to write a strong business letter—Use onion skin paper.

Baked Bananas
Baked bananas are in order, as winter advances. Peel the bananas, split lengthwise, place in a baking dish, sprinkle with lemon juice and sugar, and bake until tender. Serve warm for dessert.

More Radios Installed.

Joe Kramer is a premier radio salesman. During the past week he has sold and installed two Atwater Kent outfits. Julius Shepflin taking one and M. I. Shearer the other.

No Insurance

Rastus Jackson, a thoroughly married darkey, was approached by a life insurance agent.

"Better let me write you a policy today, Rastus," suggested the agent. "No sah," declared Rastus emphatically, "Ah ain't any too safe at home as it is!"—Missouri Pacific Magazine.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

The opening of the improved Grange hall of the Ramsey Grange drew quite a crowd from Maupin. The Times kids must have enjoyed the time, for they kept in the "hug" until nearly noon Sunday.

It is said that a certain Maupin man refused to vote for a nominee for school election because "The Maupin Times brought him out." We wonder if he will vote at the coming city election because the notice of such, with names of nominees were printed in the election notice.

Jack Staats says that "when" a man derides his auto driving and then tips his machine over, "stuff is off" with that man forever more.

The recent snow called out all those who possessed snow shovels, and when they finished with their walks others were on hand to borrow the much needed excavators.

A certain Maupinite is credited with advising others not to vote for another certain man because of his morals. The first man evidently forgot the time he and the second man were enjoying themselves away from home not so long ago, and when the first man indulged in pleasure (to him) that the second man refused to partake of. A case of the "pot calling the kettle black."

The Broadway Novelty orchestra seems to have pepped up since their last season's appearance here. At their dance Friday night the jazz they dished out to the small crowd present kept feet tapping the floor all the time.

John Confer says that retiring from the farm has its compensations. He has a shed full of wood, the cellar full of vegetables and now enjoys his leisure b yatching plenty of fine fur on the river.

Dave Donaldson is up in arms against the early closing of the fishing streams. He says he had just located a school of big trout up the river when the law stepped in and forbade him catching them. We all suffer with Dave.

Wapinitia News

Will Sturges made a trip to the mountains Thursday and brought back a load of wood for the church.

The coming of the snow Friday, thought welcome to the farmers caught some of them without their wood in for the winter.

A few of the cattle caught in the mountains by the snow are making their way out.

J. M. Powell made a trip to Wapinitia, Friday to take the girls home. On the return trip it was necessary to walk part of the way for the gas gave out.

Everett Richmond of Maupin made a business trip to Wapinitia Saturday. He stayed but a short time, but long enough for his radiator to freeze up and give him trouble on his way home.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Mayfield of Pine Grove were visited by the stork Tuesday. The result was a big nine pound boy.

Notice is hereby given that I will not permit grazing of sheep or other trespass on my property. Anyone caught trespassing on same will be dealt with according to law.

"Were you trying to catch that car?"

"No," said the puffing fat man, "I was just chasing it off this corner."

At Legion Hall
He: "May I have the last dance with you?"
She: "You've just had it."

Delivered Turkeys

Lee Jackson, the Tygh Valley meat market man, delivered a load of fine turkeys to Maupinites' the first of the week. The birds were in prime condition and will grace the tables of many Thanksgiving dinners here today.
