VISION

There is an old adage which says, 'When Vision is gone the people die.'

In that sentence we might find a moral which should be inductive of better things. Why?

Take a good look at yourself for instance. What are you doing to make your city a better place to live in. When someone asks you what you think of the future of your city what is your answer? Do you say, 'I see no future to it,' or do you have a vision of what your city might become providing it is given the proper stimulant by the people who live within our incorporate limits.

There is where the vision is necessary. If a citizen does not want a picture in his mind the possibilities of the city from other angles than that which his own selfish desires direct him, he cannot see any possibility for improvement. The person who can see no chance for the improvement of his own station, is in a rut. The city, who has no citizens with vision and desire to press forward the possibilities of the town, is in a rut. There is no denying those facts. We all know if it we will permit ourselves to think at all.
We owe it to ourselves to make our city a better place in which to live, but is everyone doing it. Of course not. Every town has its knockers and most all towns have their boosters, but the town that is worth while is the town whose boosters are so pepped up and so enthusiastic that the damp blanket which the pesimi-stically inclined villagers wield, cannot quench their enthusiasm.—

PROFITS GO TO MASSES

The real capitalists of this country—the people who supply the bulk of the money needed for new industrial enterprises—are not the people of immense wealth, but the great middle class, those who work in offices, stores and factories. A recent investigation shows that more than 1,383,000 customers have invested in securities of power and light companies in the last 12 years.

Customer and employe ownership of our public utility and industrial corporations is bringing about true public ownership in this country. And it is public ownership by which the profits accruing from public service an business go to the mass of the people, and not to the politicians.

Idaho Republicans have been asked to act as a unit in furthering the candidacy of Senator Borah for the presidency. We believe that if 'Bill' could be nominated he would be one of the best chief executives ever to grace the presidential chair, and we are not deprecating Hoover at that.

Elton Watkins says he does not want the Democratic nomination from the hands of that party in Multinomah county. Elton must have forgotten that creed taught him when he was learning to operate a typewriter—'Now is this time for all good men to come to the support of their party.'

With all the honors accumulated while in the Black Hills President Coolidge will return to the White House as unruffled and as urbane as when he chose to spend the summer in the former home of Sitting Bull.

Longest Concrete Road.

The Oregon State Motor association opints out that the longest strip of concrete road in America lies between Olympia and Vancouver, Washington. The distance is 135 miles. There are five other continuous stretches more than one-hundred miles long. In Missouri the road between Kansas City and a point west of Columbia is 125 miles in length, and the road between Neosha and Springfield, 102 miles long. In Minnesota the road running from Rock Creek to Knife River is 112 miles long and the road from Anoka to Brainard, 110 miles long. In Wisconsin the road running from the state line south of Truesdell, around Milwaukee to Waupun, is 118 miles.

News Of Busy Shaniko

Shaniko School notes.

The old school bell rang at 9:00 o'clock Monday morning, calling in pupils from their three-months' vacation. All assembled in the High school room, where a few remarks were made by the principal. Mrs.
Reed then took charge and 'America' was heartily sung by all. Following this, the pupils dispersed to their respective rooms where their text books needs for the term were considered.

Just before dismissal the High school challenged the upper grades for a volley ball game. The challenge was accepted, but the older pupils proved too much for the youngsters, although they had a veteran player in the person of Mr.
Pratt on their side. Prof. Broughton and his group won two successive games before their opponents would acknowledge themselves beaten.

Only two pupils compose the beginner's class, they being Billy Bickell and Don Broughton.

The High school program provides for nine classes daily.

The teachers for the school year are as follows:
L. V. Broughton, principal and High school.

Allen Pratt, Grades 5-8.
Mrs. John Reed, Grades 1-4 Mr. Broughton is a graduate of Lawrence college, Wisconsin; Mr.
Pratt of Reed college, while Mrs.
Reed hails from Monmouth. All are teachers of several years' experience and all have previously taught in Wasco county.

Mr. Pratt and his boys and girls have completed the physical examination work of the early school year. The last step was a trip to the scales at the Gavin & Wheeler store.

Home-Builder Gets Good Investment Plus Comfort

ECONOMY of space in this five-room English town house has not meant a sacrifice of an artistic exterior. Built of variegated or common brick, whitewashed, with a roof of stained shingles or slate, it presents an unusually attractive and compact appearance. The portico is arched and roofed, and has a red brick floor. The shutters of solid, weathered boards give an interesting departure from the usual New England type.

A number of features provide for exceptional comfort and convenience. The living room has an oriel bay window that gives light from three directions and affords a window seat or fernery within.
Every room has windows on two sides, giving cross-ventilation. The house is insulated, walls and roof, with celotex as protection against cold and waste of fuel in the winter, and the hot rays of the sun in summer. The floors are hardwood throughout, and have a layer of celotex placed between them to deaden noises within the house, a feature that is especially appreciated where there are small children and noisy boys in the house.
