

NOTES FROM MAUPIN SCHOOLS

The Underclass Play is attractive when filled with plants.

The play, "The Path Across the Hill," promises to be one of the high lights of the school activities for the year. The cast has been carefully selected from the Freshman and Sophomore classes and has been giving much time to practices for several weeks. "I wouldn't miss it for a farm," said one "individual" who seemed to have some inside information. Clarence Hunt plays "Grandpa Crawford." "I'm glad you proposed to me, Mary," he tells Grandma Crawford (Madge Shearer) with a twinkle in his eye. Merle Snodgrass as Ruth is sweet and appealing, while Robert Post, played by Andrew Crabtree, is clean cut and forceful. Robert Shepflin as Dr. Jimmy Reed, plays well the fickle and repentant sifter of Ruth, and Crystal Stuart as Flo breezes about, flippant and saucy—a modern flapper. Doris Kelly is Lottie, who is fifteen and in love with Walter (Fred Stovall). "Oh, Walter, I'm afraid I'm going to die an old maid," she mourns. Mr. Salamander Alexander John Henry Jones and his bride are played by Arthur Appling and Sylvia Ayres. "I see perambulating, Honey, I see perambulating," he tells her.

The play is to be given on Friday night at eight o'clock in the auditorium, as well as on Thursday afternoon at 1:30. It was thought that Thursday some people might be able to give a matinee performance on to come in from the country who might not be able to attend otherwise. A large crowd is expected and the audience is assured a comfortably warm auditorium since the ceiling will be finished.

"Next time I'll bring blinders."—Lutie.

The First and Second grade pupils are very proud of their new picture, "A Helping Hand." It was purchased with funds from the entertainment given in November by the grades.

"You ought to be friz."—Grandma.

During the Christmas holidays Mr. McCorkle made flower boxes for the primary room. These will be very "Well she'd flirt with a milk can!"—Walter.

Edna Ward of Wapinitia entered school on Tuesday. She is staying with the Beelwiths.

"We forgive so long as we love."—Grandma.

The game of basketball which had been scheduled with Grass Valley was called off on account of the underclass play, "The Path Across the Hill," which is to be given Friday night.

"And it am ma predestination to take ma hat off to you all."—Salamander.

The ceiling of the gymnasium is practically completed. While the work is going on basketball practice has been held in Legion hall.

"Ah, yes Colonel, I is filled with delirium fo' to meet you. all, sah."—Salamander.

Ailene Wilson has returned to school after an absence of some time. Ailene has been quite ill.

"Well, Mary, I'm glad you proposed to me anyway."—Grandma.

Lena Turner stayed out of school Monday because she had a sore throat.

"Will I startle the natives?"—Flo.

The Fifth and Sixth grade room has the new window curtain cord, which has been needed so long. We can now regulate the amount of light which is to come into the room.

"Money is a wonderful cement. It holds a long time sometimes."—Ruth.

The teacher of the Fifth and Sixth grades while in Portland met Mr. R. Geiser, former principal of the Maupin schools. He still takes a live interest in the progress of each and every one of Maupin's students. He also sent a small check, a surplus of last year's entertainment fund for the grades which will be found useful.

"Look like the presumption ain't done look."—Zuzu.

Mr. Deeg attended the O. S. T. A. and asked about almost every individual in her former classes. She wished the message carried that each one earnestly strive to make the best of himself.

"Green's my favorite color—and I pick him."—Flo.

The Fifth and Sixth grades are beginning the new year right with perfect attendance and attention to study.

"I find the hill too steep... I can't make the grade after all."—Post.

"She has given us both a polite invitation to keep off her doormat."—Reed.

"Oh dear, I've got such a cold in my doze."—Lutie.

Mr. McCorkle has been busy during vacation and among other things has oiled the floors.

ELECTRIFICATION IS BENEFIT

Makes For Better Conditions Physically, Mentally and Morally

E. A. O'Neal, President of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, says bringing electricity to the rural districts "is certain to result in better and more courageous men, more cultured women, and a rural life that is satisfying because it provides those things which make up for satisfaction."

"Decentralization of industry will be another big result. History teaches us that industries have clustered around power and that wherever power goes, industries follow. So then, we may conclude that there will be small industries along our rural electric lines."

"These industries will provide a home market for farm products. Freight charges will be reduced, there will be less waste, employment will be available for idle labor, there will be more tax-paying property, and the movement of money in the community will be steady throughout the year."

"The chief advantage of this development will be that of a proper balance between agriculture and industry, which is just as necessary as diversification in farming."
