THREE POINTS TO REMEMBER IN VEGETABLE DINNER

Variety of Flavor, Variety of Texture and Protein Content—Department of Agriculture Says

There are three points to remember in preparing a vegetable dinner. First there must be a variety of flavor. So far as flavor is concerned, a good combination is one mild-flavored vegetable, such as potatoes or Lima beans, one vegetable of pronounced flavor, like cauliflower, cabbage, or onions; one which is either sour itself, or may be served with vinegar—spinach or beets, for instance. Second there must be a variety of texture. Variety in texture is obtained by having one vegetable with a crisp crust, like corn fritters, or scalloped potatoes; second vegetable served with sauce; and a third simply cooked in water, or peas or string beans. A raw vegetable, such as celery or radishes, lends still further variety. The third point to remember in connection to a vegetable dinner is to include some protein foods in the meal. As a rule, one of the vegetables should be beans, or peas, which are comparatively rich in protein. Or one of the vegetables may be served with protein food, such as cheese, milk, eggs, or chopped meat. Examples of vegetables combined with protein foods are green peppers or tomatoes stuffed with a meat mixture, cauliflower or potatoes scalloped with cheese, spinach with hard-boiled eggs, and sweet corn pudding made with milk and eggs.

Cottage cheese is high in food value. It contains all the constituents of milk, excepting the cream. Like milk, cottage cheese is a source of protein, which is used to build and repair body tissue. There are many dishes which can be made with cottage cheese. Cottage cheese served plain is especially pleasing in summer. Many people like it with rich cream and a little salt, or with cream and sugar. Sour cream, or melted butter improves the flavor of cottage cheese, and increases the food value. Cottage cheese makes a delicious sandwich filling, especially for the picnic season of the year. For sandwiches moisten the cheese with sweet cream, and flavor it with a little chopped parsley, chopped or sliced olives, sliced celery, pimientos, horse-radish, Spanish onions, pickles or nuts. Some people like the flavor of caraway seeds in cottage cheese. This spread is equally good on white bread, rye bread, nut bread or brown bread.

CHERRY GROWERS WANT INCREASE IN TARIFF

Growers Ask Three Cents a Pound Increase—Italian Representatives Voice Protest.

Cherry growers of the Pacific Coast are asking the United States Tariff Commission to recommend an increase in the duty on imported cherries. In presenting their case to the commission, W. R. Ogg, representing the American Farm Bureau Federation, testified that the figures showed that an increase of 1 cent a pound would not cover the difference in cost of producing the cherries in this country and in Italy. It was also shown that the small sized cherry with which the Italian cherries compete are being grown in California, and that with proper protection a considerable industry could be developed.

Representatives of the Italian government at the National Producers' association appeared in opposition to any increase in tariff rates at the preliminary hearing. The increase asked for is a raise of three cents a pound.

MAY GO TO PORTLAND FOR TREATMENT FOR EYES

Road Boss Addington Will Seek Relief at Hands of Big Town Specialist

M. M. Addington, foreman of maintenance on this section of The Dalles-California, expects to go to Portland for consultation and treatment by eye specialists. For some time past Mose has been suffering with an infection of one of his eyes. He was at The Dalles several times and received treatment but that did not seem to do any good. He expects that Portland specialists will be able to clear up the difficulty

New England Atmosphere With 1926 Improvements

ANY one who has ever motored through the quiet sleepy towns of New England has fallen in love with that section of the country—neat, white, unpretentious and with a touch of reserve about them. Just such a house is the one pictured here. It is equally adaptable for town or country, and by merely shifting the living and entrance porches around can be built on a wide or narrow lot without spoiling its architectural.

The house is sturdily built and has an exterior of wood siding except for the unusual stucco panels that start at the level of the second floor windows. The roof is of stained shingles, preferably moss green, in keeping with the window shutters. A house of this compact style is very easy to heat, especially when the specifications call for insulation throughout with celotex, which prevents heat leakage, and keeps the house cool in the summer.

The living and dining rooms are here combined into one large room flooded with light by windows on three sides. The two bedrooms on the second floor each have double exposure and an extra large closet in which a window may be placed.

sufficiently to allow his returning to his job on the road.

Go To East Lake.

Johnny Williams and a friend of Portland went to East Lake yesterday morning. Johnny had no idea of going there, but his friend telegraphed him to make ready for the trip, so our accommodating camp ground and service station man got ready and the two went to the lake.
