EAST MAUPIN NEWS

Marion Lister is visiting at The Dalles this week.

Hugo (Dad) Fischer is back on the job again, after a spell of sickness.

Laverne Fischer and Ernest Troutman are after ducks at Klamath lakes.

The Farghers shipped 250 head of sheep to the Portland stockyards on Saturday.

Clyde Whitlock from Terrebonne, was visiting with friends in East Maupin last week.

Work must be scarce on this side when one of our young men hires out to herd hogs.

The sheep herders are slowly drifting in at East Maupin. Big Buck McMillan arrived and stayed in town over Sunday, while Little Ram Hornquist has been here for some time, arranging for the convention of herders, slated to be held here before long.

W. H. Williams and wife ate Thanksgiving dinner with their son, John, and wife, last Thursday.

Earl Caton was at Bend on business the first of the week. Mrs. Phil Starr is assisting Mrs. Caton with the hotel work.

Sacrificed His Beard.

Lawrence Powell has sacrificed the flowing beard which he allowed to grow during a spell of sickness. He left an imperial sticking under his lip for a time, but now has had that hirsute appendage removed. As a consequence he looks like himself again.

Try Stovall's cold treatment. Every bottle guaranteed to do the work or money refunded. For sale at the Maupin Drug Store.

Pneumonia Threatens.

George Tillotson caught a cold while on his way home from Portland Sunday evening and Monday was compelled to take to his bed. Dr. Elwood was called and reported that our popular school clerk was threatened with pneumonia. He is pulling through all right and soon will be at his accustomed place at the garage.

PICKED UP ABOUT TOWN

It sometimes occurs that the best mentally balanced people lose their equipoise and become an object of merriment on the part of others. Such an incident occurred in a city service station one night last week. A certain sedate educator dropped in the station that evening for a few minutes' conversation. He sat down, not noticing what covered the seat. Upon arising he discovered that a sheet of sticky fly paper adhered to the seat of his trousers. When the fact was made known to him he pulled the paper off, then again sat down, this time on a newspaper. Of course, when he again arose, he had another paper attachment, all of which was cause for great mental perturbation.

Turkey Raffles, Shoots and Card

playing occupied the attention of many Maupin men last Wednesday. The shoot on the hill supplied several with Thanksgiving birds, while raffles, freeze-out and "spit in the sea," were the means employed by many who sought to win the piece de resistance for the holiday dinner table.

Chivalry is not dead, at least not so one would notice. That was proven one evening last week when a party of young men and women called at the place of employment of another man and proceeded to "do him up brown." The visitors claimed the chastised one had been "spilling" stories detrimental to the character of some young ladies and took it upon themselves to teach a salutary lesson to the one accused.

Frank Lister is not forgetful of the days when the rifle was the chief means of getting food, neither has he lost his eye for close shooting. He showed up several of the 'expert' riflemen at the turkey shoot on Wednesday and walked off with a pair of fine Thanksgiving birds as the result of his skill with the implement that made Daniel Boone famous.

R. W. Richmond is a persistent as a cat at a rat hole. Some time ago he became imbued with the idea there was money in musk rats. He investigated sites for the rat farm farther east in this state, but could not find just what he wanted. Later he heard of a place on the reservation and last week Saturday went to see it. He was so favorably impressed that he is about to close a lease for forty acres, which he proposes to fence and stock with breeding musk rats. With him are other Maupinites who will invest, leaving Richmond to take care of the farm.

According to report the new Ford car is a "humdinger." George Tillotson viewed an initial specimen of the new creation at Portland last week end and reports that the car is a wonder of the manufacturers art. The new boat has all the ear marks of a regular automobile, being supplied with a good motor, while the body resembles those of several high priced cars.

Fishing for this season is about done with. The river is roaring with high water and is carrying a plentiful supply of mud, all of which is not conducive to good fishing. Tom Henneghan and The Times man are among those whose disappointment with conditions is acute, and they will confine their trout catching to the smaller streams until November 29.

Visiting in Washington.

F. C. Butler and wife left on day last for Snoqualmie Falls, W.

Former Carrying Mail.

substituted for Carl day last for Snoqualmie Falls, W. visit while Mr. P... was ill... account of the death of his mother. The reverend gentleman has substituted several times and is thoroughly familiar with the route and the duties of the position.

SPECIAL OVERHAUL PRICES

As this is the dull season of the year and we desire to keep our shop force busy, we have decided to offer special inducements to car owners who want their cars overhauled and placed in shape for next year's use. Come in and let us tell you just what we will do the work for you. Remember our prices will be lower than those charged in the busy season.
