INESCAPABLE

Whatever conclusions may be drawn from the recent state election, one is inescapable. The people in rejecting every state-wide measure involving the expenditure of funds obtained from taxation have demanded economy in state government. They have not charged the administration with extravagance, nor have they indicated a belief in the existence of wasteful expenditure, but in their refusal to authorize a new tax and an added rate base, their meaning is plain and needs no clarifying.

Taxes are not popular in Oregon, and under the fancied protection of the six per cent constitutional limitation the people refuse to approve new avenues of taxation, along with rejection of a proposal to increase property taxes for state purposes. Fearful of the lengths to which officialdom may go, they have declined to approve a legislative measure designed to equalize taxes, a measure that had undoubted merit and fairness, but which might easily have been ruined by over-zealous administration. The plan proposed and which has been rejected has been applied to public utilities in Oregon for a number of years with the result that utility companies are paying to the state and its political sub-divisions nearly ten per cent of their gross earnings, and subscribing more than their share of the high cost of government.

The legislature, which may not meet until 1929, will have a major problem to solve to extricate the state from a financial situation brought about by the defeat of the income tax in 1924 and a reduction in the state tax levy. Until then the state will be compelled to face continued and increasing deficits, which some time and in some manner will have to be paid.

It is said that high-power electric lights suspended over rice fields attract myriads of bugs that prey on the rice. Perhaps bugs might be caught that way, but there are bugs in nearly every place that prefer to do their work outside a pale of light —the fire bug and still bug, for instance.

A little rain deterred an aviator from coming to the Tygh celebration, notwithstanding his agreement to do so. Which shows again that Lindburgh stands above many of his fellow flyers, having the courage to brave unknown elements on a long flight.

"Experience is a dear teacher." That fact was emphasized last Sunday when a young man of Wamic attempted to scratch the busy end of a dynamite cap with the result that he is now minus three fingers. He won't do it again.

Now that the Fourth is past our wheat growers will turn their attention to the material end of their business and prepare to gather in one of the largest crops ever raised in this section of Oregon.

We wonder if those old men who once hid in the barn to smoke and read Deadwood Dick make allowance for the frivolities of the younger generation.

Nothing is calculated to jar an el-dible girl like a young man who talks about his money but says nothing about matrimony.

It is said a Philadelphia store has a bell which can be heard 30 miles at that it beats Mr. Coolidge just that 30 miles.

"Inside" Information

Hard boiled eggs are sometimes used to garnish fish in a colorful way. Garnishes that can be eaten are to be preferred for economy's sake.

The slices of lemon usually served as a garnish with fish, whether it is broiled, fried, or baked, are not merely decoration. They are meant to furnish the lemon-juice which makes the fish more appetizing and

CAN YOU FIND YOUR PAPERS
—in an emergency?
Have you ever suddenly needed certain papers for some business emergency, and have hunted through your desk, vainly seeking them?
This has happened to many with losses in dollars and opportunities.
A safe deposit box for storage and safety would have prevented all such losses. Many men and women are now keeping their valuables in safe deposit boxes in this bank. We highly recommend that you, too, adopt this plan.
The cost is trifling and your valu-

Here Are Vitamins and Minerals

Advertisement for vitamins and minerals featuring a woman at a table and lists of foods rich in vitamins and minerals. Includes sections for 'VITAMINS IN FOODS', 'FOOD-IRON', 'FOOD-CALCIUM', and 'IRON IS A NECESSARY PART OF THE DIET'.

WIDESPREAD discussion of food properties in the press of the country has awakened the housewife to the need of applying science and its theories to the ever present question of feeding her family. To many, the charts pictured above will be of great help in making understandable much of the theory that, in the past, has seemed undefined, too far away for plain every day use. These charts are prepared from statistics gathered by the health experts, and thus have authority back of them.

Once the housewife knows the sources of minerals and vitamins essential in the diet, she has only to include those vitamin and mineral containing foods in her menu. This is greatly simplified by the use of canned foods, which give her the best mineral and vitamin sources the year 'round. Of the best are spinach, stringless beans, peas, containing both kinds of minerals indicated and large percentages of vitamins A, B, C and D. The housewife need never worry about pea or bean season, for either are available, cooked, needing only re-heating before serving. All of the foods mentioned above may be obtained in canned form and the diet need never be without them.

One of the important points about mineral and vitamin contents of canned foods has been established by careful and extensive research, namely, that the methods of cooking foods employed by canneries, preserve both minerals and vitamins far better than the methods used by the average housewife. Canned sauerkraut, for instance, contains four or five times the amount of vitamins found in cabbage that has been cooked according to the usual household methods. Canned tomatoes, peaches, and many more foods are correspondingly better than the same foods cooked in the unscientific home methods. This is the opinion of experts.

Though most of us know the reasons for the inclusion of minerals in the diet, namely, their tonic properties and their stimulus to the digestive organs, why vitamins are included is not so easily explained. No one has ever been able to isolate a vitamin, yet its presence is of equal proportion to its air of mystery. The best way to define the function of a vitamin is to compare it to the spark plug in the automobile which explodes the gas. The engine produced in the spark plug does not aid in propelling the engine. Nor is the fuel of any account in running the engine so long as it remains in the form of gasoline vapor. The spark plug, however, ignites it, producing a change whereby it does become useful as a source of energy. By some means, still unknown to us, the vitamins enable the body to utilize the energy producing and tissue building components of our foods, which would be useless to us without the vitamins.

They regulate the assimilation of the tissue building portions of the diet.

Vitamin A assists growth and development and prevents tuberculosis.
Vitamins B and D assist in giving vitality and lack of them undermines the health generally. Vitamin C prevents scurvy.
The housewife who plans meals for growing children should pay particular attention to the chart which indicates calcium contents.
