Al Had Friends

Al had wired his wife that he would be home Friday night. At midnight he hadn't shown up. His wife became nervous and wired four of the Indiana branches asking if Al was staying there.

Along about six in the morning Al came in home, clothes wet and muddy, having had to change tires and fix several punctures. Shortly afterwards, telegrams began to come in. They all read, "Yes, Al is staying here tonight."—Flash and Fire.

There are valuable mineral salts dissolved in the liquids that surround canned vegetables and it should not be thrown away. Use it in a sauce served with the vegetable, or in soup or gravy. Boil canned vegetables for at least 5 minutes before using.

Moldy bread may be due to wrapping the bread up before it is thoroughly cool, or to lack of care of the bread box. In addition to airing the bread box frequently, some times scald it out thoroughly, and dry in a warm oven, or on the back of the stove, or directly in the sun. Molds do not like dry hot air or sunshine.

If you are planning and equipping a kitchen, think first, last and always of the work to be done in it. Don't make the room too big. Make a kitchen oblong so that work centers can be grouped to better advantage.

Growth and bearing of young filbert groves in Oregon are encouraging features of the filbert industry as reported from the experiment station. Many four and five year old filbert groves bore good crops of fine nuts. While by no means great profit producers, they are indications of what may be expected when plantings are kept growing steadily and vigorously.

Fried Apples and Bacon.

Thinly sliced bacon is delicious when browned under the flame of the boiler in a gas stove. It is then free of excess fat, crisp and appetizing. Good results can also be obtained by frying it in a heavy skillet draining the slices and absorbing a large part of the fat with brown paper. Apples or tomatoes can then be fried in the fat and according to the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, make a particularly attractive breakfast dish. The following recipe is suggested for fried apples and bacon: Select good tart apples. Peel and cut them in 1/2 to 1 inch cubes. Fry the bacon in a heavy skillet. As soon as the slices of bacon are crisp, remove and drain them on clean brown paper. For frying the apples you will need about one-fourth cup of the bacon fat. Put the apples in the hot bacon fat, piling them up rather high in the frying pan. Sugar to taste. Be sure you use enough sugar; apples fried this way require a little more sugar than apples fried in the ordinary way. Cover and cook slowly until tender. Then remove the cover, and turn the apples gently, so that the pieces will keep their shape. Let them brown lightly; they are then almost transparent. Place them in a hot platter and surround them with the bacon.

FOREST RANGER EXAMS HELD LATTER PART OF OCTOBER

First Since 1925—Applicants Must Be 21 and Not Over 35 Years Old—Passing Grade is 60 Points

An examination for forest ranger will be held the latter part of October, this year. Applications must be received by the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., not later than October 14, the forest service announces from its Portland Oregon, offices.

This is the first ranger examination held since 1925. Places of examination include the eight forest supervisor headquarters towns in Washington and the fourteen towns in Oregon.

The forest service points out that passing the examination does not necessarily mean an immediate appointment, since a vacancy must exist before offers are made.

Applicants must have reached their twenty-first but not their thirty-fifth birthday. Subjects examined on are education and mental tests, practical experience relative to duties of position of ranger and experience; the first two have weights of 40 points each, the last, 20; the passing grade is 60.

Ex-service men must attach to their applications their original discharge or photostat or certified copy thereof.

Positions should ranger pass carry salaries from $1620 to $2,000 in the United States and from $1900 to $2500 in Alaska.

Applicants should apply direct to the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., for form 2600 and state that the examination is for forest ranger.

New England Atmosphere With 1926 Improvements

ANY one who has ever motored through the quiet sleepy towns of New England has fallen in love with the small houses that abound in that section of the country—neat, white, unpretentious and with a touch of reserve about them. Just such a house is the one pictured here. It is equally adaptable for town or country, and by merely shifting the living and entrance porches around can be built on a wide or narrow lot without spoiling its architectural beauty.

The house is sturdily built and has an exterior of wood siding except for the unusual stucco panels that start at the level of the second floor windows. The roof is of stained shingles, preferably moss green, in keeping with the window shutters. A house of this compact style is very easy to heat, especially when the specifications call for insulation throughout with celotex, which prevents heat leakage, and keeps the house cool in the summer.

The living and dining rooms are here combined into one large room flooded with light by windows on three sides. The two bedrooms on the second floor each have double exposure and an extra large closet in which a window may be placed.
